The Dublin Review Nicholas Patrick Wiseman, 1887      The Naval Policy of Austria-Hungary, 1867-1918 Lawrence Sondhaus, 1994

The Austro Hungarian navy warrants recognition because it functioned far better than most organs of the multinational Habsburg state. Ultimately in the pre World War I age of navalism the fleet provided a unique common cause for a wide variety of nationalities and political parties. Dramatic funding increases fueled the expansion of the fleet and lucrative naval contracts judiciously distributed reinforced and further broadened the navy's base of support. Though often criticized by its German ally the Austro Hungarian navy succeeded in defending the Adriatic throughout World War I in the process requiring the constant attention of a significant share of enemy sea power as late as the spring of 1918 an American admiral characterized the Adriatic as an Austrian lake. The navy collapsed only when Austria Hungary as a whole disintegrated in the last days of the war. This detailed study charts the uneven growth of the Austro Hungarian navy from its high point following Archduke Ferdinand Max's administration and the War of 1866 to its ultimate dissolution after World War I. In following this development Sondhaus not only relates the operational aspects of the Habsburg navy but also traces the growth of popular navalism in Austria Hungary the role of naval expansion in stimulating industrial development and the peculiar difficulties of navy commanders in dealing with the Habsburg nationality problem and the cumbersome politics of Austro Hungarian dualism. Drawing on a vast variety of archival sources and government documents and protocols Sondhaus analyzes economic factors carefully and shows how these tended to complicate perhaps even to override political divisions. He ably demonstrates how such varied factors as the wavering policy of Italy French naval theory the need for consensus within the Dual Monarchy and the general European escalation in naval armaments influenced the fortunes of the fleet.
