Ian Walker

Magritte And Photography:

Magritte and Photography Patrick Roegiers, 2005 Rene Magritte the great Surrealist painter began experimenting with photography at an early age While still a young student at the Academy of Fine Arts in Brussels he posed in a three piece suit standing before his easel with brush and palette in hand already projecting the carefully constructed image of the artist he wanted to become His finely calibrated bourgeois persona eventually entered into his own paintings becoming a uniform image of the dark dark suited man with umbrella and hat But it was in photographs that Magritte first incarnated the figure of himself as a great painter instantly recognizable and before long universally celebrated Magritte and Photography is an illuminating and enjoyable study of the ways in which the photographic medium played a constant role in Magritte's social and artistic life Beginning with turn of the century pictures of his parents and siblings running through surrealist scenarios involving friends Louis Scutenaire and Paul Nougé and ending with haunting portraits taken by Duane Michals this volume explores both Magritte's life and his construction of it through the camera lens BOOK JACKET René Magritte Xavier Canonne, 2017 A richly illustrated book that dives into Ren Magritte's photo and film archive revealing a lesser known side of the surrealist master In this richly illustrated book Xavier Canonne director of the Museum of Photography in Charleroi dives into Ren Magritte's photo and film archive revealing a lesser known side of the surrealist master Discovered in the 1970s more than ten years after the artist's death this collection gives us access to a family album an informal Magritte from his childhood to the last years of his life We see Magritte with his parents and brothers as a newly married man with his wife Georgette and with his contemporaries in the Brussels Surrealist group Spontaneous snapshots are complemented by posed scenes including improvised tableaux with his fellow artists parodies of famous movies consciously arranged with Georgette portraits of Magritte at his easel at home and staged photographs as models for his paintings Images where the artist and his friends hide their faces or turn away from the camera particularly resonate with his paintings and his investigation of the hidden visible While other Surrealists such as Man Ray and Raoul Ubac made photography an essential part of their work Magritte remained a true painter Yet this book demonstrates that his photographs and home movies are so pervaded with his spirit that they are inseparable from his oeuvre of paintings A Visit with Magritte Duane Michals, 1981 Portraits de Magritte son domicile Surrealism and Photography in Czechoslovakia Krzysztof Fijalkowski, 2017-07-05 Surrealism and Photography in Czechoslovakia On the Needles of Days sheds much needed light on the location of the greatest concentration of Surrealist photography and examines the culture and tradition within which it has taken root and flourished The volume explores a rich and important artistic output very little of which has been seen outside of its land of origin Based on extensive research at museums in Prague and Brno and many conversations with participants in and historians of the movement Krzysztof Fijalkowski Michael Richardson and Ian Walker analyse how this photographic work has developed cohesively and rigorously from the beginnings of Czech Surrealism in 1934 to the intriguing researches of the present day

Czech and Slovak Surrealist group by way of mysterious veiled responses to the repressive contexts with which they were faced from the 1950s to the 1980s The main chapters ordered chronologically are intersected with shorter texts examining specific works The reader will find in this volume images that present challenges to our understanding of how photographic work has been used within surrealism pinpointing individual pictures whose dynamic charge may induce instants of compelling interrogation and disruption

Minor Photography Mieke Bleyen, 2012 The first book to apply the concept of the minor to the theory of photography The notion of the minor developed by Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari in Kafka Towards a minor literature 1975 is introduced and connected applied here for the very first time to the field of photography theory Deleuze and Guattari defined minor literature in terms of deterritorialization politicization and collectivization By transferring the minor to the medium of photography this book enlarges the idea of the minor and opens it up to all kinds of mutations in the process The essays gathered in this book discuss the ways in which photography can make the dominant codes of representation stammer and how it can produce new effects and address people yet to come The authors consider the minor as a valuable tool to help photography research move beyond or in between binary and hierarchized ways of thinking of high and low art for example or centre and periphery As such it aims to contribute to a rethinking of photography as multiplicity and variation Consequently the term is connected with both marginal and canonical photographic practices covering photographers as different as Miroslav Tichý Paul McCarthy Tacita Dean Dan Graham and Paul Noug After developing a theory of the minor this book explores how the operations of the minor can be found in major art practices It closes by tackling the question of photography as variation in case studies of belated forms of surrealist photography This publication is GPRC labeled Guaranteed Peer Reviewed Content

Agnes Varda Between Film, Photography, and Art Rebecca J. DeRoo, 2018 Proceeding chronologically from the beginning of Varda's career in the 1950s to the present this book focuses on moments where Varda's invocation of different artistic traditions within film opens onto complex commentary on broader aesthetic theoretical feminist and political discussions I reinterpret some of her best known films but also focus attention on other less familiar works that merit further consideration I reassess individual works with the goal of interrogating Varda's visual dialogues to reconstruct the cultural politics of the periods in which they were made. This process of reading new strands of meaning across Varda's oeuvre relies on a richly interdisciplinary approach. The result is a new cultural history of Varda and her work that makes clear how she actively engaged and subtly broadened some of the most advanced aesthetic and political discourse of her day. Many of Varda's sophisticated commentaries on controversial issues of her time have receded from view in the biographical frameworks in which her work often has been considered. The range of her engagement in her work with cinema, art history, photography and visual culture has not been fully recognized. This decontextualization of Varda's work has been compounded by the frequent emphasis on her exceptionality within her fields of practice. In contrast, I view Varda's work as a projection of cultural history that illuminates multiple disciplines including art history, cinema studies, visual culture and modern French history. Provided by publisher City Gorged with Dreams Ian Walker, 2002. The author analyses how the Surrealists utilised the tactics of documentary and how Surrealist ideas in turn influenced the development of documentary photography. This is a study of what Louis Aragon called surrealist realism: the exploration of the real life surreality of the city.

Doppelgangers, Alter Egos and Mirror Images in Western Art, 1840-2010 Mary D. Edwards, 2020-06-15. The notion of a person or even an object having a double has been explored in the visual arts for ages and in myriad ways: portraying the body and its soul, a woman gazing at her reflection in a pool or a man overwhelmed by his own shadow. In this edited collection focusing on nineteenth and twentieth century western art, scholars analyze doppelgangers, alter egos, mirror images, double portraits and other pairings, human and otherwise, appearing in a large variety of artistic media. Artists whose works are discussed at length include Richard Dadd, Salvador Dalí, Egon Schiele, Frida Kahlo, the creators of Superman and Nicola Costantino among many others.
