Memento Solace For Grieving:

Memento Michele Durkson Clise, 1995 This beautiful little book will make a thoughtful gift for anyone in mourning Tasteful consoling selections of classic poetry and prose show how great writers across the centuries PLato Shakespeare Emily Dickinson and Carl Jung among others have grappled with death and grief Elegantly illustrated with 19th century engravings Discrepant Solace David James, 2019 Consolation has always played an uncomfortable part in the literary history of loss But in recent decades its affective meanings and ethical implications have been recast by narratives that appear at first sight to foil solace altogether Illuminating this striking archive Discrepant Solace considers writers who engage with consolation not as an aesthetic salve but as an enduring problematic one that unravels at the centre of emotionally challenging works of late twentieth and twenty first century fiction and life writing The book understands solace as a generative yet conflicted aspect of style where microelements of diction rhythm and syntax capture consolation s alternating desirability and contestation With a wide angle lens on the contemporary scene David James examines writers who are rarely considered in conversation including Sonali Deraniyagala Colson Whitehead Cormac McCarthy W G Sebald Doris Lessing Joan Didion J M Coetzee Marilynne Robinson Julian Barnes Helen Macdonald Ian McEwan Colm Toibin Kazuo Ishiguro Denise Riley and David Grossman These figures overturn critical suppositions about consolation s kinship with ideological complaisance superficial mitigation or dubious distraction producing unsettling perceptions of solace that shape the formal and political contours of their writing Through intimate readings of novels and memoirs that explore seemingly indescribable experiences of grief trauma remorse and dread James demonstrates how they turn consolation into a condition of expressional possibility without ever promising us relief He also supplies vital traction to current conversations about the stakes of thinking with contemporary writing to scrutinize affirmative structures of feeling revealing unexpected common ground between the operations of literary consolation and the urgencies of cultural critique Discrepant Solace makes the close reading of emotion crucial to understanding the work literature does in our precarious present Anthologies of British Poetry Barbara Korte, Ralf Schneider, Stefanie Lethbridge, 2000 From Tottel s Miscellany 1557 to the last twentieth century Oxford Book of English Verse 1999 anthologies have been a prime institution for the preservation and mediation of poetry The importance of anthologies for creating and re creating the canon of English poetry for introducing new programmes of poetry as a record of changing poetic fashions audience tastes and reading practices or as a profitable literary commodity has often been asserted Despite its impact however the poetry anthology in itself has attracted surprisingly little critical interest in Britain or elsewhere in the English speaking world This volume is the first publication to explore the largely unmapped field of poetry anthologies in Britain Essays written from a wide range of perspectives in literary and cultural studies and the point of view of poets editors publishers and cultural institutions aim to do justice to the typological functional and historical variety with which this form of publication has manifested itself from early modern print

Grief, Madness, and Crises of Masculinity in Mind-Game

Films Rosalind Sibielski, 2024-08-22 This book analyzes a cycle of early twenty first century mind game films and TV series in which male protagonists retreat into fantasies dreams or hallucinations as a means of coping with grief and guilt following the death of a loved one Discussing films like Memento Inception and Shutter Island alongside the TV series Mr Robot among others Rosalind Sibielski highlights how the construction of alternate realities allows the protagonists to work through bereavement and past trauma Sibielski also argues that as part of this process the protagonists not only find themselves questioning their memories and what they believe to be true about their identities but they are also forced to reevaluate who they are as men and the way that they define their manhood Finally Grief Madness and Crises of Masculinity in Mind Game Films examines these stories of intersecting crises of reality and crises of masculinity within the context of millennial culture wars in the US over the way that manhood is can be or should be enacted

Making an Exit Sarah Murray, 2024-08-06 Thoughtful amusing and provocative Making an Exit will transform the way you look at life s last passage Because as Murray discovers death is for many not an ending but the start of something new Author and journalist Sarah Murray never gave much thought to what might ultimately happen to her remains that was until her father died While he d always insisted that the organic matter left after a person takes their last breath had no significance he surprised his family by setting down elaborate arrangements for the scattering of his own ashes This unexpected last request prompted Murray to embark on a series of voyages to discover how our end is commemorated around the globe and how we approach our own mortality Spanning continents and centuries Making an Exit is Murray s exploration of the extraordinary creativity unleashed when we seek to dignify the dead Along the way she encounters a cremation in Bali in which two royal personages are placed in giant decorative bulls and consigned to the afterlife in a burst of flames a chandelier in the Czech Republic made entirely from human bones a weeping ceremony in Iran and a Philippine village where the casketed dead are left hanging in caves She even goes to Ghana to commission her own fantasy coffin The accounts of these journeys are fascinating poignant and funny But this is also a very personal quest on her travels Murray is seeking inspiration for her own eventual send off

Grief's Country Gail Griffin, 2021-10-15 An intimate look at widowhood Gail Griffin had only been married for four months when her husband's body was found in the Manistee River just a few yards from their cabin door The terrain of memoir is full of stories of grief though Grief's Country: A Memoir in Pieces is less concerned with the biography of a love affair than with the lived phenomenon of grief itself what it does to the mind heart and body how it functions almost as an organism The book's intimacy is at times nearly disarming its honesty about struggling through grief's country is unfailing The story is told in pieces in that it is ten essays of varying forms punctuated by four original poems that examine facets of traumatic grief memory and survival While a reader will perceive a forward trajectory the book resists anything like a clear chronology offering a picture of deep grief as something that defies the linear and explodes time A Strong Brown God tells the story of two of Griffin's significant relationships with her husband Bob and with the Manistee River and includes the history of what drew them all together Grief's Country follows Griffin from the morning after Bob's death through the first disoriented fractured months of PTSD Heartbreak Hotel takes Griffin on a tragicomical flight the first Christmas after Bob's death to a Jamaican resort which includes an unscheduled stop at Graceland where she contemplates the notions of home and haven Grief's Country will speak directly to anyone who has lost a dearly loved one offering not one story but ten different faces of grief to contemplate It will also appeal to general readers of memoir including teachers and students of nonfiction especially as it includes a variety of formal models Those interested in the subject area of death and dying will find it useful as a book that bypasses recovery narratives truisms and stages of grief to get as close as possible to the experience itself
