Irish and Scottish Encounters with Indigenous Peoples Graeme Morton, David A. Wilson, 2013-05-01 The expansion of the British Empire during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries created the greatest mass migration in human history in which the Irish and Scots played a central complex and controversial role The essays in this volume explore the diverse encounters Irish and Scottish migrants had with Indigenous peoples in North America and Australasia The Irish and Scots were among the most active and enthusiastic participants in what one contributor describes as the greatest single period of land theft cultural pillage and casual genocide in world history At the same time some settlers attempted to understand Indigenous society rather than destroy it while others incorporated a romanticized view of Natives into a radical critique of European society and others still empathized with Natives as fellow victims of imperialism These essays investigate the extent to which the condition of being Irish and Scottish affected settlers attitudes to Indigenous peoples and examine the political social religious cultural and economic dimensions of their interactions Presenting a variety of viewpoints the editors reach the provocative conclusion that the Scottish and Irish origins of settlers were less important in determining attitudes and behaviour than were the specific circumstances in which those settlers found themselves at different times and places in North America Australia and New Zealand Contributors include Donald Harman Akenson Queen's John Eastlake College Cork Marjory Harper Aberdeen Andrew Hinson Toronto Michele Holmgren Mount Royal Kevin Hutchings Northern British Columbia Anne Lederman Royal Conservatory of Music Patricia A McCormack Alberta Mark G McGowan Toronto Ann McGrath Australian National Cian T McMahon Nevada Graeme Morton Guelph Michael Newton Xavier P draig Siadhail Saint Mary's Brad Patterson Victoria University of Wellington Beverly Soloway Lakehead and David A Wilson Toronto Ishi's Brain: In Search of Americas Last "Wild" Indian Orin Starn, 2005-06-17 From the mountains of California to a forgotten steel vat at the Smithsonian this eloquent and soul searching book Lit is a compelling account of one of American anthropology's strangest saddest chapters Archaeology After the Yahi were massacred in the mid nineteenth century Ishi survived alone for decades in the mountains of northern California wearing skins and hunting with bow and arrow His capture in 1911 made him a national sensation anthropologist Alfred Kroeber declared him the world's most uncivilized man and made Ishi a living exhibit in his museum. Thousands came to see the displaced Indian before his death of tuberculosis. Ishi's Brain follows Orin Starn's gripping quest for the remains of the last of the Yahi. Chimariko Grammar Carmen Jany, 2009-10-01 The Chimariko language now extinct was spoken in Trinity County California. This reference grammar based on data collected by Harrington in the 1920s represents the most comprehensive description of the language. Written from a functional typological perspective, this work also examines language contact in Northern California, showing that grammatical traits are often shared among genetically unrelated languages in geographically contiguous areas. The Oxford History of Literary Translation in English: Peter France, Kenneth Haynes, 2006-02-23 Translation has played a vital part in the history of literature throughout the English-speaking world. Offering for the first time a comprehensive view of this phenomenon, this pioneering five-volume work casts a vivid new light on the history of English literature. Incorporating critical discussion of translations, it explores the changing nature and function of translation and the social and intellectual milieu of the translators. Biographical Memoirs National Academy of Sciences, 1997-05-23 Biographic Memoirs Volume 71 contains the biographies of deceased members of the National Academy of Sciences and bibliographies of their published works. Each biographical essay was written by a member of the Academy familiar with the professional career of the deceased. For historical and bibliographical purposes, these volumes are worth returning to time and again. Memoirs of an Editor Edward Page Mitchell, 1924 Autobiography of Edward Page Mitchell, an American editorial and short story writer for The Sun. Béaloideas, 1941 And Along Came Boas Regna Darnell, 1998-01-01 The advent of Franz Boas on the North American scene irrevocably redirected the course of Americanist anthropology. This volume documents the revolutionary character of the theoretical and methodological standpoint introduced by Boas and his first generation of students, among whom linguist Edward Sapir was among the most distinguished. Virtually all of the classic Boasians were at least part-time linguists alongside their ethnological work. During the crucial transitional period beginning with the founding of the Bureau of American Ethnology in 1879, there were as many continuities as discontinuities between the work of Boas and that of John Wesley Powell and his Bureau. Boas shared with Powell a commitment to the study of aboriginal languages, to a symbolic definition of culture, to ethnography based on texts, to historical reconstruction on linguistic grounds, and to mapping the linguistic and cultural diversity of native North America. The obstacle to Boas's vision of anthropology was not the Bureau but the archaeological and museum establishment centred in Washington D.C. and in Boston. Moreover, the scientific revolution was concluded not when Boas began to teach at Columbia University in New York in 1897 but around 1920 when the first generation Boasians dominated the discipline in institutional as well as theoretical terms. The impact of Boas is explored in terms of theoretical positions, interactional networks of scholars and institutions within which anthropological work was carried out. The volume shows how collaboration of universities and museums gradually gave way to an academic centre for anthropology in North America in line with the professionalization of American science along German lines during the late 19th and early 20th centuries The author is Professor of Anthropology and Director of the Centre for Research and Teaching of Canadian Native Languages at the University of Western Ontario Canada She is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada
