Lomonosoff,2015-06-25 Excerpt from Memoirs of the Russian Revolution Immediately after the March Revolution I made some notes concerning what I had personally witnessed These memoranda I took with me to America but so successfully mislaid them among my books that I was not able to locate them until August 2 1918 I read them then to my friends in Chicago They insisted and still insist that I publish these recollections To be frank I could hardly consent to it my views have somewhat radically changed in the last two years and I have a strong desire to correct some of my memoranda and to change others entirely Nevertheless I have not done this If my memoirs have any historical value it is only in the way in which they were first recorded An historian is interested not only in the naked facts but also in the way in which these facts reacted on the men of their time Nevertheless in some places I have considered it necessary to make some additional remarks which are the result of my later ideas and of the later experiences of my life About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Memoirs of the Russian Revolution Loukowsky,1976-08 Memoirs of the Russian Revolution (1919) George V.
