P. S. Janssen,2024-11-14 The Roman Empire s

approach to religion has traditionally been described in paradoxical terms On the one hand Rome has often been regarded as almost proverbially tolerant as well as highly flexible in its dealings with the diverse range of religious cults and practices within its territories. On the other hand the Roman religious landscape was not without its limits and there were certain groups who found themselves for one reason or another on the outside. The legal interactions between these groups and the Roman authorities have largely been studied in isolation. In Marginalized Religion and the Law in the Roman Empire K. P. S. Janssen instead takes a comparative approach and investigates how members of various marginalized religious groups were embedded in and interacted with the wider Roman legal system. The legal positions of private diviners, Jewish communities and early Christians are compared and contrasted to provide a broader perspective on the legal treatment of marginalized religion in the Roman world. Janssen argues that the known interactions between these respective groups and the Roman authorities are best understood within the wider context of Roman law and administration and that they furthermore shared a number of important characteristics. While the treatment these groups received was certainly not in all respects identical, the procedural, socio-political and ideological mechanisms that underpinned the relevant legal measures were nonetheless conspicuously similar.

Law and the Illicit in Medieval Europe Ruth Mazo Karras, Joel Kaye, E. Ann Matter, 2013-02-11

In the popular imagination the Middle Ages are often associated with lawlessness. However, historians have long recognized that medieval culture was characterized by an enormous respect for law and legal procedure. This book makes the case that one cannot understand the era's cultural trends without considering the profound development of law.

Joseph Dan, 2005. Joseph Dan, the Gershom Scholem Professor of Kabbalah Emeritus at the Hebrew University and long time Professor of Jewish Studies at the Freie Universität Berlin, is one of the most influential figures in the fields of Jewish mystical thought, homiletical and ethical literature, modern Messianism and Hasidism, and contemporary belles lettres. His studies of the diverse aspects of Jewish creativity with close attention to the dialectics of religious cultural continuity versus historical innovation provide a comprehensive overview of the complex history of Jewish thought and its multiple creative faces. It is precisely for this reason to honor Joseph Dan's multifaceted research that his many colleagues, students and friends scattered among universities around the world have decided to focus their contributions in this Festschrift on the continuing process of creation and re-creation in Jewish thought throughout the centuries.
