Readings In Linguistics I 4ed:

Readings in linguistics. I. 4th ed. Edited by Martin Joos American Council of Learned Societies (WASHINGTON, D.C.). Committee on Language Programs, Martin Joos, 1966 American Linguistics in Transition Frederick J. Newmeyer, 2022-06-16 This volume is devoted to a major chapter in the history of linguistics in the United States the period from the 1930s to the 1980s and focuses primarily on the transition from post Bloomfieldian structural linguistics to early generative grammar The first three chapters in the book discuss the rise of structuralism in the 1930s the interplay between American and European structuralism and the publication of Joos's Readings in Linguistics in 1957 Later chapters explore the beginnings of generative grammar and the reaction to it from structural linguists how generativists made their ideas more widely known the response to generativism in Europe and the resistance to the new theory by leading structuralists which continued into the 1980s The final chapter demonstrates that contrary to what has often been claimed generative grammarians were not in fact organizationally dominant in the field in the United States in the 1970s and 1980s Time Map Phonology J. Carson-Berndsen, 2013-03-14 This book is a revised version of my doctoral thesis which was submitted in April 1993 The main extension is a chapter on evaluation of the system described in Chapter 8 as this is clearly an issue which was not treated in the original version This required the collection of data the development of a concept for diagnostic evaluation of linguistic word recognition systems and of course the actual evaluation of the system itself The revisions made primarily concern the presentation of the latest version of the SILPA system described in an additional Subsection 8.3 the development environment for SILPA in Section 8.4 the diagnostic evaluation of the system as an additional Chapter 9 Some updates are included in the discussion of phonology and computation in Chapter 2 and finite state techniques in computational phonology in Chapter 3 The thesis was designed primarily as a contribution to the area of computational phonology However it addresses issues which are relevant within the disciplines of general linguistics computational linguistics and in particular speech technology in providing a detailed declarative computationally interpreted linguistic model for application in spoken language processing Time Map Phonology is a novel constraint based approach based on a two stage temporal interpretation of phonological categories as events Grammar and Dialogism Susanne Günthner, Wolfgang Imo, Jörg Bückler, 2014-10-29 This volume aims at analyzing the relationship between the dialogical accomplishment of spoken talk in interaction on the one hand and entrenched patterns of linguistic and socio cultural knowledge constructions frames and communicative genres on the other The contributions analyze linguistic patterns in different languages such as English French German and Swedish Methodologically they take up the usage based position that structural and functional aspects of language use need to be studied empirically and bottom up Since grammatical structure arises as the entrenched result of recurrent language use its study should start with the local organization of natural talk in interaction before moving on to more complex and abstract relationships between linguistic structure linguistic meaning and socio cultural activity event patterns Furthermore they argue that Dialogism provides a promising starting point for a usage based approach to linguistic patterns as both emerging i e constructed in response to the situational circumstances of talk in interaction and emergent i e constructed with regard to symbolic units as parts of socially and culturally shared knowledge The Language of the Inka since the European Invasion Bruce Mannheim,2013-08-26 The Inka empire Tawantinsuyu fell to Spanish invaders within a year s time 1532 1533 but Quechua the language of the Inka is still the primary or only language of millions of Inka descendants throughout the southern Andes In this innovative study Bruce Mannheim synthesizes all that is currently known about the history of Southern Peruvian Quechua since the Spanish invasion providing new insights into the nature of language change in general into the social and historical contexts of language change and into the cultural conditioning of linguistic change Mannheim first discusses changes in the social setting of language use in the Andes from the time of the first European contact in the sixteenth century until today He reveals that the modern linguistic homogeneity of Spanish and Quechua is a product of the Spanish conquest since multilingualism was the rule in the Inka empire He identifies the social and political forces that have influenced the kinds of changes the language has undergone And he provides the first synthetic history of Southern Peruvian Quechua making it possible at last to place any literary document or written text in a chronological and social context Mannheim also studies changes in the formal structure of Quechua He finds that changes in the sound system were motivated primarily by phonological factors and also that the changes were constrained by a set of morphological and syntactic conditions This last conclusion is surprising since most historical linguists assume that sound change is completely independent of other aspects of language Thus The Language of the Inka since the European Invasion makes an empirical contribution to a general theory of linguistic change Written in an engaging style that is accessible to the nonlinguist this book will have a special appeal to readers interested in the history and anthropology of native South America Phonological Variants and Dialect
