The Expression of Emotion in the Visual Arts: A Philosophical Inquiry Benjamin R. Tilghman, 1970-07 The philosophy of art aesthetics is here understood to be something distinct from both art appreciation and art criticism The philosophy of art is never theless dependent upon the existence of appreciation and criticism because it is out of reflection upon these that the uniquely philosophical problems of art arise problems that reflect puzzlement about what is involved in under standing enjoying describing and evaluating works of art Hence the philo sophy of art must presuppose at least some measure of understanding and appreciation of particular works of art and if such understanding and appre ciation are lacking the philosopher is in no position to supply them It can not be a philosophical task to undertake a Defense of Poesie against either the philistine or the tyrant The philosopher is not the one to convince us that art is a Good Thing that paintings are worth looking at poems worth reading and music worth listening to if for no other reason than that philo sophical theory and argument are no substitute for taste and sensibility My position here is the now unexceptional one that philosophical problems are essentially conceptual problems and while the philosopher of art cannot produce aesthetic sensibility and appreciation where these do not exist he can give us understanding of the concepts relevant to artistic appreciation and thereby help us to see our way through the conceptual confusions that have generated the philosophical puzzles surrounding art its appreciation and criticism

The Expression of Emotion in the Visual Arts Derek Matravers, Vanessa Brasseley, 2024-11-08. The visual arts have long been held to have an intimate link with emotions. Despite this, the topic remains underexplored when the expression of emotion is discussed; it is usually in relation to music. This volume corrects this lacuna and presents a variety of perspectives on the expression of emotion in the visual arts, with contributions from both established and early career academics. There are chapters on the empathy theory of beauty, enaction and artistic expression, emotion and experimental psychology, a persona theory of visual expression, and self-expression in portraiture. There are also chapters discussing the contributions to the topic by Susanne Langer and Richard Wollheim, as well as a chapter comparing the work of R. G. Collingwood and Maurice Merleau-Ponty. The Expression of Emotion in the Visual Arts will be of interest to students and researchers in the philosophy of art and aesthetics, as well as those interested in conceptual issues in the visual arts.
