

Second American Revolution

A revolution is a sudden, drastic change that can occur politically, economically, or socially over a certain period of time. "Government, at least here in the States, is split into several branches. In order for us to use our arms to overthrow it we would have to experience a situation in which all three branches were in cahoots with one another and refused to keep each other in line" (Erick 1).

In the article "Time for a New American Revolution," Richard Winchester asserts that the United States may be "ripe" for a new revolution because of the issues that exist in his article, such as the fact that fifty-six percent of voters viewed the federal government as a threat to individual rights. Although the United States may be ready for a new revolution, since its citizens are afraid to take such a big risk, it will not. "From slavery to women's rights, from religious life to voting, American attitudes would be forever changed" (U.S. History. org).

All kinds of different religious beliefs are accepted throughout the United States, while in the past (specifically the 18th century) people were prosecuted and banished for not wanting to be a part of the Anglican Church which was originally established in England. Citizens of America have plenty to be grateful for, but instead they refuse to open their eyes to see how far their country has come. In 1789 the first President of the United States was a white man.

In 2008, a the first black man and the first white woman ran for office, with victory in the hands of Barack Obama, the black man. [I want the previous two sentences with the years to be more concise and clean. Figure out how u wanna do that] Before American independence, and even afterwards, blacks would be punished for even glancing at a white woman. In those days, the tension between the races was palpable, blacks and whites. They were at the bottom of all the social classes which were very distinct. They were determined by heredity and quality.

"One observer wrote in 1747 that "a reasonable man is always happy if he has what is necessary for him according to his condition [his place in the social order], that is to say, if he has the protection of the laws, and can live as his father lived before him: so that one of the essential things to the good of a nation is being governed in one constant and uniform manner"" (Angelfire. com).

Women were also not allowed to own jobs that involved labor or intellectual thinking. They were forced to stay at home and raise children to be the best human beings they could be. Today's women are evolved; they are attempting to take up such jobs as being the president. [can be formed better]. Eventually uprisings began when women began to speak up against it. This was just one of many protests that took place before the revolution. [need to make it more
