Presidential Campaign Film A Critical History:

The Presidential Campaign Film Joanne Morreale, 1996-02-16 Morreale traces the development of the documentary films produced for presidential candidates from Calvin Coolidge in 1923 to George Bush and Bill Clinton in 1992 The work provides insight into today's visually oriented presidential campaign by analyzing the production of candidates' images as the films evolve from classical to modern forms Campaign films are usually overlooked by campaign scholars yet they provide the fullest available visual portrait of a candidate during a campaign they encapsulate persuasive appeals and strategies and they illustrate Republican and Democratic candidates' different approaches to mediated communication Morreale concludes that presidential campaign films provide a lens through which we can view both changes and continuities in American politics and culture Recommended for scholars and students of communication political science and history     The 2012 Presidential Campaign Robert E. Denton Jr., 2013-07-29 Presidential campaigns are our national conversations the widespread and complex communication of issues images social reality and personas Political communication specialists break down the 2012 presidential campaign and go beyond the quantitative facts electoral counts and poll results of the election to make sense of the political bits of communication that comprise our voting choices The contributors look at the early campaign period the nomination process and conventions the social and political contexts the debates the role of candidate spouses candidate strategies political strategies and the use of the Internet and other technologies     The 2004 Presidential Campaign Robert E. Denton Jr., 2005-07-28 Political communication specialists break down the 2004 presidential campaign and go beyond the quantitative facts electoral counts and poll results of the election Factoring in everything from 527 groups to Fahrenheit 9/11 they look at the early campaign period the nomination process conventions social and political contexts the debates the role of candidate spouses candidate strategies political advertising and the use of the Internet This enlightening book shows why more technology doesn't always mean more effective communication and how we collect political bits of communication that comprise our voting choices worldviews and legislative desires     Film and the American Presidency Jeff Menne, Christian B. Long, 2015-02-20 The contention of Film and the American Presidency is that over the twentieth century the cinema has been a silent partner in setting the parameters of what we might call the presidential imaginary This volume surveys the partnership in its longevity placing stress on especially iconic presidents such as Lincoln and FDR The contributions to this collection probe the rich interactions between these high institutions of culture and politics Hollywood and the presidency and argue that not only did Hollywood acting become an idiom for presidential style but that Hollywood early on understood its own identity through the presidency's peculiar mix of national epic and unified protagonist Additionally they contend that studios often made their films to sway political outcomes that the performance of presidential personae has been constrained by the kinds of bodies for so long white and male that have occupied the office such that presidential embodiment obscures the body politic and that Hollywood and the presidency may finally be nothing more than two privileged figures of media age

Benson, Brian J Snee, 2008-05-23 The Rhetoric of the New Political Documentary explores the most visible and volatile element in the 2004 presidential campaign the partisan documentary film This collection of original critical essays by leading scholars and critics including Shawn J and Trevor Parry Giles Jennifer L Borda and Martin J Medhurst analyzes a selection of political documentaries that appeared during the 2004 election season The editors examine the new political documentary with the tools of rhetorical criticism combining close textual analysis with a consideration of the historical context and the production and reception of the films The essays address the distinctive rhetoric of the new political documentary with the films typically having been shot with relatively low budgets in video and using interviews and stock footage rather than observation of uncontrolled behavior The quality was often good enough and interest was sufficiently intense that the films were shown in theaters and on television which provided legitimacy and visibility before they were released soon afterwards on DVD and VHS and marketed on the Internet The volume reviews such films as Michael Moore s Fahrenheit 9 11 two refutations of Moore s film Fahrenhype 9 11 and Celsius 41 11 Unprecedented The 2000 Presidential Election and George W Bush Faith in the White House films that experimented with a variety of angles and rhetorics from a mix of comic disparagement and earnest confrontation to various emulations of traditional news and documentary voices The Rhetoric of the New Political Documentary represents the continued transformation of American political discourse in a partisan and contentious time and showcases the independent voices and the political power brokers that struggled to find new ways to debate the status quo and employ surrogate independents to create a counterrhetoric     The Millennium Election Lynda Lee Kaid, 2003 The Millennium Election highlights some of the most important campaign communication from the 2000 elections looking at candidates political messages the media s campaign coverage the impact of the Internet and the political socialization of young voters The authors show that we still have much to learn about traditional candidate voter interactions as well as new forms of political communication and these forms must work together to engage a new generation of voters controversy across the United States Repeatedly analyzed in countless books and articles the spot purportedly destroyed Goldwater's presidential campaign Although that degree of impact on the Goldwater campaign is debatable what is certain is that the ad ushered in a new era of political advertising using emotional appeals as a routine aspect of campaign strategy

Meet the Candidate Videos John Parmelee,2003-03-30 Parmelee shows how presidential primary campaign videocassettes serve many functions for candidates on their road to the White House These videocassettes which include images and issues often based on polling data and focus groups are sent out before the primaries to battleground states to establish an initial image of the candidate A variety of methods are used to explore the videocassettes of the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates Gary Bauer Bill Bradley George W Bush Steve Forbes Al Gore and John McCain who released presidential primary meet the candidate videos during the 2000 race Frame analysis quantitative content analysis and in depth interviews with the producers of these videos were employed to provide answers to Parmelee's main research question What function do candidate videos serve in presidential primary campaigns Findings indicate that these videos which can run from 5 to 20 minutes in length serve a clear educational function to explain the candidates stand on key policy issues The videos which are mailed to voters journalists and potential donors and shown to Democratic and GOP faithful at party functions also serve as fundraisers surrogate speakers and inoculators But while the videos share some common functions each campaign targets its video to a slightly different audience based on the campaign's overall strategy Of particular interest to scholars students and other researchers involved with American presidential politics and political communications

The Art of Political Storytelling Philip Seargeant,2020-05-14 In our post truth world tapping into people's emotions has proved far more effective than rational argument and as Philip Seargeant argues in this illuminating and entertaining book the most powerful tool for manipulating emotions is a gripping narrative From Trump's America to Brexit Britain weaving a good story featuring fearless protagonists challenging quests against seemingly insurmountable odds and soundbite after soundbite of memorable dialogue has been at the heart of political success So does an understanding of the art of storytelling help explain today's successful political movements Can it translate into a blueprint for victory at the ballot box The Art of Political Storytelling looks at how stories are created shared and contested illuminating the pivotal role that persuasive storytelling plays in shaping our understanding of the political world we live in By mastering the tools and tricks of narrative and evaluating the language and rhetorical strategies used to craft and enact them Seargeant explains how and why today's combination of new media populism and partisanship makes storytelling an ever more important part of the persuasive and political process In doing so the book offers an original and compelling way of understanding the chaotic world of today's politics

The Political Communication Reader Ralph Negrine,James Stanyer,2023-04-28 The Political Communication Reader gathers together key writings in a unique one volume resource The selected texts are grouped into thematic sections each introduced by the editors covering such areas as the exercise of power
