Reflective Practice In Malaysi:

Reflective Practice in Malaysian Teacher Education Wai Heng Lee, Sok Khim Tan, 2004 This book explores how Malaysian student teachers practice reflection during their teaching practicum how practice contexts influenced their practices and which aspects of professional knowledge were constructed from their reflective practices It was found that there were two levels of reflective practices among student teachers The public level consisted of reflections through existing mechanisms post conference discussions post lesson analyses and weekly journals Reflections were very weak at this level At the private level student teachers reflected deeply upon their experiences They examined their own teaching their pupils and their beliefs or values about teaching However these reflections were not documented Reflections at this private level were rich and varied but they were not visible to the supervisors Two significant findings are that student teachers reflective practices lacked an element of inquiry and that reflective practices were carried out individual

Integrating High Impact Educational Practices for Malaysia: A Handbook of Reflective Practice and Professional Development (UUM Press)

Rosna Awang-Hashim, Mohammad Noman, 2023-02-20 High Impact Educational Practices HIEPs have been extensively tested as compelling pedagogies for university students from an array of backgrounds especially for the underprepared and those with limited opportunity for high impact learning experiences This handbook is written with our firm belief that while higher education practitioners around the world are focused on improving student outcomes not many have access to a better understanding of the conceptual foundations empirical research and best practices in student engagement and high impact educational pedagogies In this book we unpack the essential conceptual constructs around the notions of student engagement to encourage readers to purposefully add HIEPs to their pedagogical repertoire and engage in Scholarship of Teaching and Learning SoTL practices

Reflective Practice Roger Barnard, Jonathon Ryan, 2017-03-27 This book presents a series of empirical case studies illustrating many different ways of implementing the reflective practice cycle and how they can be researched by practitioners and academics This book explains a range of options for implementing the reflective practice cycle in educational settings in various international contexts Written by international academics these studies show how reflection can be interpreted in different cultural contexts The book concludes with a discussion by Anne Burns of the implications of these case studies for action research

Reconceptualising Reflection in Reflective Practice

Misrah Mohamed, Radzuwan Ab Rashid, 2023-05-10 This edited volume presents a model that embraces four components of reflective practice planning acting reflecting and evaluating The complexities of reflective practice are manifested through three aspects of reflection problem solving action orientedness and critical reflection To provide practical guidance the audience is presented with various sets of experiences within the field of education which represent different foci and criticality of reflection The experiences are described through different lenses from individual to groups of educators The chapters provide a reconceptualisation of reflection which underpins an effective reflective practice Therefore readers are provided with information that demonstrates the different phases of reflection that make up an effective cycle of reflective practice. It is through the chapters that readers will be able to distinguish the different foci and levels of reflection thus enabling them to engage in reflective practice more effectively. The Malaysian context that the book brings gives readers insights into a lesser known context and its people, culture and educational system as a whole for comparison. The book is written with the needs of student teachers and teacher educators in mind. However, the model reconceptualised is transferable to other disciplines too. Reflective TESOL Practitioners Through Teacher Education Andrzej Cirocki, Mark Wyatt, Xuesong (Andy)

Gao, 2024-06-26 This textbook provides insights from Asian contexts into how reflective practice is nurtured on Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) and English Language Teaching (ELT) teacher education programmes. There is increasing recognition worldwide that given the centrality of reflective practice to teachers' ongoing professional development, supporting teachers to become reflective practitioners should be integral to teacher education programmes. Consequently, tertiary level courses in areas such as TESOL and ELT tend to promote reflective practice supported by theoretical input from the burgeoning literature on reflection, much of which is produced in the West. Relatively under-represented in the literature are global perspectives on reflective practice; there are consequently relatively few accounts as to how reflective practice is embedded in teacher education programmes in different parts of the world, including Asia. Hence, this book addresses a gap. Contributing authors from fourteen countries provide insights into the ways in which teachers are helped to grow as reflective practitioners on their teacher education programmes in their unique contexts. This textbook showcases how reflective teaching practices are developed, supported by frameworks for critical reflection and in interaction with local educational policies. These distinctive accounts aid readers in reflecting on the ways in which reflective practice is supported in their own teacher education contexts and in considering ways of enhancing the reflective dimension of their programmes. This textbook showcases innovative reflective activities and can be used as a principal text or as supplemental reading on a range of TESOL and ELT teacher education courses. The Role of Service in the Tourism & Hospitality Industry

The SAGE Handbook of Research in International Education Mary Hayden,Jeff Thompson,Jack Levy,2007-01-03 The editors of the SAGE Handbook of Research in International Education have brought together an impressive array of scholars whose cutting edge research addresses the growing field of international education from the experiences of K 12 schools around the world to the field of teacher education This book raises important questions and should be read by a broad audience Kenneth Cushner Executive Director of International Affairs and Professor of Education Kent State University The editors of this admirable handbook have set out to produce a report on international education Their consummate success in doing so gives those of us working in the field a new and invaluable resource The editors may be academics but this is a book largely written by about and for those whose job it is to teach internationally No one working in international education will fail to be provoked challenged or inspired by the compelling arguments advanced within this authoritative volume Peter MacKenzie Principal Hiroshima International School The book is well organized in carefully integrated sections and chapters and the references alone are a valuable bibliographical tool An indispensable work highly recommended for education reference collections and the libraries of individual researchers J B Thomas Emeritus Professor of Educational Studies Loughborough University Interest in the field of international education has never been more intense than at present There are a rapidly increasing number of schools worldwide set up specifically to meet the demands of those parents who through their own professional activities wish to have their sons and daughters educated in schools that offer programmes based on international values Such schools have embraced the promotion of international education as one of their major goals and consequently an increasing number of organisations currently offer curricula that claim to be international in nature. Such global movements have created a parallel increase in the incorporation of forms of international education within national school systems throughout the world. This has resulted in wider forms of collaboration between schools in the public and private sectors nationally and internationally, generating a much more substantial base of professional experience in the implementation of schemes for international education than had previously existed. This book analyses the origins, contributions and interpretations of international education. The authors identify approaches to research that will progress our knowledge and understanding of the field and extend and even redraw it on the basis of the research evidence presented. Content includes: A historical overview of the ways in which the term international education has been interpreted; The theoretical interpretation of international education in its current context; International education in practice: exploration of the issues in terms of students, curricula, pedagogies and organising formal institutions; Conceptual challenges for international education in the future. This handbook is an essential resource for those who are involved in the practice and academic study of international education. It will be of particular interest to researchers and teachers in universities, governmental and private curriculum development agencies, examination authorities, administrators and teachers in schools. This volume is another valuable SAGE contribution to the expanding literature on international education. Not all handbooks are described as essential reading, but this one will be and will become an indispensable work of reference, highly recommended for education libraries, both academic and governmental, and for the bookshelves of individual researchers and all involved in international education. The three editors and their fellow authors can take a collective pride in having given us an excellent volume which very successfully completes a chronological and theoretical journey through the issues, practices and future questions presented by international research and practice in international education.
