Mediterranean Renaissance:

Mediterranean Renaissance Lee Crane, 2004-01-01 An extraordinary exploration of the Mediterranean in Medieval times that explores just how civilized the barbarians and pagans were in addition to Christian Muslim Jewish Alliances The Mediterranean Renaissance, 2001 Venetian Renaissance Fortifications in the Mediterranean Dragoş Cosmescu, 2015-12-14 The Renaissance was a revolution of ideas arts and sciences alike with Italy at its center Venice was among the first states to embrace new concepts in fortification which would dominate military architecture for centuries In the age of large galley fleets and an expanding Ottoman Empire the mighty defenses of the Republic of Venice protected faraway territories in the Mediterranean and some of the largest and best preserved Renaissance fortifications are found on the former Venetian islands This book illustrates in detail the impressive defenses of Cyprus Crete and Corfu their design and their war record Walled towns and fortresses were constructed to the latest standards of military technology with walls capable of withstanding the largest armies and the longest sieges including the longest in history 22 years The Mediterranean Renaissance Museo Thyssen-Bornemisza, 2001 Queering the Medieval Mediterranean: Transcultural Sea of Sex, Gender, Identity, and Culture, 2021-07-26 In ten essays authored by an international team of scholars this volume explores queer readings of Western and Eastern Mediterranean Europe Northern Africa Islam and Arabic traditions The contributors enter into a dialogue comparing cases from opposite sides of the Mediterranean in order to analyze the forgotten exchange of sexualities that was brought forth through the Mediterranean and its bordering landmasses during the Middle Ages This collection questions the hypothesis that distinct cultures treated sexuality and the other differently The volume initiates the conversation around queerness and sexuality on these trade routes and problematizes the differences between various Mediterranean cultures in order to argue that through both queerness and sexuality neighboring civilizations had access to and knowledge of common shared experiences Contributors are Sahar Amer Israel Burshatin Robert L A Clark Denise K Filos Ellen Lorraine Friedrich Edmund Hayes Gregory S Hutcheson Vicente Lled Guillem Leyla Rouhi and Robert S Sturges Geomorphology and Global Environmental Change Olav Slaymaker, Tom Spencer, Christine Embleton-Hamann, 2009-07-02 A statement from the world's leading geomorphologists on the state of and potential changes to the environment The Mediterranean Zeitgeist Metin Mustafa, 2021-09-16 The accomplishments of the civilisation of early modern Europe is inconceivable without the achievements of medieval Islam and the Ottoman Empire It is most pertinent that historians explore the notion of cultural enlightenment in the early modern period from an inclusive paradigm one that unites rather than erects barriers across civilisations Exploring the notion of the Mediterranean zeitgeist from a culturally inclusive perspective widens our scope of understanding of the meaningful practices that is specific to a particular historical time period These meaningful practices including architectural accomplishments hybrid objects of cultural materialism and the iconography of public ceremonials by the ruling elite most often include recurring symbolic structures that underpin the idea of the Mediterranean zeitgeist These recurring symbolisms in early modern Europe and the Ottoman Empire respectively underscore the human cultural and intellectual phenomena that ultimately associate with cultural identity and affirmation of court ceremonial grandeur It can be argued that the idea of Mediterranean zeitgeist instead of concentrating and elaborating upon the differences between cultural accomplishments rather celebrate each age or epoch through the central thesis of historicism It is therefore the aim of the essays in this book to provide a discussion that firstly redefines what we mean by the term Renaissance in Essay I and then reconsider the patterns of cultural practices in Italy and the Ottoman Empire in the sixteenth century from a revisionist paradigm in Essays II and III respectively By re Orienting the Renaissance the history of the Mediterranean zeitgeist in the sixteenth century commemorates the shared cultural accomplishments that epitomised the spirit of the age

his emotional response to the fall of Constantinople in 1453 and the impact of classical ethnography and other works shaped this compelling vision with close readings of his letters orations histories autobiography and other works Europeans as Pius boldly defined them shared a distinct character that made them superior to the inhabitants of other continents The reverberations of his views can still be felt today in debates about identity ethnicity race and belonging in Europe and more generally This study explores the formation of this problematic notion of privilege and separation centuries before the modern era where most scholars have erroneously placed its origins From Christians to Europeans adds substantially to our understanding of the Renaissance as a critical time of European self fashioning and the creation of a modern Western identity This book is essential reading for students and scholars interested in the formation of modern Europe intellectual history cultural studies and the history of Renaissance Europe late medieval Italy and the Ottoman Empire

Concept Formation in Global Studies Gennaro Ascione, 2024-06-13 The book proposes a new epistemological and methodological approach to concept formation across human and natural sciences beyond Eurocentrism and specism It elaborates a method enabling global epistemics to cope with multiplex challenges coming from geohistorical as well as epistemological standpoints whose methodological potential remains unexplored It assumes monstrosity as the generative grammar of a new holistic approach to human knowledge and draws from postcolonial decolonial or post western perspectives to place new methodological cornerstones as well as from arts astrology and magic from the Islamic and European Renaissance indigenous knowledge genetics theoretical physics or Afrofuturism The book aims at provoking a shift in critical perspectives which do not acknowledge their own inability to steam an appropriate methodology of terminological and conceptual elaboration for the lexicon of contemporary human knowledge out of a pressing demand once agreed upon the world as a single yet multilayered spacetime of analysis how should research about large scale long term processes of social change advance in order to cope with the asymmetrical power relations that materialize colonial history through heterarchies of class gender race ethnicity culture knowledge cosmology and ecology This book struggles against the prejudice that the instances heterogeneous yet non canonical epistemics are in fact exclusively confined to provincial exotic or solipsistic particularisms therefore never as universalistic as the dominant ones To address this problem the book proposes a different way to think of the relation between the abstract and the concrete a new relation between data or histories and concepts an alternative pathway to cross cultural translation in conceptual and terminological analysis a new posture to inhabit the spacetimes at the border between translation and untranslatability

The Problem of Slavery as History Joseph C. Miller, 2012-03-27 Why did slavery an accepted evil for thousands of years suddenly become regarded during the eighteenth century as an abomination so compelling that Western governments took up the cause of abolition in ways that transformed the modern world Joseph C Miller turns this classic question on its head by rethinking the very nature of slavery arguing that it must be viewed generally as a process rather than as an institution Tracing the global history of slaving over thousands of years Miller reveals the shortcomings of Western narratives that define slavery by the same structures and power relations regardless of places and times concluding instead that slaving is a process which can be understood fully only as imbedded in changing circumstances The Road

Affluence and Freedom Pierre Charbonnier,2021-06-22 In this pathbreaking book Pierre Charbonnier opens up a new intellectual terrain an environmental history of political ideas His aim is not to locate the seeds of ecological thought in the history of political ideas as others have done but rather to show that all political ideas whether or not they endorse ecological ideals are informed by a certain conception of our relationship to the Earth and to our environment The fundamental political categories of modernity were founded on the idea that we could improve on nature that we could exert a decisive victory over its excesses and claim unlimited access to earthly resources In this way modern thinkers imagined a political society of free individuals equal and prosperous alongside the development of industry geared towards progress and liberated from the Earth s shackles Yet this pact between democracy and growth has now been called into question by climate change and the environmental crisis It is therefore our duty today to rethink political emancipation bearing in mind that this can no longer draw on the prospect of infinite growth promised by industrial capitalism Ecology must draw on the power harnessed by nineteenth century socialism to respond to the massive impact of industrialization but it must also rethink the imperative to offer protection to society by taking account of the solidarity of social groups and their conditions in a world transformed by climate change This timely and original work of social and political theory will be of interest to a wide readership in politics sociology environmental studies and the social sciences and humanities generally
