Previous Convictions:

Previous Convictions at Sentencing Julian V Roberts, Andreas von Hirsch, 2014-10-01 This latest volume in the Penal Theory and Penal Ethics series addresses one of the oldest questions in the field of criminal sentencing should an offender's previous convictions affect the sentence Although there is an extensive literature on the definition and use of criminal history information the emphasis here is on the theoretical and normative aspects of considering previous convictions at sentencing Several authors explore the theory underlying the practice of mitigating the punishments for first offenders while others put forth arguments for enhancing sentences for recidivists

Sentencing and Criminal Justice Andrew Ashworth, 2010-02-04 Andrew Ashworth expertly examines the key issues in English sentencing policy and practice including the mechanisms for producing sentencing guidelines He considers the most high profile stages in the criminal justice process such as the Court of Appeal's approach to the custody threshold the framework for the sentencing of young offenders and the abiding problems of previous convictions in sentencing Taking into account the Criminal Justice and Immigration Act 2008 and the Coroners and Justice Act 2009 the book's interdisciplinary approach places the legislation and guidelines on sentencing in the context of criminological research statistical trends and theories of punishment By examining the law in relation to elements of the wider criminal justice system including the prison and probation services students gain a rounded perspective on the relevant principles and problems of sentencing and criminal justice

Remorse, Penal Theory and Sentencing Hannah Maslen, 2015-04-30 This monograph addresses a contested but under discussed question in the field of criminal sentencing should an offender's remorse affect the sentence he or she receives Answering this question involves tackling a series of others is it possible to justify mitigation for remorse within a retributive sentencing framework Precisely how should remorse enter into the sentencing equation How should the mitigating weight of remorse interact with other aggravating and mitigating factors Are there some offence or offender characteristics that preclude remorse based mitigation Remorse is recognised as a legitimate mitigating factor in many sentencing regimes around the world with powerful effects on sentence severity Although there has been some discussion of whether this practice can be justified within the literature on sentencing and penal theory this monograph provides the first comprehensive and in depth study of possible theoretical justifications Whilst the emphasis here is on theoretical justification the monograph also offers analysis of how normative conclusions would play out in the broader context of sentencing decisions and the guidance intended to structure them The conclusions reached have relevance for sentencing systems around the world
