Everything That Burns Gita Trelease, 2025-10-16 Gita Trelease's Everything That Burns is the transporting sequel to All That Glitters hailed by NPR as a soaring success. Camille Durbonne gambled everything she had to keep herself and her sister safe. But as the people of Paris starve and mobs riot, safety may no longer be possible. Not when Camille lives for the rebellion. In the pamphlets she prints, she tells the stories of girls living at society's margins. But as her writings captivate the public, she begins to suspect a dark magic she can't control lies at the heart of her success. Then Louis XVI declares magic a crime and all magicians traitors to France. As bonfires incinerate enchanted books and special police prowl the city, the time for magic and those who work it is running out. In this new Paris where allegiances shift and violence erupts, the answers Camille seeks set her on a perilous path, one that may cost her the boy she loves, even her life. If she can discover who she truly is before vengeful forces unmask her, she may still win this deadly game of revolution. Staff Notes St. Louis Public Library, 1916

Magical Epistemologies Anannya Dasgupta, 2021-07-21 This book began with a simple question: when readers such as us encounter the term magic or figures of magicians in early modern texts, dramatic or otherwise, how do we read them? In the twenty-first century, we have recourse to an array of genres and vocabulary from magical realism to fantasy fiction that does not, however, work to read a historical figure like John Dee or a fictional one he inspired in Shakespeare's Prospero. Between longings to transcend human limitation and the actual work of producing, translating, and organizing knowledge, figures such as Dee invite us to re-examine our ways of reading magic only as metaphor. If not metaphor, then what else? As we parse the term magic, it reveals a rich context of use that connects various aspects of social, cultural, religious, economic, legal, and medical lives of the early moderns. Magic makes its presence felt not only as a form of knowledge but in methods of knowing in the Renaissance. The arc of dramatists and texts that this book draws between Doctor Faustus, The Tempest, The Alchemist, and Comus. A Masque at Ludlow Castle offers a sustained examination of the epistemologies of magic in the context of early modern knowledge formation. This book is co-published with Aakar Books, New Delhi; Taylor Francis does not sell or distribute the print versions of this book in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka.

Making Pagans John Kuhn, 2024-12-10 How early modern theatrical practice helped construct the category of pagan as a tool of European self-definition and colonial ambition. In Making Pagans, John Kuhn argues that drama played a powerful role in the articulation of religious difference in the seventeenth century. Tracing connections between the history of stagecraft and ethnological disciplines such as ethnography, antiquarianism, and early comparative religious writing, Kuhn shows how early modern repertory systems that leaned heavily on thrift and reuse produced an enduring theatrical vocabulary for understanding religious difference through the representation of paganism, a key term in the new taxonomy of world religions emerging at this time and a frequent subject and motif in English drama of the era. Combining properties such as triumphal chariots, trick altars, and moving statues with music, special effects, and other elements, the spectacular set pieces that were mostly developed for plays set in antiquity depicting England's pre-Christian past were frequently repurposed in new plays in representations of Native Americans and Africans in colonial contact zones Kuhn argues that the recycling of these set pieces encouraged audiences to process new cultural sites through the lens of old performance tropes and helped produce fictitious quasi-ethnographic knowledge for spectators generating the idea of a homogeneous trans-historical trans-geographical paganism Examining the common scenes of pagan ritual that filled England's seventeenth-century stages: magical conjurations, oracular prophecies, barbaric triumphal parades and group suicides Kuhn traces these tropes across dozens of plays from a range of authors including Ben Jonson, Christopher Marlowe, John Dryden and Philip Massinger Drawing together theater history, Atlantic studies and the history of comparative religion Making Pagans reconceptualizes the material and iterative practices of the theater as central to the construction of radical religious difference in early modernity and of the category of paganism as a tool of European self-definition and colonial ambition

Magic, Magicians and Detective Fiction Rebecca Josephy, 2025-01-24 Magic and especially performance magic has been a part of crime fiction since its inception both art forms surged in popularity in Western Europe in the second half of the nineteenth century and influenced each other in profound ways This collection of essays provides an in-depth look at this phenomenon and covers a variety of writers across multiple languages, cultures and traditions as well as multiple subgenres: Victorian autobiography, classic detective tales, pulp fiction, fantasy, mystery etc From historical studies examining the rise in popularity of magician narratives in mystery and detective fiction to essays documenting the number of professional magicians who double as crime fiction writers to theoretical studies analyzing the narrative and functional overlap between illusion, prestidigitation and literary criminals and detectives this collection of essays provides readers with a range of perspectives and approaches from a variety of scholarly backgrounds

The Ordinary Jim Grimsley, 2005-10-01 The Ordinary is a powerful and entrancing tale of magic, science and the mysterious truth that binds them together Jim Grimsley's novels and short stories have been favorably compared to the works of Samuel R Delany, Jack Vance and Ursula K Le Guin Now he unleashes an ambitious and audacious collision between science and magic The Twil Gate links two very different realms On one side of the portal is Senal, an advanced technological civilization of some thirty billion inhabitants, all cybernetically linked and at war with machine intelligences many light years away On the other side is Irion, a land of myth and legend where the world is flat and mighty wizards once ruled Jedda Martele is a linguist and trader from Senal Although fascinated by the languages and cultures of Irion, she shares her people's assumption that Irion is backward and superstitious and no match for her homeland's superior numbers and technology But as the two realms march inevitably toward war, Jedda finds herself at the center of historic, unimaginable events that will challenge everything she has ever believed about the world and herself At the Publisher's request, this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software (DRM) applied

Medical Meddlers Mediums & Magician Keith Souter, 2011-11-30 The Victorians had a thirst for knowledge This drove them to explore the uncharted corners of the world plumb the unfathomable depths of science discover evolution and create some of the engineering and architectural marvels of the world Yet this open mindedness also at times made them utterly gullible Because of their closeness to disease and the ever present threat of their own mortality it was inevitable that they would be open to the claims of quacks who promised all kinds of panaceas and to mediums who offered a means of communicating with the dead So too did it make them eager for diversion and entertainment by the conjurers and illusionists of the great music halls Strangely it was through the magic making skill of the conjurers that the activities of many of the tricksters and fraudulent mediums finally came to be exposed Medical Meddlers Mediums Magicians is a box of delights for all students of Victoriana
