Measuring Your Media Profile Dermot H. McKeone, 1995 Dermot McKeone's book shows how with the aid of today's powerful technology the impact an organization makes in the media can be monitored and evaluated against the competition if necessary. Using examples and case studies of high profile companies he describes the various methods available for analysing media coverage both printed and broadcast and discusses the costs and benefits involved. He explains how to identify target audiences and choose appropriate messages demonstrating how media coverage translates into corporate image in the marketplace. Analysing and evaluating media coverage argues Mr McKeone should be part of a systematic corporate communications programme and it is this strategic perspective that makes his book so valuable. Sources of the History of Africa, Asia, Australia and Oceania in Hungary National Archives of Hungary, 2011-10-18 No detailed description available for Sources of the History of Africa Asia Australia and Oceania in Hungary. Narrating Media History Michael Bailey, 2012-11-12 Based on the work of media historian James Curran Narrating Media History explores British media history as a series of competing narratives. This unique and timely collection brings together leading international media history scholars not only to identify and contrast the various interrelationships between media histories but also to encourage dialogue between different historical, political and theoretical perspectives including liberalism, feminism, populism, nationalism, libertarianism, radicalism and technological determinism. Essays by distinguished academics cover television, radio, newspaper, press and advertising among others and illustrate the particularities, affinities, strengths and weaknesses within media history. Each section includes a brief introduction by the editor with discussion topics and suggestions for further reading, making this an invaluable guide for students of media history. Louise Jopling Patricia de Montfort, 2017-07-05 Louise Jopling A Biographical and Cultural Study is the first in-depth study of this nineteenth-century painter who was among the first women admitted to the Royal Society of British Artists in 1902. In part an engaging biography of a compelling celebrity figure and social campaigner in Victorian England Patricia de Montfort's book interweaves a vivid and rounded portrait of this Manchester-born artist, teacher and author with insightful analysis of Jopling's artwork and the aristocratic bohemian social milieu that she inhabited. Painted by Whistler and Millais Jopling herself portrayed Victorian era celebrities like the actress Lillie Langtry and her patrons included members of the de Rothschild banking family. Her work also included figure compositions, interiors, landscape and genre scenes. Drawing upon Jopling's unpublished diaries, notebooks and correspondence as well as her 1925 memoir Twenty Years of My Life de Montfort's study opens the way for a twenty-first-century rediscovery of this now little-known artist who combined professional artistic practice with social activism against the backdrop of an often troubled private life. The full scope of Jopling's artistic endeavours are discussed in relation to the cultural framework for fin de siècle working women as are her progressive views on education and women's suffrage. Sport, Literature, Society Alexis Tadié, J.A. Mangan, Supriya Chaudhuri, 2016-04-08

Sport studies and sports history have witnessed a recent substantial increase in publications. However, the relationship between literature and sport has been little explored. Sport Literature Society looks at a wide variety of case studies ranging from Japan to England, from India to Australia, and covers sports as diverse as cycling, football, wrestling, and boxing. It concentrates on historical perspectives. The contributors are all academics of international reputation and include historians of sport and literary scholars. Literature may shape our perceptions and reactions to sport as much as sport may inform our reading. As mimetic practice, as aesthetic object, as imaginative release, sport is analogous to literature and the other arts; at the same time, it can become the subject of literary, visual, or musical elaborations. Literature often conceptualises the place and role of sport in culture and society. Indeed, sport inhabits literature in ways that have not been adequately studied. Sport studies have investigated the relationships between sport and society, education, gender, nation, and class. To look again at these relationships through the prism of literature enables us to change our focus and to assess the centrality of sport in culture. This book was published as a special issue of the International Journal of the History of Sport. The Aslib Directory, 1928.

Clemence Dane Louise McDonald, 2020-08-31. This feminist investigation of the works of Clemence Dane joins the growing body of research into the relationship of female-authored texts to the ideology and cultural hegemony of the Edwardian and inter-war period. An amalgam of single-author study and thematic period analysis through sustained cultural engagement, this book explores Dane's journalism, drama, and fiction to interrogate a range of issues: inter-war women's writing, the Middlebrow, feminism, homo sexuality, liberal politics, domesticity, and concepts of the spinster. It examines form and a range of fictional genres: drama, Bildungsroman, detective fiction, historical saga, and gothic fiction. It relates back to the genre writing of comparable authors. These include Rosamond Lehmann, Vita Sackville-West, Ivy Compton-Burnett, Dorothy Strachey, Dodie Smith, Rachel Ferguson, May Sinclair, Sylvia Townsend Warner, Daphne Du Maurier, G. B. Stern, and detective writers Dorothy L. Sayers, Agatha Christie, Gladys Mitchell, Marjorie Allingham, and Ngaio Marsh. Offering a picture of an era focalised through Dane and contextualised through her journalism and the work of her female peers, it argues that Dane is often markedly more radically feminist than these contemporaries. She engages with broad issues of social justice, irrespective of gender, and her humanity is demonstrated through her sympathetic representations of marginalised characters of both sexes. However, she most specifically evidences a gender politics consistent with the fragmented and multifarious essentialist feminism that emerged following the Great War, which esteemed womanly qualities of care and mothering but simultaneously valued female autonomy, single status, and professionalism. Adopting the critical paradigms of domestic modernism and women's liminality, the book will particularly focus on the trajectories of Dane's extraordinary modern heroines who possess qualities of altruism, candour, integrity, imagination, intuition, resilience, and rebelliousness. Over the course of her work, these fictional women increasingly challenge oppressive normative forms of domesticity, traversing physical thresholds to create alternative domesticities in self-defining living and working spaces. Bacteria in Britain.

Tom Murphy's Theatre of Everyday Space Moonyoung Hong, 2025-05-08 By the time of his death in 2018 Tom Murphy was widely recognised as one of Ireland's most important modern playwrights Ireland's experience of rapid modernisation emigration and globalisation is vividly captured in his plays challenging generic notions of space place and the nation In particular his drama reconfigures Irish theatre's uneasy relationship with globalisation with the peasant kitchen the pub and the bog having traditionally been exported as the quintessential Irish spaces Focusing on one of Murphy's central innovations his experimentation with theatre and everyday space the book considers the significance of Murphy's work in modern drama more broadly The idea of home has preoccupied modern playwrights since the naturalist dramas of Henrik Ibsen and Anton Chekhov leading theatre scholars to focus on the everyday space of the home to the exclusion of other everyday spaces Murphy's works by contrast offer a new politics of the interior engaging with a diverse range of other spaces such as dancehalls grocery shops pubs hotels offices churches gasworks and airports His drama presents a global sense of the local an emotional map of the shifting geographies of everyday life By applying new theoretical perspectives and showcasing new archival materials inaccessible to previous scholars the book revisits Murphy as an international playwright a cartographer of our modern day global village

Architecture, Media, Archives Ana Bonet Miró, 2024-08-22 Over 60 years on from its inception the celebrated Fun Palace civic project developed in the 1960s by the radical theatre director Joan Littlewood and the architect Cedric Price continues to capture the architectural imagination Despite the building itself never being realized much of the previous analysis of the Fun Palace has been devoted to Price and his drawings The critical role that Littlewood played however remains largely unrecognized by architectural scholarship and a whole area of the project's cultural agenda remains overlooked Architecture Media Archives is the first serious study of the complex relations between Littlewood and Price reframing the Fun Palace as an extended media project and positioning Littlewood more clearly as co-designer Drawing on extensive archival material the book considers how due to a lack of institutional support the aims of the Fun Palace to transform the passive mass audiences of post-war consumer society into active citizens through forms of self-directed pleasure led and open exchange were realized through different sites of information throughout the 1960s From broadsheets pamphlets and journals to films and press news the book addresses the conditions of production circulation storage and reception of these sites and reveals how they not only recorded the transformation of the project but also fundamentally enhanced and informed its meaning in specific ways The book also raises important questions about the agency of the Fun Palace archive in shaping the reception of the project in the decades since its inception presenting its analysis through a novel Fun Palace Reception Index and Chart fundamentally altering our view of the project itself and transforming the way in which we understand the technological and cultural production of the 1960s Records of the Proceedings and Printed Papers of the Parliament Australia. Parliament,1929

Jealousy and Contemporary Cinema C. Yates,2007-09-12 This study provides new insights into the link between masculinity and jealousy through a study of representations of male jealousy in modern Hollywood cinema It argues through examples of films and their reception in the press that male jealousy has played a key role in the psychocultural shaping of Western masculinities and male fantasy Biographical sketch of Millie Christine, the Carolina Twin Anonymous,2025-03-02

Biographical Sketch of Millie Christine the Carolina Twin presents a compelling narrative that intricately weaves the story of Millie Christine a 19th century African American conjoined twin Written in an engaging prose style this biographical account delves into the complexities of Millie s life exploring themes of identity resilience and the spectacle of human curiosity that surrounded her existence The book situates Millie s experiences within the broader context of circus culture and societal attitudes towards disability providing a critical lens on how conjoined twins were both celebrated and marginalized in Victorian America Anonymous the author adeptly captures Millie s journey from her rural Carolina roots to her prominence as a performer in sideshows and circuses This exploration likely stems from a blend of historical curiosity and a desire to give voice to marginalized figures in American history The author s decision to remain unnamed may reflect an intent to direct focus towards Millie s story rather than personal accolades emphasizing the importance of her narrative This book is highly recommended for readers interested in American history the circus arts and the intersections of disability and identity It provides invaluable insights into the life of Millie Christine offering a nuanced portrayal that is often overshadowed in historical narratives In its balance of empathy and critical analysis it is a poignant reminder of the human spirit s capacity to triumph over adversity Northern Ireland at the Crossroads M.
