In 1990, Peter Senge published "The Fifth Discipline" (later followed by "The Fifth Discipline Fieldbook: Strategies and Tools for Building a Learning Organization" in 1994). His books pulled together his extensive research into:

- What different organisations do to build learning capacity? And
- Why some organisations use learning better than others?

Senge codified these practices into what he called 'The 5 Learning Disciplines' as well as coming up with the concept-label of 'learning organisations'.

The most comprehensive and up to date source available for college reading and study strategy practitioners and administrators the Third Edition of the Handbook of College Reading and Study Strategy Research reflects and responds to changing demographics as well as politics and policy concerns in the field since the publication of the previous edition In this thorough and systematic examination of theory research and practice the Handbook offers information to help college reading teachers to make better instructional decisions justification for programmatic implementations for administrators and a complete compendium of both theory and practice to better prepare graduate students to understand the parameters and issues of this field The Handbook is an essential resource for professionals researchers and students as they continue to study research learn and share more about college reading and study strategies Addressing current and emerging theories of knowledge subjects and trends impacting the field the Third Edition features new topics such as disciplinary literacy social media and gaming theory      Establishing Creative Writing Studies as an Academic Discipline Dianne

Donnelly, 2011-11-23 This book advances creative writing studies as a developing field of inquiry scholarship and research It discusses the practice of creative writing studies the establishment of a body of professional knowledge and the goals and future direction of the discipline within the academy This book also traces the development of creative writing studies noting that as the new discipline matures as it refers to evidence of its own research methodology and collective data and locates its authority in its own scholarship creative writing studies will bring even more meaning to the academy its profession and its student body      Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30 Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field s development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person s contributions and a bibliography of representative works The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms provide examples of the terms in context and list scholars often associated with them An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field
