Selected Papers of Léon Rosenfeld Robert S. Cohen, J.J. Stachel, 2012-12-06 The decision to undertake this volume was made in 1971 at Lake Como during the Varenna summer school of the Italian Physical Society where Professor Leon Rosenfeld was lecturing on the history of quantum theory We had long been struck by the unique blend of epistemological historical and social concerns in his work on the foundations and development of physics and decided to approach him there with the idea of publishing a collection of his papers He responded enthusiastically and agreed to help us select the papers furthermore he also agreed to write a lengthy introduction and to comment separately on those papers that he felt needed critical re evaluation in the light of his current views For he was still vigorously engaged in both theoretical investigations of and critical not reflections on the foundations of theoretical physics We certainly did conceive of the volume as a memorial to a living saint but rather more practically as a useful tool to place in the hands of fellow workers and students engaged in wrestling with these difficult problems All too sadly fate has added a memorial aspect to our labors We agreed that in order to make this book most useful for the contemporary community of physicists and philosophers we should translate all non English items into English

Language, Truth, and Literature Richard Gaskin, 2013-04-18 According to the literary humanist works of imaginative literature have an objective meaning which is fixed at the time of their production and which is the same for all readers then and thereafter not subject to the vagaries of individual readers' responses Such works refer to the real world and make statements about that world which are of cognitive as well as aesthetic value the two kinds of value are indeed intimately connected Richard Gaskin offers a defence of literary humanism so understood against assault from two directions On the one hand some analytic aestheticians have argued that works of literature do not bear referentially on the world and do not make true statements about it others hold that such works do not make a contribution to knowledge others again allow that works of literature may have cognitive value but deny that this depends on their having truth or reference On the other hand reception theorists and deconstructionists have rejected the humanist's objectivist conception of literary meaning and typically take a pragmatist and anti-realist approach to truth and meaning This latter poststructuralist treatment of literature has often been accompanied by a radical politicization of its study In defending literary humanism against these various forms of attack Gaskin shows that the reading and appreciation of literature is a cognitive activity fully on a par with scientific investigation and that we can and should engage in it disinterestedly for the sake of what can be learnt about the
