British films of the 1970s Paul Newland, 2015-11-01 British films of the 1970s offers highly detailed and insightful critical analysis of a range of individual films of the period This analysis draws upon an innovative range of critical methodologies which place the film texts within a rich variety of historical contexts The book sets out to examine British films of the 1970s in order to get a clearer understanding of two things the fragmentary state of the filmmaking culture of the period and the fragmentary nature of the nation that these films represent It argues that there is no singular narrative to be drawn about British filmmaking in the 1970s other than the fact that these films offer evidence of a Britain and ideas of Britishness characterised by vicissitudes While this was a period of struggle and instability it was also a period of openings of experiment and of new ideas Newland looks at many films including Carry On Girls O Lucky Man That'll be the Day The Shout and The Long Good Friday Popular Cinema of the Third Reich Sabine Hake, 2010-01-01 Too often dismissed as escapist entertainment or vilified as mass manipulation popular cinema in the Third Reich was in fact sustained by well established generic conventions cultural traditions aesthetic sensibilities social practices and a highly developed star system not unlike its Hollywood counterpart in the 1930s This pathfinding study contributes to the ongoing reassessment of Third Reich cinema by examining it as a social cultural economic and political practice that often conflicted with contradicted and compromised the intentions of the Propaganda Ministry Nevertheless by providing the illusion of a public sphere presumably free of politics popular cinema helped to sustain the Nazi regime especially during the war years Rather than examining Third Reich cinema through overdetermined categories such as propaganda ideology or fascist aesthetics Sabine Hake concentrates on the constituent elements shared by most popular cinemas famous stars directors and studios movie audiences and exhibition practices popular genres and new trends in set design the reception of foreign films the role of film criticism and the representation of women She pays special attention to the forced coordination of the industry in 1933 the changing demands on cinema during the war years and the various ways of coming to terms with these filmic legacies after the war Throughout Hake's findings underscore the continuities among Weimar Third Reich and post 1945 West German cinema They also emphasize the codevelopment of German and other national cinemas especially the dominant Hollywood model A Dictionary of Film Studies Annette Kuhn, Guy Westwell, 2020-04-28 A Dictionary of Film Studies covers all aspects of its discipline as it is currently taught at undergraduate level Offering exhaustive and authoritative coverage this A Z is written by experts in the field and covers terms concepts debates and movements in film theory and criticism national international and transnational cinemas film history movements and genres film industry organizations and practices and key technical terms and concepts Since its first publication in 2012 the dictionary has been updated to incorporate over 40 new entries including computer games and film disability ecocinema identity portmanteau film Practice as Research and film in Vietnam Moreover numerous revisions have been made to existing entries to account for developments in the discipline and changes to film institutions more generally Indices of films and filmmakers mentioned in the text are included for easy access to relevant entries The dictionary also has 13 feature articles on popular topics and terms revised and informative bibliographies for most entries and more than 100 web links to supplement the text Film Theory Philip Simpson, Andrew Utterson, Karen J. Shepherdson, 2004 This major new collection identifies the critical and theoretical concepts which have been most significant in the study of film and presents a historical and intellectual context for the material examined
