Presenting The Past Pb Critical Perspectives On The P:

The Presented Past B. L. Molyneaux, P. G. Stone, 2003-09-02 The Presented Past is concerned with the differences between the comparatively static well understood way in which the past is presented in schools museums and at historic sites compared to the approaches currently being explored in contemporary archaeology It challenges the all too frequent representation of the past as something finished understood and objective rather than something that is constructed and therefore open to co existing interpretations and constant re interpretation Central to the book is the belief that the presentation of the past in school curricula and in museum and site interpretations will benefit from a greater use of non documentary sources derived from archaeological study and oral histories The book suggests that a view of the past incorporating a larger body of evidence and a wider variety of understanding will help to invigorate the way history is taught The Presented Past will be of interest to teachers archaeologists cultural resource managers in fact anyone who is concerned with how the past is presented

Premenstrual Syndrome Benson Ginsburg, 2012-12-06 As the work on a revised edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual OSM IIIR progressed a great controversy grew over the inclusion of a new diagnostic category Premenstrual Phase Dysphoric Disorder Some nosologists and scientists who study premenstrual syndrome PMS felt that while a specific psychiatric disorder does exist it occurs relatively rarely The disorder can be characterized by recurrent periods of dysphoria on a monthly basis in synchrony with the menstrual period PMS already exists as a diagnosis in ICD 9 the international medical nomenclature The category for DSM IIIR was to be a specific psychiatric disorder concentrating on the dysphoric reaction and not including all of the physical and mental symptoms that people have ascribed to this condition Much of the controversy that ensued had little to do with the diagnostic category or the condition itself Rather it concerned feelings voiced by feminist groups that the new diagnostic category would be misleading that it would inappropriately label women as mentally ill and that it would be affixed not only to the dysphoric disorder but everything else that happens psychiatrically to women

Critical Perspectives on Aging Meredith Minkler, Carroll Estes, 2020-11-25 This unique volume brings together 20 critical essays on aging within the context of the broad social political and economic factors that help shape and determine the realities of growing old Rather than viewing aging in isolation it explores the social creation of old age dependency and the profound influence of race gender and social class on what it means to grow old It looks too at such topics as the biomedicalization of aging the role of business and the media in changing societal images of the old the fact and fiction behind senior power the multibillion dollar nursing home industry and the role of advanced capitalist nations in creating economic dependency among elders in the Third World

Place Marketing and Temporality Gary Warnaby, 2024-06-26 Much city marketing and branding activity is future oriented aimed at achieving a forward looking vision for places The aim of this activity is to attract visitors residents and or inward investment and focus on communicating attractive place attributes to create a differentiated spatial product that will appeal to particular target audiences In seeking to achieve this place marketing campaigns have been criticized for emphasizing generic attributes such as accessibility infrastructure and a skilled workforce which can serve to homogenize places which in reality are very different However a city's distinctive character is a consequence of its history and development over time and this book analyses the role of these temporal dimensions in place marketing and branding The book analyses how the past both material i.e. the historic built environment and intangible i.e. routines practices and the character of the populace is appropriated in order to sell the city into the future It acknowledges the inherent selectivity involved and discusses the factors influencing what is remembered from the past and equally importantly what is forgotten Adopting a range of theoretical approaches to understanding temporality in this context the book will appeal to advanced students academic researchers and reflexive place branding practitioners by introducing a temporal paradox incorporating both fixity the material and immaterial elements of the city's past and fluidity relating to the creation of the place product as a dynamic assemblage of individual elements and attributes aimed at particular target audiences
