Everett,2009-02-05 2009 CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title Deftly interweaving history culture and critical theory Anna Everett traces the rise of black participation in cyberspace particularly during the early years of the Internet She challenges the problematic historical view of black people as quintessential information age outsiders or poster children for the digital divide by uncovering their early technolust and repositioning them as eager technology adopters and consumers and thus as coconstituent elements in the information technology revolution She offers several case studies that include lessons learned from early adoption of the Internet by the Association of Nigerians Living Abroad and their Nijanet virtual community the grassroots organizing efforts that led to the phenomenally successful Million Woman March the migration of several historic black presses online and an interventionist critique of race in contemporary video games Ultimately Digital Diaspora shows how African Americans and African diasporic peoples developed the necessary technomastery to ride in the front of the bus on the information superhighway
