Remaking Planning Politics Of Urban Change:

Remaking Planning Tim Brindley, 1996 Remaking Planning Tim Brindley, Yvonne Rydin, Gerry Stoker, 1989 This book challenges the view that planning under the Thatcher governments has simply been abandoned to market forces aiming to show that the interrelation of state and market is central to all current styles of planning Case studies ranging across the country are also presented The Politics and Ideology of Planning Tim Marshall, 2020-12-09 Planning is a battleground of ideas and interests perhaps more visibly and continuously than ever before in the UK These battles play out nationally and at every level from cities to the smallest neighbourhoods Marshall goes to the root of current planning models and exposes who is acting for what purposes across these battlegrounds He examines the ideological structuring of planning and the interplay of political forces which act out conflicting interest positions This book discusses how structures of planning can be improved and explores how we can generate more effective political engagements in the future Transforming Urban

Waterfronts Gene Desfor, Jennefer Laidley, Quentin Stevens, Dirk Schubert, 2010-10-04 The collection engages with major theoretical debates and empirical findings on how waterfronts transform and have been transformed in port cities in North and South America Europe and the Caribbean It brings together authors from a broad range of disciplinary backgrounds to tackle vital questions of waterfront development Urban Process and Power Peter Ambrose, 2002-06-01 Urban Process and Power has two chief aims Firstly it analyses and explains a century of the production and reproduction of the urban environment in which most of us live Secondly the book focuses on recent changes in the control of these processes and the ideology that has brought these changes about Immense disparities exist between the best and the worst urban areas in Britain Why do these differences arise and how are they perpetuated The author argues that the growth of such inequality is linked to questions of accountability and the increasing erosion of a democratic principle in the urban process Impacts of European Territorial Policies in the Baltic States Garri Raagmaa, Dominic Stead, 2017-10-02 Urban and regional development in the Baltic States and other Central and Eastern European countries has experienced rapid changes since their re independence at the beginning of the 1990s Meanwhile urban and regional planning institutions and organizational cultures in the Baltic States have only changed rather incrementally despite various national and European pressures for reform As a consequence the effects of European cohesion and structural policy measures have been quite modest and the ability of the planning systems in the Baltic states to manage contemporary trends in urban and regional development has become increasingly limited This book focuses on these issues and tensions of spatial planning and development in the Baltic States and their distinctiveness compared to other European countries It provides an overview of the historical and cultural context of spatial development a discussion of the processes of Europeanization of spatial planning in the specific context of the Baltic States and an analysis of whether these processes may be leading to policy convergence in the region This book was published as a special issue of European Planning Studies Delivering New Homes Matthew Carmona, Sarah

Carmona, Nick Gallent, 2003 This book examines the processes and relationships that underpin the delivery of new homes across the United Kingdom focussing primarily on the land use planning system in England the way that housing providers engage with that system and how the processes of engagement are changing or might change in the future Planning market and social house building the three key processes are first dissected and explored individually then brought together to study the key areas of interaction between planning and the providers of social and market housing by way of the range of tensions that have consistently dogged those interactions Extensive illustrative case study material provides a platform to the consideration of developing more integrated realistic and proactive approaches to planning Proposing evolutionary and sometimes radical proposals for change Delivering New Homes makes a bold contribution to finding a better way of delivering the new homes that the nation increasingly needs

Contemporary British Fiction and the Cultural Politics of Disenfranchisement A. Beaumont, 2015-12-05 By examining the representation of urban space in contemporary British fiction this book argues that key to the political left's strategy was a model of action which folded politics into culture and elevated disenfranchisement to the status of a political principle

Reconstituting Rurality Jonathan Murdoch, Terry Marsden, 2013-10-11 The second in the Restructuring Rural Areas series this work presents an examination of the way in which the rural and the concept of rurality is being reconstructed within urban regions It argues that the rural is not a fixed category but the outcome of political economic and socio cultural pressures These pressures are exacerbated in southeast England an area dominated by London and the patterns of growth associated with that city Through close analysis of key land development processes and a series of village studies the authors give a forceful demonstration of the way in which certain social groups are becoming increasingly influential in determining the material and social shape of rural areas in the United Kingdom The formation of class identity it is argued is closely bound up with the formation of certain local spaces class and space must be considered as combined elements in the development of rural locales To illustrate this the authors document in detail the means by which dominant groups represent themselves within the development process and show how the exclusion of certain kinds of development leads to the exclusion of certain social groups

Urban Planning and the British New Right Philip Allmendinger, Huw Thomas, 2002-01-22 Did the 1980s and 1990s see the death of planning Exposing the myth that has grown up around Thatcherism leading experts from a wide range of land use policy areas examine the changes that were brought about in planning and the environment during the 1980s and 1990s and argue that much less was achieved than expected Urban Planning and the British New Right questions common assumptions about planning practices under Thatcherism concluding that the complex relationship of power between central local and national government requires a sensitivity to change that is inclusive rather than doctrinal This is a book that says as much about the administration institutions and processes of planning as it does about Mrs Thatcher's attempts to change it

that cities can play in shaping progressive policies in collaboration with various stakeholders It examines the timing of such shifts to progressivity in cities the interactions that enable progressive actions to be developed and sustained and the challenges and constraints facing progressive cities The book approaches the themes using an array of methods to investigate how progressive city governments emerge what constitutes a progressive city in terms of governance institutions processes and outcomes and whether progressive cities are destined to be ephemeral or if they can be sustained over time With its focus on the emerging role of local governments in shaping city futures this book is useful for students academics government official and policy makers interested in geography sociology urban planning public policy political economy social movements participatory democracy and Asian and European studies Governing Cities in a Global Era R. Neem, 2014-08-07 The establishment of democracy on both sides of the Atlantic has not been a smooth evolution towards an idealized presumed endpoint Far from it democratization has been marked by setbacks and victories a process often referred to as contested democracy In view of recent mobilizations such as the Arab Spring and the Occupy movement in which new technologies have played a key role there is a need for a renewed analysis of the long term evolution of US and UK political systems Using new areas of research this book argues that the ideals and the practices of Anglo American democracy can be best understood by studying diverse forms of participation which go beyond classical expressions of contestation and dissent such as voting The authors analyze political parties social movements communications and social media governance cultural diversity identity politics public private actors and social cohesion to illustrate how the structure and context of popular participation play a significant role in whether and when citizens' efforts have any meaningful impact on those who exercise political power In doing so the authors take crucial steps towards understanding how a vigorous public sphere and popular sovereignty can be made to work in today's global environment This book will be of interest to students and scholars of political science British and US history democracy political participation governance social movements and politics Rationalities of Planning Jonathan Murdoch, Simone Abram, 2017-07-05

What are the key rationalities that underpin planning policy discourses and how do they frame seemingly irreconcilable conflicts around development and environmental protection Providing a thorough assessment of these important questions this stimulating book reviews planning policy in the UK and the rationality of sustainable development Supported by a wealth of empirical material collected over the past ten years the study examines the national regional and local tiers of planning for housing It analyzes whether the rationality of planning for sustainable development allows a new spatial sensibility to inform planning policy and whether it still responds to the social demands that were previously incorporated within the developmental method The overriding concern which the authors respond to and expand upon is whether planning for sustainable development can provide a satisfactory basis upon which to re establish contemporary planning
