choices even at near native proficiency Grounded in the tradition of transfer research and in the research program in generative grammar the evidence presented shows the distribution of noun noun compounds such as the love song and phrasal noun combinations such as the song about love in interlanguage data These two patterns it is argued are systematically related by determiner properties and the process of noun incorporation Obtained from a multi task cross sectional experiment the data illustrates that learners with Czech as their first language use phrasal constructs the song about love significantly more often in production than learners with Mandarin Chinese as their first language whose preferred choice are noun noun compounds the love song The differences between the learner groups reflect the use of overt case marking in the first language Czech and the absence of overt case marking in the first language Mandarin Chinese
