Bottlenecks Joseph Fishkin, 2014-01-10 Equal opportunity is a powerful idea and one with extremely broad appeal in contemporary politics political theory and law But what does it mean On close examination the most attractive existing conceptions of equal opportunity turn out to be impossible to achieve in practice or even in theory As long as families are free to raise their children differently no two people's opportunities will be equal nor is it possible to disentangle someone's abilities or talents from her background advantages and disadvantages Moreover given different abilities and disabilities different people need different opportunities confounding most ways of imagining what counts as equal This book proposes an entirely new way of thinking about the project of equal opportunity Instead of focusing on the chimera of literal equalization we ought to work to broaden the range of opportunities open to people at every stage in life We can achieve this in part by loosening the bottlenecks that constrain access to opportunities the narrow places through which people must pass in order to pursue many life paths that open out on the other side A bottleneck might be a test like the SAT a credential requirement like a college degree or a skill like speaking English It might be membership in a favored caste or racial group Bottlenecks are part of the opportunity structure of every society But their severity varies By loosening them we can build a more open and pluralistic opportunity structure in which people have more of a chance throughout their lives to pursue paths they choose for themselves rather than those dictated by limited opportunities This book develops this idea and other elements of opportunity pluralism then applies this approach to several contemporary egalitarian policy problems class and access to education workplace flexibility and work family conflict and antidiscrimination law

Protecting Human Rights and Building Peace in Post-Violence Societies Nasia Hadjigeorgiou, 2020-02-20 This book critically examines the relationship between protecting human rights and building peace in post violence societies It explores the conditions that must be present and strategies that should be adopted for the former to contribute to the latter The author argues that human rights can aid peacebuilding efforts by helping victims of past violence to articulate their grievance and by encouraging the state to respond to and provide them with a meaningful remedy This usually happens either through a process of adjudication whereby human rights can offer guidance to the judiciary as to the best way to address such grievances or through the passing and implementation of human rights laws and policies that seek to promote peace. However, this positive relationship between human rights and peace is both qualified and context specific. Through an interdisciplinary and comparative analysis of four case studies, the book identifies the conditions that can support the effective use of human rights as peacebuilding tools. Developing these, the book recommends a series of strategies that peacebuilders should adopt and rely on. Winner of the Constantinos Emilianides Award in Law for 2020 joint conferment.

Asumiendo Diferencias Environmental Design Research Association. Conference, Beatriz E. Rodríguez Villafuerte, Meldrena Chapin, 2008. Corporatism, Social Control, and Cultural Domination in Education: From the Radical Right to Globalization Joel Spring, 2012-11-27. Starting with the 1972 publication of his seminal work Education and the Rise of the Corporate State, Joel Spring has been documenting and analyzing the politics of knowledge and education. Throughout his work, he has explored the attempts to use education to advance the economic and political interests of dominant groups. The general term he uses for the relationship between schools and power is ideological management. His scholarly work first looked at the influence on American schooling of business and economic doctrines embodied in human capital theories and consumerism. The next step in his exploration of the politics of knowledge was to examine these issues in the context of globalization, leading to a proposed educational rights amendment to national constitutions and a new paradigm for education, both of which might ensure that schools are protected from ideological management by economic and political elites. Spring's indigenous background has strongly shaped his interest in the political and economic goals of schooling, particularly the attempts of those in power to use schools to destroy indigenous languages and cultures. In this collection, Spring brings together 10 of his key writings, providing an overview not just of his own career but the larger contexts in which it is situated. In the Introduction, he reviews the evolution and scope of his work and his earlier arguments and reflects on its central themes, which are reflected in the writings selected for this volume. In the World Library of Educationalists, international scholars themselves compile career-long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces: extracts from books, key articles, salient research findings, major theoretical and practical contributions, so the world can read them in a single manageable volume. Readers will be able to follow the themes and strands of their work and see their contribution to the development of a field as well as the development of the field itself. Contributors to the series include Michael Apple, James A. Banks, Stephen J. Ball, Elliot Eisner, Howard Gardner, John Gilbert, Ivor F. Goodson, Peter Jarvis. ANNA: A Language for Annotating Ada Programs David C. Luckham, 1987-07-15. This reference manual of ANNA is another volume addressed to the ADA community. ANNA is a language extension of ADA to include facilities for formally specifying the intended behavior of ADA programs. It is designed to meet a perceived need to augment ADA with precise machine-processable annotations so that well-established formal methods of specification and documentation can be applied to ADA programs. The current ANNA

design includes annotations of all ADA constructs except tasking Similar extensions for formal specification can be made to other Algol like languages such as Pascal PL 1 Concurrent Pascal and Modula essentially these extensions would be subsets of ANNA The design of ANNA was undertaken from the beginning with four principal considerations 1 Constructing annotations should be easy for the ADA programmer and should depend as much as possible on notation and concepts of ADA 2 ANNA should possess language features that are widely used in the specification and documentation of programs 3 ANNA should provide a framework within which the various established theories of formally specifying programs may be applied to ADA 4 Annotations should be equally well suited for different possible applications during the life cycle of a program Such applications include not only testing debugging and formal verification of a finished program but also specification of program parts during the earlier stages of requirements analysis and program design

Knocking on the Door

Christopher Bonastia,2010-11-16 Knocking on the Door is the first book length work to analyze federal involvement in residential segregation from Reconstruction to the present Providing a particularly detailed analysis of the period 1968 to 1973 the book examines how the U S Department of Housing and Urban Development HUD attempted to forge elementary changes in segregated residential patterns by opening up the suburbs to groups historically excluded for racial or economic reasons The door did not shut completely on this possibility until President Richard Nixon took the drastic step of freezing all federal housing funds in January 1973 Knocking on the Door assesses this near miss in political history exploring how HUD came surprisingly close to implementing rigorous antidiscrimination policies and why the agency s efforts were derailed by Nixon Christopher Bonastia shows how the Nixon years were ripe for federal action to foster residential desegregation The period was marked by new legislative protections against housing discrimination unprecedented federal involvement in housing construction and frequent judicial backing for the actions of civil rights agencies By comparing housing desegregation policies to civil rights enforcement in employment and education Bonastia offers an unrivaled account of why civil rights policies diverge so sharply in their ambition and effectiveness

Indirect Discrimination Christa Tobler,2005

The Color of Mind Derrick Darby,John L. Rury,2018-01-24 An indispensable text for understanding educational racial injustice and contributing to initiatives to mitigate it Educational Theory American students vary in educational achievement but white students in general typically have better test scores and grades than black students Why is this the case and what can school leaders do about it In The Color of Mind Derrick Darby and John L. Rury answer these pressing questions and show that we cannot make further progress in closing the achievement gap until we understand its racist origins Telling the story of what they call the Color of Mind the idea that there are racial differences in intelligence character and behavior they show how philosophers such as David Hume and Immanuel Kant and American statesman Thomas Jefferson contributed to the construction of this pernicious idea how it influenced the nature of schooling and student achievement and how voices of dissent such as Frederick Douglass Frances Ellen Watkins Harper and W E B Du Bois debunked the Color of Mind and worked to undo its adverse impacts Rejecting the view that racial differences in educational achievement are a product of innate or cultural differences Darby and Rury uncover the historical interplay between ideas about race and American schooling to show clearly that the racial achievement gap has been socially and institutionally constructed School leaders striving to bring justice and dignity to American schools today must work to root out the systemic manifestations of these ideas within schools while still doing what they can to mitigate the negative effects of poverty segregation inequality and other external factors that adversely affect student achievement While we can t expect schools alone to solve these vexing social problems we must demand that they address the injustices associated with how we track discipline and deal with special education that reinforce long standing racist ideas That is the only way to expel the Color of Mind from schools close the racial achievement gap and afford all children the dignity they deserve
