Shaping the Preschool Agenda Anne McGill-Franzen, 1993-01-01 Making all children ready to learn is the first and probably the most important national education goal for the year 2000 What does it mean for children to be ready to learn This book is about the beliefs of the people who are shaping preschool policy McGill Franzen tells us what key decision makers are thinking about preschool education what counts as school who should pay for it what should be taught and especially whether there should be reading and writing programs for four year olds This book also explores the history of these beliefs The author locates contemporary early childhood concepts about developmental appropriateness in the ideas of physicians and psychologists of the 1920s 1930s and in even earlier periods of time She believes that these ideas no longer work within the broader framework of literacy as embedded in the interactions of cultures children know and the lives they live

Reconsidering Children's Early Development and Learning United States. National Education Goals Panel. Goal 1 Technical Planning Group, Sharon Lynn Kagan, Evelyn Moore, Sue Bredekamp, 1995 In 1990 the National Education Goals were established by the President and the 50 state governors Great attention has been given to Goal 1 dubbed the readiness goal By the year 2000 all children in America will start school ready to learn The Goal 1 Resource Technical Planning Groups were asked to suggest ways in which Goal 1 could be measured The purpose of this document is to further amplify the dimensions of early learning and development used by the National Educational Goals Panel to measure progress toward Goal 1 The following five dimensions are discussed 1 Physical Well Being and Motor Development 2 Social and Emotional Development serving as the foundation for relationships which give meaning to school experience 3 Approaches toward Learning referring to the inclinations dispositions or styles that reflect ways children become involved with learning 4 Language Development and 5 Cognition and General Knowledge For each of the dimensions a rationale general definition the relationship to individual cultural and contextual variation and a summary are given The report concludes with a discussion of underlying issues implications and action steps Contains 83 references BGC America 2000 Community Notebook ,1992

History and Educational Policymaking Maris A. Vinovskis, 2008-10-01 In this book an eminent scholar and policymaker analyzes the lessons history can teach those who wish to reform the American educational system Maris Vinovskis begins by tracing the evolving role of the federal government in educational research providing a historical perspective at a time when there is some movement to abolish the U S Department of Education He then focuses on early childhood education exploring trends in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries He examines the troubling history of the Follow Through Program which existed from 1967 to 1994 to help Head Start children make the transition into the regular schools and he reviews the development of the Even Start Program which works to improve the literacy of disadvantaged parents while providing early childhood education for their children He discusses changing views toward the economic benefits of education and critically assesses the validity and usefulness of the idea of systemic or standards based reform Finally he develops a conceptual framework for mapping and analyzing education research and reform activities Learning from the Past Diane Ravitch, Maris A. Vinovskis, 1995-02 Many Americans view today s problems in education as an unprecedented crisis brought on by contemporary social ills In Learning from the Past a group of distinguished educational historians and scholars of public policy reminds us that many of our current difficulties as well as recent reform efforts have important historical antecedents What can we learn they ask from nineteenth century efforts to promote early childhood education or debates in the 1920s about universal secondary education or the curriculum reforms of the 1950s Reflecting a variety of intellectual and disciplinary orientations the contributors to this volume examine major changes in educational development and reform and consider how such changes have been implemented in the past They address questions of governance equity and multiculturalism curriculum standards school choice and a variety of other issues Policy makers and other school reformers they conclude would do well to investigate the past in order to appreciate the implications of the present reform initiatives
