African Vodun Suzanne Preston Blier, 1995 This book will be of critical importance not only to those concerned with African African American and Caribbean art but also to anthropologists scholars of the African diaspora students of comparative religion and comparative psychology and anyone fascinated by the traditions of vodou and vodun Jacket A global history of early modern violence Erica Charters, Marie Houlemare, Peter H. Wilson, 2021-01-26 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license This is the first extensive analysis of large scale violence and the methods of its restraint in the early modern world Using examples from Asia Africa the Americas and Europe it questions the established narrative that violence was only curbed through the rise of western style nation states and civil societies Global history allows us to reframe and challenge traditional models for the history of violence and to rethink categories and units of analysis through comparisons By decentring Europe and exploring alternative patterns of violence the contributors to this volume articulate the significance of violence in narratives of state and empire building as well as in their failure and decline while also providing new means of tracing the transition from the early modern to modernity

Peabody Institute. Library, George Peabody Library, 1904 To Tell a Free Story William L. Andrews, 2022-10-17 To Tell A Free Story traces in unprecedented detail the history of Black autobiography from the colonial era through Emancipation Beginning with the 1760 narrative by Briton Hammond William L. Andrews explores first person public writings by Black Americans Andrews includes but also goes beyond slave narratives to analyze spiritual biographies criminal confessions captivity stories travel accounts interviews and memoirs As he shows Black writers continuously faced the fact that northern whites often refused to accept their stories and memories as sincere and especially distrusted portraits of southern whites as inhuman Black writers had to silence parts of their stories or rely on subversive methods to make facts tellable while contending with the sensibilities of the white editors publishers and readers they relied upon and hoped to reach

Harsh Collection of Afro-American History and Literature, the Chicago Public Library Chicago Public Library, 1978 The Bonds of Kinship in Dahomey Jessica Catherine Reuther, 2025-01-07 From the 1720s to the 1940s parents in the kingdom and later colony of Dahomey now the Republic of Benin developed and sustained the common practice of girl fostering or entrusting Transferring their daughters at a young age into foster homes Dahomeans created complex relationships of mutual obligation kinship and caregiving that also exploited girls labor for the economic benefit of the women who acted as their social mothers Drawing upon oral tradition historic images and collective memories Jessica Reuther pieces together the fragmentary glimpses of girls lives contained in colonial archives within the framework of traditional understandings about entrustment Placing these girls and their social mothers at the center of history brings to light their core contributions to local and global political economies even as the Dahomean monarchy global trade and colonial courts reshaped girlhood norms and fostering practices Reuther reveals that the social economic and political changes wrought by the expansion of Dahomey in the eighteenth century the shift to legitimate trade in agricultural products in the nineteenth century and the imposition of French colonialism in the twentieth all fundamentally altered and were altered by the intimate practice of entrusting female children between households Dahomeans also valorized this process as a crucial component of being well raised a sentiment that continues into the present despite widespread Beninese opposition to modern day forms of child labor A Critical Dictionary of English Literature and British and American Authors Samuel Austin Allibone, 1899 Subject to Others (Routledge Revivals) Moira Ferguson, 2014-08-01 First published in 1992 Subject to Others considers the intersection between late seventeenth to early nineteenth century British female writers and the colonial debate surrounding slavery and abolition

Beginning with an overview that sets the discussion in context Moira Ferguson then chronicles writings by Anglo Saxon women and one African Caribbean ex slave woman from between 1670 and 1834 on the abolition of the slave trade and the emancipation of slaves Through studying the writings of around thirty women in total Ferguson concludes that white British women as a result of their class position religious affiliation and evolving conceptions of sexual difference constructed a colonial discourse about Africans in general and slaves in particular Crucially the feminist propensity to align with anti slavery activism helped to secure the political self liberation of white British women A fascinating and detailed text this volume will be of particular interest to undergraduate students researching colonial British female writers early feminist discourse and the anti slavery debate
