Home and the World Yuming He, 2020-10-26 China's sixteenth and seventeenth centuries saw an unprecedented explosion in the production and circulation of woodblock printed books. What can surviving traces of that era's print culture reveal about the makers and consumers of these books? Home and the World addresses this question by carefully examining a wide range of late Ming books, considering them not merely as texts but as material objects and economic commodities designed, produced, and marketed to stand out in the distinctive book marketplace of the time and promising high enjoyment and usefulness to readers. Although many of the mass market commercial imprints studied here might have struck scholars from the eighteenth century on as too trivial, lowbrow, or slipshod to merit serious study, they prove to be an invaluable resource providing insight into their readers' orientations toward the increasingly complex global stage of early modernity and toward traditional Chinese conceptions of textual, political, and moral authority. On a more intimate scale, they tell us about readers' ideals of a fashionable and pleasurable private life. Through studying these works, we come closer to recapturing the trend-conscious, sophisticated, and often subversive ways readers at this important moment in China's history imagined their world and their place within it. 2015 Joseph Levenson Book Prize, Pre-1900 Category, China and Inner Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies

Educating Immigrants Joti Bhatnagar, 2017-07-20 Originally published in 1981, Immigrant Children often have significant ethnic, linguistic, and cultural differences from children of the host country and require special teaching arrangements. This book is a country-by-country survey of this problem. Each chapter begins by examining the general background to the problem, outlining the nature and extent of immigration in the country in question and portraying the relationships between immigrant groups and the indigenous population. Each chapter then considers how children's academic performance, social relations, self-esteem, and academic and vocational expectations are affected by their immigrant status and concludes by describing and analysing the special educational programmes adopted to help immigrant children.

Handbook of Field Experiments Esther Duflo, Abhijit Banerjee, 2017-03-21 Handbook of Field Experiments, Volume Two explains how to conduct experimental research, presents a catalog of research to date, and describes which areas remain to be explored. The new volume includes sections on field experiments in education in developing countries, how to design social protection programs, a section on how to combat poverty, and updates on data relating to the impact and determinants of health levels in low-income countries. Separating itself from circumscribed debates of specialists, this volume surpasses the many journal articles and narrowly defined books written by practitioners. This ongoing series will be of particular interest to scholars working with experimental methods. Users will find results from politics, education, and more. Balances methodological insights with analyses of principal findings and suggestions for further research. Appeals broadly to social scientists seeking to develop an expertise in field experiments. Written in a language that is accessible to graduate students and non-specialist economists
