Ancient Ghana: The Gold Trade and the Land of Kings

The Kingdom of Ghana, known as the "Land of Gold," flourished between the 6th and 13th centuries CE in West Africa. It was located in the savanna region between the Senegal and Niger Rivers, an area rich in resources and strategically positioned for trade. Ancient Ghana was not the same as the modern nation of Ghana; instead, it was part of a larger network of African kingdoms that capitalized on the growing demand for gold and salt across the trans-Saharan

This book discusses all such diseases in detail as well as suggests means for early identification and appropriate treatment for them. A separate chapter adequately covers the novel coronavirus infection associated with management challenges in pregnant women. The book includes dedicated sections on postpartum infections and fetal outcomes associated with maternal infections. It reviews strategies to prevent infection in obstetrics that plays a key role in decreasing the global burden of maternal morbidity and mortality. The book is relevant for practicing obstetricians and gynecologists, postgraduate students of obstetrics and gynecology as well as general practitioners, family medicine specialists, primary health care workers and undergraduate medical students. "The" Athenaeum, 1898      Cumulated Index Medicus, 1989      Healing and

Change in the City of Gold Ingrid Palmay, Brandon Hamber, Lorena Núñez, 2014-10-19 This volume collects case studies on the lives of people living in post-apartheid Johannesburg, South Africa. In doing so, it considers how people manage, respond to, narrate, and/or silence their experiences of past and present violence, multiple insecurities, and precarity in contexts where these experiences take on an everyday, continuous character. Taking seriously how context shapes the meaning of violence, the forms of response, and the consequences thereof, the contributing chapter authors use participatory and ethnographic techniques to understand people's everyday responses to the violence and insecurity they face in contemporary Johannesburg. Each case study documents an example of a strategy of coping and healing and reflects on how this strategy shapes the theory and practice of violence prevention and response. The case studies cover a diversity of groups of people in Johannesburg, including migrants, refugees, homeless people, sex workers, and former soldiers from across the African continent. Read together, the case studies give us new insights into what it means for these residents to seek support to cope and to heal, challenging the boundaries of what psychologists traditionally consider support mechanisms or interventions for those in distress. They develop a notion of healing that sees it as a process and an outcome that is rooted in the world view of those who live in the city. Alongside the people's sense of insecurity is an equally strong sense of optimism, care, and a striving for change. It is perhaps not surprising, then, that this book deals very centrally with themes of the struggle for progress, mobility, geographic material and spiritual, and a sense of possibility and change associated with Johannesburg. Ultimately, the volume argues that coping and healing is both a collective and individual achievement as well as an economic, psychological, and material phenomenon. Overall, this volume challenges the notion that people can and should seek support primarily from professional, medicalized psychological services and rather demonstrates how the particular support needed is shaped by an understanding of the cause of precarity. Athenaeum and Literary Chronicle, 1853      Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, 1990      Builder and Wood-worker, 1881      Portland Transcript, 1854
