Privatizing The Land:

Privatizing Public Lands Scott Lehmann, 1995-03-23 In the United States private ownership of land is not a new idea yet the federal government retains title to roughly a quarter of the nation's land including national parks forests and wildlife refuges Managing these properties is expensive and contentious and few management decisions escape criticism Some observers however argue that such criticism is largely misdirected The fundamental problem in their view is collective ownership and its solution is privatization A free market they claim directs privately owned resources to their most productive uses and privatizing public lands would create a free market in their services This timely study critically examines these issues arguing that there is no sense of productivity for which it is true that greater productivity is both desirable and a likely consequence of privatizing public lands or marketizing their management Lehmann's discussion is self contained with background chapters on federal lands and management agencies economics and ethics and will interest philosophers as well as public policy analysts

Privatizing Public Lands Scott Lehmann, 1995 This work critically examines the thesis that public lands would be more productive if they were private or failing that managed as if they were private The discussion includes background chapters on US federal lands management agencies economics and ethics

Privatizing the Land Ivan Szelenyi, 2002-09-11 Privatizing the Land provides an overview of reforms in the state socialist agrarian systems especially during the 1970s and 1980s in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union Using empirical evidence the contributors provide a balanced assessment of how agrarian economies performed in different communist countries The Soviet and Eastern European experience is contrasted with reforms in China Vietnam and Cuba to provide the first comprehensive account of agricultural restructuring after the collapse of communism in Europe and Asia

Roman Law and Economics Giuseppe Dari-Mattiacci,Dennis P. Kehoe,2020-05-26 Ancient Rome is the only society in the history of the western world whose legal profession evolved autonomously distinct and separate from institutions of political and religious power Roman legal thought has left behind an enduring legacy and exerted enormous influence on the shaping of modern legal frameworks and systems but its own genesis and context pose their own explanatory problems The economic analysis of Roman law has enormous untapped potential in this regard by exploring the intersecting perspectives of legal history economic history and the economic analysis of law the two volumes of Roman Law and Economics are able to offer a uniquely interdisciplinary examination of the origins of Roman legal institutions their functions and their evolution over a period of more than 1000 years in response to changes in the underlying economic activities that those institutions regulated Volume I explores these legal institutions and organizations in detail from the constitution of the Roman Republic to the management of business in the Empire while Volume II covers the concepts of exchange ownership and disputes analysing the detailed workings of credit property and slavery among others Throughout each volume contributions from specialists in legal and economic history law and legal theory are underpinned by rigorous analysis drawing on modern empirical and theoretical techniques and methodologies borrowed from economics In demonstrating how these can be fruitfully applied to the study of ancient societies with due deference to the historical context Roman Law and Economics opens up a host of new avenues of research for scholars and students in each of these fields and in the social sciences more broadly offering new ways in which different modes of enquiry can connect with and inform each other Critical Perspectives on Suburban Infrastructures Pierre Filion, Nina M. Pulver, 2019-04-30

Most new urban growth takes place in the suburbs consequently infrastructures are in a constant state of playing catch up creating repeated infrastructure crises in these peripheries However the push to address the tensions stemming from this rapid growth also allow the suburbs to be a major source of urban innovation Taking a critical social science perspective to identify political economic social and environmental issues related to suburban infrastructures this book highlights the similarities and differences between suburban infrastructure conditions encountered in the Global North and Global South Adopting an international approach grounded in case studies from three continents this book discusses infrastructure issues within different suburban and societal contexts low density infrastructure rich Global North suburban areas rapidly developing Chinese suburbs and the deeply socially stratified suburbs of poor Global South countries Despite stark differences between types of suburbs there are features common to all suburban areas irrespective of their location and similarities in the infrastructure issues confronting these different categories of suburbs Land Reform and Farm

Restructuring in Moldova Zvi Lerman, Csaba Csáki, Victor Moroz, 1998-01-01 Agricultural reforms including privatization of land and farm restructuring are an important cornerstone for overall transformation of the economies of the former socialist world This paper summarizes the current status of land reform in Moldova and shows how there has been clear progress in creating a market based agriculture and food sector in Moldova The results of this study indicate that genuine restructuring and transition to full fledged private farming have resulted in improved profitability and higher incomes for private farmers than those achieved by traditional collectives Structural Change in the Farming Sectors in Central and Eastern Europe Csaba Csáki, Zvi Lerman, 2000-01-01 Farm structures in Central and Eastern Europe CEE today cover a whole spectrum of forms which include small subsistence oriented household plots medium sized commercial family farms and large corporations The agricultural sector in CEE definitely has not embraced the family farm as the dominant farming structure thus confounding the original expectations of Western experts On the other hand agriculture did not collapse because of fragmentation and privatization as predicted by conservative doomsayers To address the concerns of the farming sector in CEE with relation to EU accession a workshop was held in Warsaw Poland in June 1999 This volume represents a selection of papers presented at this workshop It examines the reforms and policy changes necessary in the food and agriculture sectors of the ten countries that have started the accession process for eventual membership in the European Union Bulgaria Czech Republic Estonia Hungary Latvia Lithuania Poland Romania Slovakia and Slovenia The papers are organized around the following three topics Evolving farm structures and competitiveness in agriculture Land laws and legal institutions for development of land markets and farm restructuring and Development of farm services for improved competitiveness This volume will be of interest to agricultural policy makers and government officials in the candidate countries EU officials World Bank and FAO staff development scholars and all others interested in the process of agricultural reform in CEE
