Varsha Singh, Anupriya, Swaran Lata

Abstract:

The present study brings forward the relationship among HIV/acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) stigma, perceived social support (PSS), and medical adherence found among HIV/AIDS children. A sample of 90 HIV/AIDS-affected children aged 10–18 years from motilal nehru hospital, Allahabad, Uttar Pradesh, India, was selected for the study. Participants were assessed HIV/AIDS stigma, pss, and medical adherence. The tools of descriptive statistics, correlational and regression analysis, and mediation analysis were performed to accomplish the desired objective of the study. Correlational analysis makes it evident that HIV/AIDS stigma is prominently negatively correlated to PSS ( $r(88) = -0.670, P < 0.01$ ) and medical adherence ( $r(88) = -0.770, P < 0.01$ ). Taking into consideration hierarchical regression analysis, it was found that the PSS significantly contributed to 33.2% variance in HIV/AIDS stigma and hiv/aids stigma contributed to 55.7% variance in the process of medical adherence. The achieved results of the mediation analyses validate the mediating role of HIV/AIDS stigma in the association between pss and medical adherence ( $\beta = 0.20$ , Confidence interval = 0.003 to 0.057,  $P = 0.031$ ). These findings contribute to empirical evidence about psychological predictors and the observable consequences of hiv/aids-related stigma.

India is highly deplorable with a population of around 210,000 suffering from the disease (UNAIDS, 2020).<sup>[2]</sup> Around 410,000 people belonging to the age group of 10 to 24 years were recently infected and 150,000 of this number belonged to the age group of 10 to 19 years. In India, data of PLHIV are 2.8 million (UNICEF, 2020).<sup>[3]</sup> AIDS holds a large amount of stigma against itself causing a great deal of prejudice and discrimination. The patients, therefore, encounter stigma and prejudice causing human relationships Both theoretical essays and review chapters address issues relevant to female and male differences in power dominance communication equality and expectations beliefs All chapter contributors share two commonalities First each provides a 1990s assessment of power and equality in female and male relationships Second each reviews respective programs of research and focuses attention on the relevance of this research to understanding the relationships of women and men Unique because it incorporates a multidisciplinary approach to the study of gender and the communication of power in human relationships this book includes the original work of intellectuals with national and international reputations in the social sciences The volume provides both scholastic breadth and centralized treatment of issues that form the very foundation of social and personal relationships It will appeal to scholars working in the disciplines of communication and psychology as well as other areas of social science research AIDS Bibliography, 1992 Sex, Lies, and AIDS Siddharth Dube, 2000 With reference to India Sex at Risk Stuart Brody, 2023-03-31 Politicians interest groups and the mass media often answer questions about how AIDS is sexually transmitted as if heterosexual vaginal intercourse is a high risk activity When it comes to understanding how AIDS is transmitted and formulating effective policy to deal with the spread of AIDS America remains confused What Brody calls ideological knowledge about AIDS is far more likely to filter through society than scientific knowledge Sex at Risk is a comprehensive review of the scientific literature dealing with the transmission of AIDS Like Michael Fumento's The Myth of Heterosexual AIDS it exposes the mythology surrounding vaginal intercourse and AIDS transmission Brody also looks deeply at reasons that fear of AIDS transmission from vaginal intercourse has spread so widely and profoundly He addresses serious methodological problems in AIDS HIV behavioral research as well as tendentious political correctness that has done a disservice to science Sex at Risk also comprehensively reviews the international research literature on correlates of lifetime number of sexual partners and frequency of sexual intercourse Among topics covered are relationships between lifetime number of sexual partners and mental health explanations for important differences between intercourse and masturbation the possible association of frequency with healthy functioning and correlations between frequency and national development Brody concludes by discussing what AIDS reveals about how politically correct thought impedes scientific progress when taboo themes regardless of their validity cannot be pursued Sex at Risk is factually grounded yet controversial Brody raises critical questions about much of what we have learned about AIDS from popular and professional publications soft scientists and public health campaigns It will be of interest to medical doctors clinicians and those interested in the sociology and psychology of knowledge AIDS and Other Manifestations of HIV Infection Gary Wormser, 2004-02-18 Extensively revised and updated the new edition of AIDS and Other Manifestations of HIV Infection is an essential reference resource providing a comprehensive overview of the biological properties of this etiologic viral agent its clinicopathological manifestations the epidemiology of its infection and present and future therapeutic options Expanded section on clinical manifestations includes new chapters on cardiovascular renal and Holtgrave,2013-06-29 If resources for HIV prevention efforts were truly unlimited then this book would be entirely unnecessary In a world with limitless support for HIV prevention activities one would simply implement all effective or potentially effective programs without regard to expense We would do everything useful to prevent the further spread of the virus that has already claimed hundreds of thousands of lives in the United States and millions of lives worldwide Unfortunately funding for HIV prevention programs is limited Even though the amount of available funding may seem quite large especially in the United States it is still fixed and not sufficient to meet all needs for such programs This was very well illustrated in the summer of 1997 when over 500 community based organizations applied for a combined total of 18 million of HIV prevention funding from the U S Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC Less than one fifth of these organizations received support via this funding mechanism Hence although 18 million may seem like a large amount of money at first blush it is not enough to meet all of the prevention needs that could be addressed by these community based organizations      Global HIV/AIDS Politics, Policy, and Activism Raymond A.
