Contemporary Perspectives on Art and International Development Polly Stupples, Katerina Teaiwa, 2016-10-26 Visual artists, craftspeople, musicians and performers have been supported by the development community for at least twenty years yet there has been little grounded and critical research into the practices and politics of that support. This new Routledge book remedies that omission and brings together varied perspectives from artists, policy makers and researchers working in the Pacific, Africa, Latin America and Europe to explore the challenges and opportunities of supporting the arts in the development context. The book offers a series of grounded analyses which cover strategies for the sustainability of arts enterprises, innovative evaluation methods, theoretical engagements with questions of art agency and social change, artists' entanglements with legal and structural frameworks, processes of cultural mapping and the artist-donor interface. The creative economy is increasingly recognized as a driver of development and this book also investigates the contribution made by the arts to the processes of international development and considers how those processes can best be supported by development agencies. Contemporary Perspectives on Art and International Development gives scholars of Development Studies, Social and Cultural Geography, Anthropology, Cultural Policy, Cultural Studies and Global Studies a contextually and

Everything Is Sampled Akin Adesokan, 2023-03-28 Everything Is Sampled examines the shifting modes of production and circulation of African artistic forms since the 1980s, focusing on digital culture as the most currently decisive setting for these changes. Drawing on works of cinema, literature, music, and visual art, Akin Adesokan addresses two main questions: First, given the various changes that the institutions producing African arts and letters have undergone in the past four decades, how have the representational impulses in these forms fared in comparison with those at work in pervasively digital cultures? Second, how might a long view of these artistic forms across media and in different settings affect our understanding of what counts as art, as text, as authorship? Immersed in digital culture, African artists today are acutely aware of the media-saturated circumstances in which they work and actively bridge them by making ethical choices to shape those circumstances. Through an innovative development and analysis of five modes of creative practice: curation, composition, adaptation, platform, and remix, Everything Is Sampled offers an absorbingly complex yet nuanced approach to appreciating the work of several generations of African writers, directors, and artists. No longer content to just fill a spot in the relay between the conception and distribution of a work, these artists are now also quick to view and reconfigure their works through different modes of creative practice.

Narratives in Black British Dance Adesola Akinleye, 2018-02-08 This book explores Black British dance from a number of previously untold perspectives. Bringing together the voices of dance artists, scholars, teachers, and choreographers, it looks at a range of performing arts from dancehall to ballet, providing valuable insights into dance theory, performance, pedagogy, identity, and culture. It challenges the presumption that Blackness, Britishness, or dance are monolithic entities; instead, arguing that all three are living networks created by rich histories, diverse faces, and infinite future possibilities. Through a variety of critical and creative essays this book suggests a widening of our conceptions of what British dance looks like where it appears and who is involved in its creation     Ben Enwonwu Sylvester Okwunodu Ogbechie, 2008 An intellectual biography of a modern African artist and his immense contribution to twentieth century art history
