Barker, 1974 The Victorian Railways Magazine, 1924 Digital Uncanny Kriss Ravetto-Biagioli, 2019 We are now confronted with a new type of uncanny experience an uncanny evoked by parallel processing aggregate data and cloud computing The digital uncanny does not erase the uncanny feeling we experience as déjà vu or when confronted with robots that are too lifelike Today's uncanny refers to how non human devices surveillance technologies algorithms feedback and data flows anticipate human gestures emotions actions and interactions thus intimating that we are but machines and that our behavior is predictable precisely because we are machinic It adds another dimension to those feelings in which we question whether our responses are subjective or automated automated as in reducing one's subjectivity to patterns of data and using those patterns to present objects or ideas that would then elicit one's genuinely subjective yet effectively preset response In fact this anticipation of our responses is a feedback loop that we humans have produced by designing software that can study our traces inputs and moves In this sense one could say that the digital uncanny is a trick we play on ourselves a trick that we would not be able to play had we not developed sophisticated digital technologies Digital Uncanny explores how digital technologies particularly software systems working through massive amounts of data are transforming the meaning of the uncanny that Freud tied to a return of repressed memories desires and experiences to their anticipation Through a close reading of interactive and experimental art works of Rafael Lozano Hemmer Bill Viola Simon Biggs Sue Hawksley and Garth Paine this book is designed to explore how the digital uncanny unsettles and estranges concepts of self affect feedback and aesthetic experience forcing us to reflect on our relationship with computational media and by extension our relationship to each other and our experience of the world      Cyclopædia of American Literature Evert Augustus Duyckinck, George Long Duyckinck, 1875

Middlebrow Modernism Melinda J. Cooper, 2022-10-01 Eleanor Dark 1901-85 is one of Australia s most innovative 20th century writers Her extensive oeuvre includes ten novels published from the early 1930s to the late 1950s and represents a significant engagement with global modernity from a unique position within settler culture Yet Dark s contribution to 20th century literature has been undervalued in the fields of both Australian literary studies and world literature Although two biographies have been written about her life there has been no book length critical study of her writing published since 1976 Middlebrow Modernism counters this neglect by providing the first full length critical survey of Eleanor Dark s writing to be published in over four decades Focusing on the fiction that Dark produced during the interwar years and reading this in the context of her larger body of work this book positions Dark s writing as important to the study of Australian literature and global modernism Melinda Cooper argues that Dark s fiction exhibits a distinctive aesthetic of middlebrow modernism which blends attributes of literary modernism with popular fiction It seeks to mediate and reconcile apparent binaries modernism and mass culture liberal humanism and experimental aesthetics settler society and international modernity The term middlebrow modernism also captures the way Dark negotiated cosmopolitan commitments with more place based attachments to nation and local community within the mid 20th century Middlebrow Modernism posits that Dark s fiction and the broader phenomenon of Australian modernism offer essential case studies for larger debates operating within global modernist and world literature studies providing perspectives these fields might otherwise miss
