Reading Womens Lives Third Edition:

Women's Bible Commentary, Third Edition Carol A. Newsom, Sharon H. Ringe, Jacqueline E. Lapsley, 2012-09-28 The Women's Bible Commentary is a trusted classic resource for biblical scholarship written by some of the best feminist scholars in the field today. This twentieth anniversary edition features brand new or thoroughly revised essays to reflect newer thinking in feminist interpretation and hermeneutics. It comprises commentaries on every book of the Bible including the apocryphal books, essays on the reception history of women in the Bible, and essays on feminist critical method. The contributors raise important questions and explore the implications of how women and other marginalized people are portrayed in biblical texts, looking specifically at gender roles, sexuality, political power, and family life while challenging long held assumptions. This commentary brings modern critical methods to bear on the history, sociology, anthropology, and literature of the relevant time periods to illuminate the context of these biblical portrayals and challenges readers to new understandings.

Reading Spiritualities Dawn Llewellyn, 2016-04-01 The phenomenon of sacred text has undergone radical deconstruction in recent times, reflecting how religion has broken out of its traditional definitions and practices, and how current literary theories have influenced texts inside the religious domain and beyond. Reading Spiritualities presents both commentary and vivid examples of this evolution, engaging with a variety of reading practices that work with traditional texts and those that extend the notion of text itself. The contributors draw on a range of textual sites such as an interview, Caribbean literature, drama, and jazz, women's writings, emerging church blogs, Neopagan websites, the reading practices of Buddhist nuns, empirical studies on the reading experiences of Gujarati Christian and post-Christian women, Chicana short stories, the mosque, cinema, modern art, and literature. These examples open up understandings of where and how sacred texts are emerging and being reassessed within contemporary religious and spiritual contexts and make room for readings where the spiritual resides not only in the textual but in other unexpected places. Reading Spiritualities includes contributions from Graham Holderness, Ursula King, Michael N. Jagessar, David Jasper, Anthony G. Reddie, Michelle Roberts, and Heather Walton to reflect and encourage the interdisciplinary study of sacred text in the broad arena of the arts and social sciences. It offers a unique and well-focused snapshot of the textual constructions and representations of the sacred within the contemporary religious climate, accessible to the general reader as well as more specialist interests of students and researchers working in the crossover fields of religious, theological, cultural, and literary studies.

Reading, Feminism, and Spirituality Dawn Llewellyn, 2016-01-03 Through original interviews and research, Llewellyn uses spirituality to uncover new commonalities between the second and third feminist waves and sacred and secular experiences. Her lively approach highlights the importance of reading cultures in feminist studies, connecting women's voices across generations, literary practices, and religions.

Reading the Bible with the Dead John L. Thompson, 2007-05-29 An exploration of overlooked sections of the Bible.

Reading Women Jennifer Phegley, Janet Badia, 2005-01-01 Literary and popular culture has often focused its attention on women readers particularly since early Victorian times In Reading Women an esteemed group of new and established scholars provide a close study of the evolution of the woman reader by examining a wide range of nineteenth and twentieth century media including Antebellum scientific treatises Victorian paintings and Oprah Winfrey's televised book club as well as the writings of Charlotte Brontë Harriet Beecher Stowe and Zora Neale Hurston Attending especially to what how and why women read Reading Women brings together a rich array of subjects that sheds light on the defining role the woman reader has played in the formation not only of literary history but of British and American culture The contributors break new ground by focusing on the impact representations of women readers have had on understandings of literacy and certain reading practices the development of books and print culture and the categorization of texts into high and low cultural forms

Private Practices Meredith Cherland University of Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada.,2013-10-23 First Published in 1994
The study of literacy no longer focuses solely on psychological processes In the past ten years literacy has been reconceptualized as a social practice or rather as social practices that make up the fabric of daily life Using an anthropological perspective Private Practices examines the broad fictional reading of middle class pre teen girls and offers fresh insights into the place of literacy both at home and at school in the construction of gender The author provides a wealth of evidence to support the central assumption of the book Gender is a cultural and social construction not a biological given Gender is something that people create while interacting with each other in all the practices of their daily lives including their literacy practices The book also provides critical analysis and commentary concerning the role that reading fiction plays in cultural reproduction In the hope that deeper knowledge of literacy as a social practice will support social transformation and eventually social justice the author suggests compelling reasons for the fact that girls read more fiction and different fiction than do boys

Private Practices Meredith Rogers Cherland,1994 A constructed world Gender practices Literacy practices Instructional practices Identity practices Private lessons      Resources in Education ,1995      Rebellious Cooks and Recipe Writing in Communist Bulgaria Albena Shkodrova,2021-01-28 How did people exist and resist in their daily lives under Soviet control in the Cold War period Shkodrova s monograph shows how in communist Bulgaria many women passionately exchanged recipes with friends and strangers to build substantial and impressive private collections of recipes This activity was borderline contraband in going against the general disapproval of home cooking that formed part of the ideology of communism in which home cooking was considered household slavery and an agent of patriarchy Private recipe collections were by far the preferred written source of culinary information more popular than the state approved commercial cookbooks Shkodrova shows how these recipe collections held many different meanings for the women who collected them from helping to navigate the communist economy to enabling new friendships to be developed while engaging safely in power relations and cultivating a sense of individual identity in a society where collective existence was prioritised and exalted Drawing on primary sources including scrapbook cookbooks and working from the establishment of cookery classes before communism and their obliteration thereafter Shkodrova presents a structured outline of the meanings of recipes exchange and home cooking for Bulgarian women under communism      Asserted but not proved; or, Struggles to live A. Bower,1887      About Canada: Disability Rights Deborah Stienstra,2012-03-01T00:00:00Z Through a close examination of employment education transportation telecommunications and health care About Canada Disability Rights explores the landscape of disability rights in Canada and finds that while important advances have been made Canadians with disabilities still experience significant barriers in obtaining their human rights Using the stories and voices of people with disabilities Deborah Stienstra argues that disability is not about faulty bodies that need to be fixed but about the institutional cultural and attitudinal reactions to certain kinds of bodies and that neoliberal ideas of independence and individualism are at the heart of the continuing discrimination against disabled people Stienstra contends that achieving disability rights is possible but not through efforts to fix certain kinds of bodies Rather it can be achieved through universal design disability supports social and economic supports and belonging in short through foundational social transformation of Canadian society The Political Worlds of Women Sarah Richardson,2013 This volume examines female engagement in both traditional and unconventional political arenas in nineteenth century Britain including female sociability salons child rearing and education health consumption religious reform and nationalism Richardson focuses on middle class women s social cultural intellectual and political authority as implemented by a range of public figures and lesser known campaigners

Contemporary Women Writers Look Back Alice Ridout,2011-01-13 Long before John Barth announced in his famous 1967 essay that late 20th century fiction was The Literature of Exhaustion authors have been retelling and recycling stories Barth was however right to identify in postmodern fiction a particular self consciousness about its belatedness at the end of a long literary tradition This book traces the move in contemporary women s writing from the self conscious ironic parodies of postmodernism to the nostalgic and historical turn of the 21st century It analyses how contemporary women writers deal with their literary inheritances offering an illuminating and provocative study of contemporary women writers re writings of previous texts and stories Through close readings of novels by key contemporary women writers including Toni Morrison Doris Lessing Margaret Atwood Zadie Smith Emma Tennant and Helen Fielding and of the ITV adaptation Lost in Austen Alice Ridout examines the politics of parody and nostalgia exploring the limitations and possibilities of both in the contexts of feminism and postcolonialism Reading and Writing Workout for the SAT, 3rd Edition The Princeton
