H. Rick Jarow,2012-02-01 Tales for the Dying explores the centrality of death and dying in the narrative of the Bh gavata Pur na India s great text of devotional theism canonized as an integral part of the Vaisnava bhakti tradition The text grapples with death through an imaginative meditation one that works through the presence and power of narrative The story of the Bh gavata Pur na is spoken to a king who is about to die and it enables him to come to terms with his own passing The work does not isolate dying as an issue it treats it on many levels This book discusses how images of dying in the Bh gavata Pur na relate to issues of language and love in the religious imagination of India Drawing on insights from studies in myth literary semiotics and depth psychology as well as from Indian commentarial and aesthetic traditions the author examines the power of myth and narrative storytelling or hari katha and shows how a detailed awareness of the Puranic imagination may lead to a revisioning of some long held presuppositions around Indian religious attitudes toward dying By casting Vaisnava bhakti traditions and Puranic narrative in a fresh light the mythic imagination of the Pur nas takes its place on the stage of contemporary discourse on comparative mythology and literature

The Horned God (RLE Feminist Theory)
 John Rowan, 2012-11-27 This original and pioneering study of how men relate to feminism will appeal to all men who are concerned about their response to the women's movement and to the women in their lives. It will also be helpful for women seeking a constructive response from men. John Rowan drawing on his personal journey through feminism and on his considerable experience as a therapist tackles the issues in a much deeper way than has been attempted before. For men to discover feminism is wounding for them. It can even make them despair about being men at all. But unless they accept that wound nothing much will change. John Rowan shows that men have to heal that wound at a conscious social political level changing laws practice and daily behaviour. They have to heal it at an unconscious level through therapy exploring their profound feelings about their mothers their fathers and their own internal female nature. They also have to heal the wound at a spiritual transpersonal level exploring the world of the Goddess and the Horned God. Only then says John Rowan can they start to have any real dialogue with women and only then can the world begin to change for both men and women

An International Psychology of Men
 Chris Blazina, David S. Shen-Miller, 2011-01-19 This text is the first to provide a contextual understanding of the clinical issues that affect men and masculinity across a wide range of cultural and national settings. It demonstrates that gender can no longer be viewed as an isolated characteristic in an era of increased globalization. Mental health professionals need to take ethnic and cultural issues into account to provide adequate care for male patients. Numerous international perspectives are offered by the contributing authors, authorities from countries such as Australia, Argentina, Denmark, Canada, India, Ireland, and South Africa on theoretical and clinical innovations for working with men. Their chapters also offer insight into the socio-cultural contexts for counseling men in and from their respective countries by exploring the ways in which being a man is socially defined, what unique challenges men face, and how these challenges can be negotiated within their specific cultural settings. Topics addressed will include boyhood, notions of manhood, relationship concerns, and power, fatherhood, and men's body image across the life span. This text will ultimately enable mental health practitioners to have a better understanding of how to work more effectively with male clients

Psychoanalytic Perspectives on the Shadow of the Parent
 Jonathan Burke, 2018-11-07

Psychoanalytic Perspectives on the Shadow of the Parent explores the psychological challenges faced by the offspring of either famous or notorious parents. Beginning with parental legacies found in mythology and the Bible, the book presents a series of case studies drawn from a range of narrative contexts, selecting personalities drawn from history, politics, psychoanalysis, and literature, all viewed from an analytic perspective. The concluding section focuses on the manifestation of this parental shadow within the field of fine art as written by artists themselves. This is a lively and varied collection from a fascinating range of contributors. It provides readers with a new understanding of family history, trauma, and reckoning.
