Communication Theory Reader Paul Cobley,1996 This collection of readings is designed to provide easy access to Communication Theory Many of the essays in the Reader have previously been difficult to obtain and many have appeared in contexts where their relevance for communications media and cultural studies was not immediately apparent The Reader presents the most important work which has shaped the field as it stands today The articles are grouped in subject sections with an editor s introduction indications of further reading together with a glossary and comprehensive bibliography

Reconstructing Contexts Robert D. Hume,1999 This book attempts to justify and theorize old historicism defining archaeo historicism as a method by which scholars can reconstruct past context in order to apply it to the interpretation of works and events of that time If such reconstruction is to be more than wildly impressionistic it must be grounded in hard evidence handled according to clear rules In this intriguing and rigorous analysis Robert Hume identifies legitimate objects for reconstruction and proposes procedures and principles by which such interpretation may be pursued He then examines the failures of the same method which works only when adequate evidence can be found In particular Hume flatly denies the intellectual legitimacy of literary history as it is commonly practised and attempts to disentangle such history from the practice of historicism The final chapter is devoted to a cogent discussion of how archaeo historicism relates to various forms of contemporary theory Hume offers a profusion of examples of good and bad historicist reconstruction and interpretation drawing largely on English literature but also on American and other world literatures theatre history and music theory Although addressed primarily to literary critics this wide ranging and bold work will be of interest to historians and cultural critics as well

Ecocritical Theory Axel Goodbody,Kate Rigby,2011-09-13 One of the more frequently lodged serious and justifiable complaints about ecocritical work is that it is insufficiently theorized Ecocritical Theory puts such claims decisively to rest by offering readers a comprehensive collection of sophisticated but accessible essays that productively investigate the relationship between European theory and ecocritique With its international roster of contributors and subjects it also militates against the parochialism of ecocritics who work within the limited canon of the American West Bringing together approaches and orientations based on the work of European philosophers and cultural theorists this volume is designed to open new pathways for ecocritical theory and practice in the twenty first century

Rhine Crossings Aminia M. Brueggemann, Peter Schulman, 2006-06-01. Rhine Crossings explores the conflicts and resolutions that have characterized the relationship between France and Germany over the past two centuries. Despite their varying outlooks on life and style, the French esprit and the German wesen and despite three bloody wars, the Franco-Prussian and the two world wars, there has always been and still is a vital intellectual, political and cultural exchange between these former archenemies. The essays in this book detail the admiration and antagonism in French and German attempts to seek each other out while keeping their individual senses of self. Focusing on representative works of literature, film and philosophy, the contributors identify the problems vexing these countries: war, economic competition as well as possible solutions, the Maastricht treaty, increasing youth exchange. From the literary salons of the eighteenth century to the trenches of the twentieth, from a love-hate relationship to one of cooperation and peace, this book investigates the unique and volatile dialectic between these two nations and cultures.

Monet, Narcissus, and Self-Reflection Steven Zalman Levine, 1994. Steven Z. Levine provides a new understanding of the life and work of Claude Monet and the myth of the modern artist. Levine analyzes the extensive critical reception of Monet and the artist's own prolific writings in the context of the story of Narcissus, popular in late nineteenth century France. Through a careful blending of psychoanalytical theory and historical study, Levine identifies narcissism and obsession as driving forces in Monet's art and demonstrates how we derive meaning from the accumulated verbal responses to an artist's work

Sex in Imagined Spaces Caitriona Dhuill, 2017-07-05 From Thomas More onwards writers of utopias have constructed alternative models of society as a way of commenting critically on existing social orders In the utopian alternative the sex gender system of the contemporary society may be either reproduced or radically re-organised Reading utopian writing as a dialogue between reality and possibility this study examines the relationship between historical sex gender systems and those envisioned by utopian texts Surveying a broad range of utopian writing from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries including Huxley Zamyatin Wedekind Hauptmann and Charlotte Perkins Gilman this book reveals the variety and complexity of approaches to re-arranging gender and locates these re-arrangements within contemporary debates on sex and reproduction masculinity and femininity desire taboo and family structure These issues occupy a position of central importance in the dialogue between utopian imagination and anti-utopian thought which culminates in the great dystopias of the twentieth century and the postmodern re-invention of utopia
