Ruebling, 2006 Redesigning Accountability Systems for Education. CPRE Policy Briefs. RB-38 Susan H. Fuhrman, 2003 To assist in the redesign of accountability systems the Consortium for Policy Research in Education CPRE and the Center for Research on Evaluation Student Standards and Testing CRESST sought to assemble knowledge from new research on emerging accountability systems A book Redesigning Accountability Systems for Education edited by Susan H Fuhrman and Richard F Elmore Teachers College Press in press contains chapters by leading accountability researchers This issue of CPRE Policy Briefs summarizes the book by focusing on four questions the authors of the book address 1 How valid are new accountability systems 2 How fair are new accountability systems 3 What are the effects of new accountability systems and 4 What is necessary to improve the functioning of accountability systems This Policy Brief reviews the many issues that states are confronting as they implement accountability systems and provides guidance for states looking to fine tune or redesign accountability systems to help meet policies as they were intended Specifically this Brief offers recommendations for improving accountability systems by enhancing the use of expert technical advice by improving the collection and interpretation of system data and by investing in capacity building to ensure that both students and educators have the necessary means to effectively respond to accountability systems Contains 1 footnote Who's in Charge Here? Noel Epstein, 2004-09-27 Few Americans are aware that their nation long ago created a separate government for education supposedly to shield it from political interference Some experts believe that at the heart of today's school debates is a push to put the larger government presidents governors mayors in the drivers seat or even to dump democratic school governance entirely The results are mixed One clear result however is a vexing tangle of authority and accountability Whos in Charge Here untangles it all Using Data to Improve Student Learning Graham S. Maxwell, 2021-04-21 This book offers a coherent research based overview and analysis of theories and practices in using data to improve student learning It clarifies what use of data means and differentiates the different levels of decision making in education relating to the system district school classroom or individual student The relationship between data and decision making is considered and various movements in the use of data to improve student learning are analysed especially from the perspective of their assumptions and effects This leads to a focus on effective educational decision making as a social process requiring collaboration among all relevant participants It also requires a clear understanding of educational aims and these are seen to transcend what can be assessed by standardised tests The consequences of this analysis for decision processes are explored and conclusions are drawn about what principles might best guide educational practice as well as what ambiguities remain Throughout the focus is on what existing research says about each of the issues explored within the complex social political and community contexts that inform and influence the work of today's educational leaders. With particular attention to the implications and larger contexts of shifting demographics, high stakes accountability, and globalization on schools and society in the twenty-first century, this volume seeks to advance lines of inquiry presented in other areas of education research that have yet to be fully explored or imagined in the field of educational leadership. This unique blend of empirical, theoretical, and conceptual research by both established and emerging scholars in the field directly acknowledges and addresses the demands of leading increasingly diverse and complex school communities. Topics include the social and cultural dynamics of leadership, reflective practice, politics of equity and adequacy, critical servant leadership, and the possibilities of transformative leadership within these dynamic educational contexts. As a primary or supplementary text in educational administration, leadership, and foundations courses, New Perspectives in Educational Leadership provides a much-needed complement to the traditional topics of instructional leadership and education management given the expanding and increasingly complex conditions that face educational administrators and school leaders today.

Cognitive Readiness is viewed through a Knowledge, Skills, and Attributes (KSA) lens. Teaching and Measuring Cognitive Readiness deals with: a) the primacy of cognitive readiness as attributes or individual difference variables; b) the need for cognitive readiness instructional and assessment strategies; c) the need to integrate assessment into cognitive readiness training; d) the need for theory-driven evaluation studies to increase knowledge and efficacy in teaching cognitive readiness; and e) the need for a solid psychometric approach to the use of cognitive readiness assessments.

Leading With Inquiry and Action Matthew Militello, Sharon F. Rallis, Ellen B. Goldring, 2009-07-23 This essential guide for educational leaders skillfully blends scholarship with practice and integrates theory with real-world examples. Through case studies, the authors show the reader how to develop support and improve a collaborative inquiry action process for improving teaching and learning. If we are going to have schools that successfully educate all students to high standards, then we need principals who translate the lessons of this book into practice. Andrew Lachman, Executive Director, Connecticut Center for School Change, enhances learning with a collaborative inquiry-based system of leadership. With sociopolitical forces prompting calls for school improvement, school leaders look for ways to expand their expertise in instructional leadership and strengthen their role in shaping classroom practice. Leading With Inquiry and Action presents a systematic, ongoing process for collecting information, making decisions, and taking action to improve instruction and raise student achievement. The authors illustrate this collaborative inquiry action cycle with a running vignette of an experienced principal and offer questions and exercises to guide individual reflection and group discussion Thoroughly grounded in research this book helps administrators Identify areas for instructional improvement Determine community supported solutions and build stakeholder commitment Articulate an action plan based on multiple data sources Take steps that support teacher development Systematically evaluate program results Educational improvement requires informed leadership This practical guide provides an efficient and functional framework for transforming current or aspiring principals into inquiry minded action oriented instructional leaders Global Environment of Policing Darren Palmer, Michael M. crucial to the transition to market democracy      The Conservatives Have No Clothes Greg Anrig, 2007-09-28 Why conservatism equals terrible government and always will Ending the conservative era requires organizing yes but also hard thinking and shrewd analysis When progressives of the future look back at how they triumphed one of the people they'll thank is Greg Anrig Drawing inspiration from the work of the early neoconservatives who demolished public support for liberal programs Anrig casts a sharp eye on conservative ideas and nostrums and shows that many of them simply don't work because they are rooted more in ideological dreams than in reality Facts are stubborn things Ronald Reagan once said and Anrig makes good use of them in this important and engaging book E J Dionne syndicated columnist and author of Why Americans Hate Politics Greg Anrig's wide ranging and perceptive book looks beyond the ideology of the right and offers a persuasive account of the many policy failures that have emerged out of the conservative movement Anrig has put the Bush administration and the right to a test that they themselves have carefully avoided He has held them accountable not for their ideas but for their performance Alan Brinkley Allan Nevins Professor of History Columbia University In this well researched and witty book Anrig critiques right wing ideas by examining what the policies and programs that embodied them have wrought over the last three decades While giving several conservative ideas their due he finds their record to be mixed at best John J DiIulio Jr political science professor and first director of the White House Office of Faith Based and Community Initiatives With fastidious research and unimpeachable facts Greg Anrig establishes the sound proposition that competent governance is incompatible with disbelief in government The odd combination of the religious right dictating personal morality neoconservatism preaching unilateral interventionism and radical libertarian tax cuts have cast our Republic adrift from its moorings Restoration of common sense to government is long overdue Gary Hart Former United States Senator
