theoretical approaches to mobility diasporic identities and the construction of space to explore the different ways in which the notion of return shapes contemporary ethnic writing such as fiction ethnography memoir and film Through a wide variety of ethnic experiences ranging from the Transatlantic Asian American Latino a and Caribbean alongside their corresponding forms of displacement political exile war trauma and economic migration the essays in this collection connect the intimate experience of the returning subject to multiple locations historical experiences inter subjective relations and cultural interactions They challenge the idea of the narrative of return as a journey back to the untouched roots and home that the ethnic subject left behind Their diacritical approach combines on the one hand a sensitivity to the context and structural elements of modern diaspora and on the other an analysis of the individual psychological processes inherent to the experience of displacement and return such as nostalgia memory and belonging In the narratives of return analyzed in this volume space and identity are never static or easily definable rather they are in process and subject to change as they are always entangled in the historical and inter subjective relations ensuing from displacement and mobility This book will interest students and scholars who wish to further explore the role of American literature within current debates on globalization migration and ethnicity Inventing Memory Erica Jong, 2007-08-02 First published in 1997 Inventing

Mnemopoetics Valérie Bada, 2008 From its very beginning African American drama has borne witness to the creative power of the slaves to maintain their human dignity as well as to fashion a complex culture of survival If the memory of slavery has always been at the heart of the African American theatrical tradition it is the way in which it is processed and inscribed that has developed and is still changing Through the close reading and socio historical analysis of eight plays from 1939 to 1996 the author seeks to unravel the fluctuating patterns in the shaping of the theatrical memory of slavery long after its abolition To do so she defines the concept and practice of mnemopoetics as the making of memory through imagination as well as the critical approaches that decipher and interpret cultural productions of memory As a constellation of processes akin to the fluidity of memory mnemopoetics blends creative representation and critical exploration to suggest that the cultural creation of memory necessarily entails a self reflexive involvement with its own interpretation If slavery embodies the deep foundational memory of America African American drama represents the open communal space where it becomes possible to convert the irretrievable nature of a vicarious past into the redeeming function of a collective memory
