Reforms In Albanian Agriculture Assessing A Sector In Transition:

Reforms in Albanian Agriculture Severin Kodderitzsch,1999-01-01 Agriculture provides the livelihood to 60% of the Albanian population Even though it is still fairly primitive and it will never probably ensure self sufficiency in major agricultural commodities it represents a useful shock absorber in the current situation of economic and social unrest Since it started its transition to a market economy in 1991 Albania has carried out major reforms in the agricultural sector at large achieving remarkable increases both in output and total factor productivity However more needs to be done to reduce rural poverty stop environmental degradation and increase integration with regional and international economies The paper provides an overview of the different policy and institutional aspects that will need to be considered for a balanced outcome

Agricultural Markets in a Transitioning Economy Catherine Chan-Halbrendt,Jean Fantle-Lepczyk,2013 This book presents major challenges and opportunities facing agriculture sectors in the wake of the transition from a planned to market economy Using Albania as a case study it examines the shift from communism to free markets and the lasting effects of such change on agricultural production and education Using primary research sources to give readers an accurate portrayal of the path that lies ahead for many developing countries the book also looks at the future of agriculture in transitioning economies

Agriculture in Transition Zvi Lerman,Csaba Csáki,Gershon Feder,2004-01-01 In Agriculture in Transition Land Policies and Evolving Farm Structures in Post Soviet Countries authors Zvi Lerman Csaba Csaki and Gershon Feder study the land policies and farming structures of these newly emerging nations as components of institutional change in the rural sector change from a centralized rural economy to a market oriented economy Structural Reforms in Southeastern Europe

Since the Kosovo Conflict Daniela Gressani,Saumya Mitra,2002-01-01 This study examines the progress made by the countries of south east Europe Albania Bosnia and Herzegovina Bulgaria Croatia FYR Macedonia Romania and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia towards implementing structural economic reforms in the three years since the end of the Kosovo conflict as well as considering the challenges that lie ahead It discusses four key areas of reform strengthening public finances and fighting corruption creating a liberal trade environment encouraging foreign investment and fostering the growth of private markets Institutional Reform for Irrigation and Drainage Fernando J. Gonzalez,Salman M. A.

Salman,2002-01-01 If sustainable management of tropical forests is to be accomplished and deforestation brought under control the on the ground performance of existing forest concessions along with the allocation of new concessions will have to be strengthened This study examines the failures of forest concessions and the loss of tropical forests due to mismanagement during the last two decades It also emphasizes the potential gains resulting from strengthening the allocation management and supervision of concessions by concentrating on improving procedures introducing performance incentives and monitoring key performance elements Land Policies and Evolving Farm Structures in Transition Countries

Zvi Lerman,Csaba Csáki,Gershon Feder,2002 Farm Sector Restructuring in Belarus Csaba Csáki,Zvi Lerman,Serge?

Sotnikov,2000 Agriculture remains the main source of employment and livelihood for the large rural population of many transition countries especially among the former Soviet republics Accordingly the World Bank continuously monitors the progress of land reform and farm restructuring in the region because of the potential impact of these processes on rural development and poverty alleviation in rural areas The present study on Belarus is the latest addition to a long and growing series of World Bank publications on land reform and farm restructuring in the former socialist countries of Europe and Central Asia The unique features of all these publications is their reliance on first hand empirical information collected through extensive farm surveys of various rural constituencies Analysis of survey findings enables the World Bank to base its policy dialogue with governments in the region on solid empirical facts making the Bank s recommendations more credible and relevant The survey findings in this volume will provide a platform for useful policy discussions with this country s government and supply international donors that are active there with essential information to design their strategic programs

Reforming Education in the Regions of Russia Mary Canning,Peter R. Moock,Timothy E.

Heleniak,1999-01-01 Russia s educational system with broad access and high levels of scholarly achievement has long been a source of strength The Soviet system however was grossly overcentralized inefficient and lacking in accountability In the last decade attempted rapid decentralization has not been well designed since there has been no commensurate transfer of resources and levels of responsibility have remained unclear Unless corrected soon the harmful impact on educational quality and equity could be very serious The purposes of this report are to analyze the nature of the current problems and to discuss policy options open to the Russian Government in its efforts to improve educational efficiency preserving and even improving equitable access without sacrificing traditions of academic excellence This report is based on analysis of trends across the 89 Russian regions and case studies In its conclusions the report draws on this regional experience to suggest reform options Among other proposals efficiency could be increased by giving schools increased financial autonomy using of per capita financing formulae and beginning to rationalize the teaching force and improve its quality A national system of student assessment might help both to raise quality and improve the equity of access to highly selective institutions Reforms are required to improve the market responsiveness of first level vocational education and especially to avoid excessive and premature specialization Education practitioners and policy makers will find this publication of interest

Economic Reform and Environmental Performance in Transition Economies Gordon Hughes,Magda Lovei,1999-01-01 transition has proved to be a much longer and more difficult process than most had anticipated and progress has varied By 1998 only one country Poland which embarked on economic reform before the rest of the region had reestablished sustained economic growth and surpassed the pretransition level of real gross domestic product GDP From Economic Reform and Environmental Performance in Transition Economies Most global economy and environmental watchers expect the transition to a market economy to yield environmental benefits The changing incentives that a market economy introduces should foster more efficient production better use of resources and increased community input The advanced reformers of the Central and Eastern European CEE countries proved this to be the case They improved energy efficiency and reduced emissions intensity of pollutants The slower reforming countries of the Newly Independent States NIS also experienced lower pollution However that downturn coincided with the economic decline which shut down many major polluters This report reviews progress in environmental trends since transition began It looks at air and water pollution and health indicators in the trends and in light of the environmental issues identified in the Environmental Action Programme for Central and Eastern Europe It continues and builds on the World Bank's work in analyzing the environmental effects of transition restructuring and privatization with a view to identifying priority areas for investment and policy initiatives The report will interest environmental policy makers and practitioners

Structural Change in the Farming Sectors in Central and Eastern Europe Csaba Csáki, Zvi Lerman, 2000-01-01 Farm structures in Central and Eastern Europe CEE today cover a whole spectrum of forms which include small subsistence oriented household plots medium sized commercial family farms and large corporations The agricultural sector in CEE definitely has not embraced the family farm as the dominant farming structure thus confounding the original expectations of Western experts On the other hand agriculture did not collapse because of fragmentation and privatization as predicted by conservative doomsayers To address the concerns of the farming sector in CEE with relation to EU accession a workshop was held in Warsaw Poland in June 1999 This volume represents a selection of papers presented at this workshop It examines the reforms and policy changes necessary in the food and agriculture sectors of the ten countries that have started the accession process for eventual membership in the European Union Bulgaria Czech Republic Estonia Hungary Latvia Lithuania Poland Romania Slovakia and Slovenia The papers are organized around the following three topics Evolving farm structures and competitiveness in agriculture Land laws and legal institutions for development of land markets and farm restructuring and Development of farm services for improved competitiveness This volume will be of interest to agricultural policy makers and government officials in the candidate countries EU officials World Bank and FAO staff development scholars and all others interested in the process of agricultural reform in CEE

Agricultural Policies in Emerging and Transition Economies 1999 OECD, 1999-08-30 This publication is the seventh in a series of annual evaluations of agricultural policies markets and trade developments in non OECD countries It

Access to Education for the Poor in Europe and Central Asia Nancy Vandycke, 2001-01-01 This paper focuses on the long term benefits of education It also examines the supply of education the short term incentives to invest in education for the poor and draws on the policy implications This paper also stresses the need to study further the determinants of school enrollment among the poor

Overcoming Obstacles to Liberalization of the Telecom Sector in Estonia, Poland, the Czech Republic, Slovenia, and Hungary Robert Bruce, 1999-01-01. This study emerges from discussions with representatives of the World Bank and high level representatives of government and the telecommunications services industry in Hungary, Estonia, Poland, the Czech Republic, Slovenia, and Hungary. It considers the problems inherent with the liberalization of the telecom sector. This publication is a Technical Paper sponsored by the Poverty Reduction and Economic Management Network of the World Bank's Europe and Central Asia Division. It is part of a comprehensive series regarding the many important factors that influence European Union (EU) accession in the Central and East European countries (CEEC). The topics in the series cover both the social and economic aspects of accession across a broad range of sectors. The series also provides background information for specific acceding countries. These publications will be of interest to EU member and candidate countries, their ministries, and any one studying the accession issue.

Non-payment in the Electricity Sector in Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union, 1999-01-01. In Albania, consumers with guns stolen from the government threatened to shoot the utility officials who attempted to disconnect defaulting customers. This situation and others less dramatic but every bit as corrupt aggravated the utility non-payment issue and pushed it into the foreground. This study reviews the non-payment problem in the electricity sector in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union during 1990-1997. In addition to non-payment, the review also covers the problem of low cash collections and the preference in some countries for the use of cash substitutes such as barter, offsets, and promissory notes. The objective of the study is to identify which policies and measures addressing the problem of non-payment in the electricity sector worked in practice and which did not. Therefore, it includes stories of both success and failure. It is aimed at equipping Bank staff and decision makers with a set of practical tools that can be of use when the political will exists to tackle the problem.

The Development of Electricity Markets in the Euro-Mediterranean Area Daniel Müller-Jentsch, 2001-01-01. Annotation: The main objective of this report is to outline key policy issues that need to be addressed in order to achieve energy sector reform at the national and regional levels.

Assessing Markets for Renewable Energy in Rural Areas of Northwestern China Tuntivate Voravate, Douglas F. Barnes, V. Susan Bogach, 2000. This reports on a detailed market study of rural areas in China without access to electricity from the local or national grid. It obtained basic socio-economic data on households with and without photovoltaic (PV) systems and used the data to determine the market potential for PV systems in such areas.

Subnational Budgeting in Russia Lev M. Freinkman, Daniel Treisman, Stepan Titov, 1999-01-01. Not only are Russia's regions economically diverse but the policies that regional governments have adopted to deal with the strains of economic transition also vary widely. Some regions have generally embraced market reforms while others have sought to preserve enclaves of socialism with price restrictions large subsidies and barriers to trade Reforms of Russia s budgetary system at the subnational level are vital to preserve macroeconomic stability improve the efficiency and accountability of government and enhance incentives for local and regional governments to vigorously support economic growth Previous analytical and reform efforts have focused on possible changes at the federal level and in the system of center region relations An opportunity now exists to make progress by providing reform advice and conditional aid to policymakers at the regional and subregional level This report focuses on opportunities for reform at the subnational level It reviews recent trends in fiscal adjustment budgeting and government debt at the regional and local levels in Russia It analyzes major problems and suggests a number of measures and performance indicators that could form part of a reform strategy initiated by the Government of Russia

Armenia Gillian Perkins, Ruslan Yemtsov, 2001-01-01 This book compares the recent evolution of the structure of inputs and expenditure in Armenia s general education with international norms and practice In the context of the government s sectoral reform strategy it also outlines various proposals for restructuring the system The study clarifies what inefficiencies might mean for future costs and performance of the system highlights the trade offs involved and identifies measures needed to overcome constraints to rationalization

EU Investment Grants Review Iain Begg, 1999-01-01 This study is the first of a three stage research program that aims to investigate institutional arrangements for local and regional capital investment in selected CEECs and assess whether these arrangements provide appropriate signals to economic agents with regard to EU accession This publication is a Technical Paper sponsored by the Poverty Reduction and Economic Management Network of the World Bank s Europe and Central Asia Division It is part of a comprehensive series regarding the many important factors that influence European Union EU accession in the Central and East European countries CEEC The topics in the series cover both the social and economic aspects of accession across a broad range of sectors The series also provides background information for specific acceding countries These publications will be of interest to EU member and candidate countries their ministries and any one studying the accession issue
