Karma Lochrie demonstrates that women were associated not with the body but rather with the flesh that disruptive aspect of body and soul which Augustine claimed was fissured with the Fall of Man It is within this framework that she reads The Book of Margery Kempe demonstrating the ways in which Kempe exploited the gendered ideologies of flesh and text through her controversial practices of writing her inappropriate seeming laughter and the most notorious aspect of her mysticism her hysterical weeping expressions of religious desire Lochrie challenges prevailing scholarly assumptions of Kempe's illiteracy her role in the writing of her book her misunderstanding of mystical concepts and the failure of her book to influence a reading community In her work and her life Kempe consistently crossed the barriers of those cultural taboos designed to exclude and silence her Instead of viewing Kempe as marginal to the great mystical and literary traditions of the late Middle Ages this study takes her seriously as a woman responding to the cultural constraints and exclusions of her time Margery Kempe and Translations of the Flesh will be of interest to students and scholars of medieval studies intellectual history and feminist theory

The Bible and Spirituality Andrew T. Lincoln, J. Gordon McConville, Lloyd K. Pieteresen, 2013-07-05 The essays in this volume aim to contribute to the newly developing academic subject of biblical spirituality It is prompted by the belief that although the Christian tradition has always nurtured an emphasis on spirituality rooted in the Bible and its interpretation few biblical scholars until recently have pursued their work by making connections with either this religious tradition or present day interest in the broader phenomenon of spirituality Spiritual interpretation has overlaps with theological interpretation but is distinctive because of its focus on the wisdom of lived experience and practice The essays therefore attempt from within the context of the academy responsible readings of Scripture that have as a major focus the study of how particular texts might contribute to a spirituality in which individual and communal flourishing is a major feature The essays began as papers produced for an international symposium on the Bible and Spirituality in May 2012 hosted by the Centre for the Study of the Bible and Spirituality in the School of Humanities at the University of Gloucestershire
