Eastern Studies Handbook of Religious Culture in Nineteenth-Century Europe Anthony Steinhoff, Jeffrey Zalar, 2024-12-30
This handbook offers a guide to research on religious culture during Europe's long nineteenth century 1800-1914. Grounded in the latest theoretical approaches and in line with trends that have produced a religious turn in the study of modern Europe, the volume assesses the state of the field while making provocative recommendations for its enlargement. Unique and ambitious in its thematic breadth, it addresses the histories of all five of Europe's main religious traditions: Eastern Orthodox Christianity, Judaism, Islam, Protestantism, and Roman Catholicism, and brings these histories into comparative analysis. This analysis extends to a wide range of subjects from popular belief and practice, education, and modern knowledge formation and the arts to the intersections between religion and urbanization, civil society and politics, and missions and imperialism. It also evaluates recent developments in work on religion vis-à-vis both gender and nationalism, while calling attention to newer research that proposes secularism as a form of belief in its own right. Presenting the scholarship of eighteen leaders in their respective fields, the volume explains why religion as a topic of research has moved from the periphery to the center of modern European historiography.

Sarajevo, 1941-1945 Emily Greble, 2011-02-25
On April 15, 1941, Sarajevo fell to Germany's 16th Motorized Infantry Division. The city, along with the rest of Bosnia, was incorporated into the Independent State of Croatia, one of the most brutal of Nazi satellite states run by the ultranationalist Croat Ustasha regime. The occupation posed an extraordinary set of challenges to Sarajevo's famously cosmopolitan culture and its civic consciousness; these challenges included humanitarian and political crises and tensions of national identity. As detailed for the first time in Emily Greble's book, the city's complex mosaic of confessions—Catholic, Orthodox, Muslim, Jewish—and ethnicities—Croat, Serb, Jew, Bosnian, Muslim, Roma—and various other national minorities began to fracture under the Ustasha regime's violent assault on Serbs, Jews, and Roma, contested categories of identity in this multiconfessional space, tearing at the city's most basic traditions. Nor was there unanimity within the various ethnic and confessional groups: some Catholic Croats detested the Ustasha regime, while others rode to power within it; Muslims quarreled about how best to position themselves for the postwar world, and some cast their lot with Hitler and joined the ill-fated Muslim Waffen SS. In time, these centripetal forces were complicated by the Yugoslav civil war, a multisided civil conflict fought among Communist Partisans, Chetniks, Serb nationalists, Ustasas, and a host of other smaller groups. The absence of military conflict in Sarajevo allows Greble to explore the different sides of civil conflict, shedding light on the ways that humanitarian crises contributed to civil tensions and the ways that marginalized groups sought political power within the shifting political system. There is much drama in these pages. In the late days of the war, the Ustasha leaders, realizing that their game was up, turned the city into a slaughterhouse before fleeing abroad. The arrival of the Communist Partisans in April 1945 ushered in a new revolutionary era, one met with caution by the townspeople. Greble tells this complex story with remarkable clarity. Throughout, she emphasizes the measures that the city's leaders took to preserve, against staggering odds, the cultural and religious pluralism that had long enabled the city's diverse populations to thrive together Russian Nationalism and the Politics of Soviet Literature S. Cosgrove, 2004-01-29 Russian nationalism increasingly important as the Russian Federation finds its place in the world is not a new phenomenon Who were the Russian nationalists before the creation of today's Russia What were their views What was their political influence This book seeks answers to these questions by looking in detail at the last decade of the USSR through the eyes of a group of Russian nationalist intellectuals gathered around the literary journal Nash sovremennik The author suggests that in the Twenty first century a specifically Russian type of nationalism ethnic and statist could provide the ideological underpinning for a new authoritarianism Eastern Christians in Anthropological Perspective Chris Hann, Hermann

Goltz, 2010-05-27 This collection of essays is a welcome and refreshing gift in a virtual desert There has been very little comparative anthropological research on the Eastern churches and this volume will fill that gap Michael Herzfeld author of Evicted from Eternity The Restructuring of Modern Rome At long last there is a book on the anthropology of Christianity that devotes direct and sustained attention to the diverse Eastern Christian Churches both Orthodox and Catholic This book should be read by anyone who thinks anthropologically about Christianity Scales will fall from their eyes and they will behold an entire wing of Christianity that has until now gone mostly unnoticed and practically untheorized Douglas Rogers author of The Old Faith and the Russian Land A Historical Ethnography of Ethics in the Urals Civil War in Poland 1942-1948 A.
Prazmowska, 2004-07-29 This challenging new work uses archival research to examine Poland's government in exile during the Second World War as it sought both to fight against the advances of Germany and the Soviet Union and to prepare for the moment when it would once more be possible to establish a national Polish government The author suggests that the Poles were as much at war with themselves throughout the war and in the years immediately following the end of hostilities as they were with the German and Soviet forces Civil War in Poland 1942-1948 contributes to the debate on the fate of Poland in this complex period the origins of Communist regimes in Eastern Europe and the process of transformation in Europe during and since the Second World War Colonialism and Christianity in Mandate Palestine Laura Robson, 2011-09-01 Drawing on a rich base of British archival materials Arabic periodicals and secondary sources Colonialism and Christianity in Mandate Palestine brings to light the ways in which the British colonial state in Palestine exacerbated sectarianism By transforming Muslim Christian and Jewish religious identities into legal categories Laura Robson argues the British ultimately marginalized Christian communities in Palestine Robson explores the turning points that developed as a result of such policies many of which led to permanent changes in the region's political landscapes Cases include the British refusal to support Arab Christian leadership within Greek controlled Orthodox churches attempts to avert involvement from French or Vatican related groups by sidelining Latin and Eastern Rite Catholics and interfering with Arab Christians efforts to cooperate with Muslims in objecting to Zionist expansion Challenging the widespread but mistaken notion that violent sectarianism was endemic to Palestine Colonialism and Christianity in Mandate Palestine shows that it was intentionally stoked in the wake of British rule beginning in 1917 with catastrophic effects well into the twenty first century Hugh Eteriano, Contra Patarenos Bernard Hamilton,2004-12-01 The Pisan scholar Hugh Eteriano was adviser on western church affairs to Manuel Comnenus and lived in Constantinople from c 1165-82 where he encountered an heretical group among the western inhabitants of the city which prompted him to write the Contra Patarenos. Patarenos was an alternative name for Cathars and this text is of considerable importance to an understanding of the relationship between the western Cathars and older Byzantine dualist movements. Hugh's treatise is here published for the first time in a text established from the two extant manuscripts together with a commentary and translation, a biography of the author and an historical introduction about the place of Hugh's treatise in the history of Christian dualism. Muslims of Medieval Latin Christendom, c.1050-1614 Brian A. Catlos,2014-03-20 Through crusades and expulsions Muslim communities survived for over 500 years thriving in medieval Europe. This comprehensive study explores how the presence of Islamic minorities transformed Europe in everything from architecture to cooking literature to science and served as a stimulus for Christian society to define itself. Combining a series of regional studies, Catlos compares the varied experiences of Muslims across Iberia, southern Italy, the Crusader Kingdoms and Hungary to examine those ideologies that informed their experiences, their place in society and their sense of themselves as Muslims. This is a pioneering new narrative of the history of medieval and early modern Europe from the perspective of Islamic minorities, one which is not as we might first assume driven by ideology, isolation and decline but instead one in which successful communities persisted because they remained actively integrated within the larger Christian and Jewish societies in which they lived. Imagining Creation Markham (Mark) Geller, Mineke Schipper,2007-10-01 Imagining Creation is a collection of views on creation by noted authors from different disciplines. Topics include creation accounts and iconography from Mesopotamia and Egypt and cosmologies from India and Africa. Special attention is devoted to creation in the Scriptures, Bible and Koran and related oral traditions on Genesis from Slavonic Europe as well as Kabbalah. Some of the creation myths are earlier and some later than the Bible while a number of the discussed texts offer alternative approaches to the beginnings of the universe. The contributions provide many new perspectives on the origins of man and his world from diverse cultures. The volume is the proceedings of a symposium on creation stories held at University College London. New Medieval Literatures David Lawton, Rita Copeland, Wendy Scase,2003-12 New Medieval Literatures is an annual containing the best new interdisciplinary work in medieval textual studies. Volume 6 deals in depth with one of the most important of medieval vernacular writers, Geoffrey Chaucer, his closest successor Thomas Hoccleve and his most important precursor in England, Marie de France. A Handbook of Biblical Reception in Jewish, European Christian, and Islamic Folklores Eric Ziolkowski,2017-08-21 This first volume of a two volume Handbook treats a challenging largely neglected subject at the crossroads of several academic fields: biblical studies, reception history of the Bible and folklore studies or folkloristics.
