Reading on Development of Children Miller, Mary Gauvain, 1993-11-01 The Cognitive Development of Reading and Reading Comprehension Carol McDonald Connor, 2016-02-26 Learning to read may be the most complex cognitive operation that children are expected to master and the latest research in cognitive development has offered important insights into how children succeed or fail at this task. The Cognitive Development of Reading and Reading Comprehension is a multidisciplinary evidence-based resource for teachers and researchers that examines reading comprehension from a cognitive development perspective including the principal theories and methods used in the discipline. The book combines research into basic cognitive processes: genetics, perception, memory, executive functioning, and language with an investigation of the effects that context and environment have on literacy outcomes, making clear how factors such as health, family, life, community, policy, and ecology can influence children's cognitive development. Language Development James Law, Sheena Reilly, Cristina McKean, 2022-08-25 The majority of children acquire language effortlessly but approximately 10% of all children find it difficult, especially in the early or preschool years, with consequences for many aspects of their subsequent development and experience: literacy, social skills, educational qualifications, mental health, and employment. With contributions from an international team of researchers, this book is the first to draw together a series of new analyses of data related to children's language development primarily from large scale nationally representative population studies and to bring a public health perspective to the field The book begins with a section on factors influencing the patterns of language development A second section explores continuity and change in language development over time The third explores the impact on individuals with developmental language disorders DLD the effectiveness of available interventions and broader issues about the need for equity in the delivery of services to those with DLD
