Realism And Educational Research New Perspectives And Possibilities:

Realism and Educational Research David Scott, 2002-01-04 Covers the social role of educational research an area where there has been little published Covers a range of conceptual and theoretical discussions and applies these concepts to our analysis of empirical studies

Education, Epistemology and Critical Realism David Scott, 2013-05-13 This book addresses fundamental questions in relation to education and its epistemology The position taken by the author is critical realist and thus throughout the relationship between education and critical realism is foregrounded Themes and issues that surface at different times in the book are a critical realist view of education research a resolution of the quantitative qualitative divide criteria for judging the worth of educational texts and practices differences between scientific and critical realisms empirical research methods in education structure agency relationships pragmatist views of educational research foundations and paradigmatic differences and educational critique and transformation

A Critical Realist Perspective of Education Brad Shipway, 2010-07-20 Explores the capability of critical realism to throw light on educational theory This book investigates the convergence and divergence between two forms of critical realism It outlines the key characteristics that are necessary for a theological position to claim the term critical realist

Transdisciplinary Higher Education Paul Gibbs, 2017-05-23 This book is not just about thinking or acting in transdisciplinary ways but about being transdisciplinary To achieve this requires a deconstruction of our current way of acting within the definition of being that others impose upon us Transdisciplinarity is a phenomenological perspective of reality and its manifestation in the world in which we exist The volume develops a widely based transdisciplinary understanding of the issues faced by higher education institutions and those who work within and with these institutions to educate professionals It incorporates international contributions from organisational theory anthropologists historians psychologists social sciences philosophers and practitioners to create a volume that makes an important and distinct contribution to the literature on higher education and professional practice Transdisciplinarity provides one of our greatest challenges in higher education both to the way it is organized and to the nature of the curriculum This book is an important contribution to the debate about its implications Higher education is being challenged by the nature of knowledge and how it is organized the world is transdisciplinary but our institutions are constrained by the disciplines This book contributes to the important debates about the challenges transdisciplinarity provides to our institutions Professor David Boud Emeritus Professor Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences University of Technology Sydney

Critical Realism Justin Cruickshank, 2003-09-02 This reader is designed to make accessible in one volume to lay person and academic student and teacher alike key readings to stimulate debate about and within critical realism

Documentary Research Gary McCulloch, 2004-04-30 Documentary sources have become increasingly neglected in education and the social sciences This book seeks to emphasise their potential value and importance for an understanding of modern societies while also recognising their limitations and explores their relationship with other research strategies

This up to date examination of how to research and use documents analyzes texts from the past and present considering sources ranging from personal archives to online documents and including books reports official documents works of fiction and printed media This comprehensive analysis of the use of documents in research includes sections covering analysing documents legal frameworks and ethical issues records and archives printed media and literature diaries letters and autobiographies
