Quakers, Jews, and Science G. N. Cantor, 2005-09-22 This study examines how two minorities the Quaker and Anglo Jewish communities engaged with the sciences With their roots in the mid seventeenth century both communities maintained their religious and social norms throughout the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries while standing outside the hegemony of the Anglican Church and being subject to various forms of discrimination Yet for both Quakers and Jews science offered educational and career opportunities and participation in the wider society They adopted their own scientific interests with Quakers being attracted principally to the observational sciences Drawing on a wealth of documentary material much of which has not been
