Remaking Reality Nature At The Millenium:

Remaking Reality Bruce Braun, Noel Castree, 1998 This text rejects apocalyptic pronouncements that the end of the millenium represents the end of nature as well Bringing together leading international contributors this book argues that a notion of social nature provides great hope for the future Engaging with debates in politics science technology and social movements surrounding race gender and class the contributors explore important and emerging sites where nature is now being remade with considerable social and ecological consequences

Envisioning Human Geographies Paul Cloke, Philip Crang, Mark Goodwin, 2014-02-24 Bringing together many of the leading human geographers from around the English speaking world Envisioning Human Geographies offers a series of personal visions for the future of human geography The result is a vigorous and far sighted debate about what human geography could and should be concerned with in the twenty first century The individual contributors develop their arguments to address the shape and direction of human geographies with each chapter looking forward and envisioning an intellectual future for the subject The result is a set of powerful statements written around the themes of space nature enclosure political economy non representation post colonialism feminism post structuralism computation morality spirituality activism The statements are tied via an introduction that discusses the ideological academic and aesthetic prompts that fire the human geographical imagination Envisioning Human Geographies maps out important new territories of enquiry for human geography and is essential reading for all students studying the nature and philosophy of the subject

Latour and the Humanities Rita Felski, Stephen Muecke, 2020-09-01 How does the work of influential theorist Bruno Latour offer a fresh angle on the practices and purposes of the humanities In recent years defenses of the humanities have tended to argue along predictable lines the humanities foster empathy the humanities encourage critical thinking the humanities offer a counterweight to the cold calculations of the natural and social sciences The essays in Latour and the Humanities take a different approach Exploring the relevance of theorist Bruno Latour s work they argue for attachments and entanglements between the humanities and the sciences while looking closely at the interests institutions and intellectual projects that shape the humanities within and beyond the university The collection which is written by a group of highly distinguished scholars from around the world is divided into two sections In the first part authors engage in depth with Latour s work while also rethinking the ties between the humanities and the sciences Essays argue for greater attention to the nonhuman world the urgency of climate change and more nuanced views of universities as institutions The second half of the volume contains essays that reflect on Latour s influence on the practices of specific disciplines including art the digital humanities film studies and political theory Inspiring conversation about the relevance of actor network theory for research and teaching in the humanities Latour and the Humanities offers a substantial introduction to Latour s work while discussing the humanities without falling back on the genres of either the sermon or the jeremiad This volume will be of interest to all those searching for fresh perspectives on the

Kjaer, 2020-04-23 Political economy themes have directly and indirectly been a central concern of law and legal scholarship ever since political economy emerged as a concept in the early seventeenth century a development which was reinforced by the emergence of political economy as an independent area of scholarly enquiry in the eighteenth century as developed by the French physiocrats This is not surprising in so far as the core institutions of the economy and economic exchanges such as property and contract are legal institutions In spite of this intrinsic link political economy discourses and legal discourses dealing with political economy themes unfold in a largely separate manner. Indeed, this book is also a reflection of this in so far as its core concern is how the law and legal scholarship conceive of and approach political economy issues.

Wilderness or Home? Asebe Regassa Debelo, 2016. This book critically probes into the politics of nature conservation and commodification. Building on political ecology, the book argues that conservation is used by state and non-state actors as an instrument of controlling multidimensional spaces of indigenous communities. The study creates a nexus between the hegemonic discourse of wilderness conservation in colonial Africa and Ethiopia's appropriation of this narrative and how it internally exported it to its peripheries. It found out that the successive Ethiopian regimes, the imperial military and developmental state, share commonalities in using nature conservation both for political control of societies and their territories and as a means of economic extraction through commodification. Asebe Regassa Debelo is a graduate of the Bayreuth International Graduate School of African Studies (BIGSAS) Series Contributions to African Research (Beitrag zur Afrikaforschung) Vol. 66. Subject: Sociology African Studies.

Museum Practices and the Posthumanities Fiona R. Cameron, 2023-10-24. This book critiques modern museologies and curatorial practices that have been complicit in emerging existential crises. It confidently presents novel, more than human curatorial visions, methods, frameworks, policies, and museologies radically refiguring the epistemological foundations of curatorial, museological thinking and practice for a habitable planet. Modern curatorial and museological practices are dominated by modern humanism, in which capital growth, social technological advancement, hubris, extraction, speciesist logics, and colonial domination predominate, often without reflection. While history, science, and technology museums and their engagement with non-human worlds have always been ecological, as an empirical reality, the human-centred frameworks and forms of human agency that institutions deploy tend to be non-cognizant of this reality. Museum Practices and the Posthumanities: Curating for Planetary Habitability reveals how these practices are ill-equipped to deal with the contemporary world of rapid digital transformations, post-Covid living, climate change, and its impacts among other societal changes, and it shows how museums might best meet these challenges by thinking with and in more than human worlds. This book is aimed at museological scholars and museum professionals, and it will provide them with the inspiration to conduct research on and curate from a different ecological reference point to promote a world good enough for all things to thrive in radical co-existence.

Global Political Ecology Richard Peet, Paul Robbins, Michael Watts, 2010-12-17. The world is caught in the mesh of a series of environmental crises. So far, attempts at resolving the deep basis of these have been superficial and disorganized. Global Political Ecology links the political economy of global capitalism with the political ecology of a series of environmental disasters and failed attempts at environmental policies. This critical volume draws together contributions from twenty-five leading intellectuals in the field. It begins with an introductory chapter that introduces the readers to political ecology and summarizes the book's main findings. The following seven sections cover topics on the political ecology of war and the disaster state, fuelling capitalism, energy scarcity, and abundance global governance of health bodies and genomics the contradictions of global food capital s marginal product effluents waste and garbage water as a commodity a human right and power the functions and dysfunctions of the global green economy political ecology of the global climate and carbon emissions This book contains accounts of the main currents of thought in each area that bring the topics completely up to date The individual chapters contain a theoretical introduction linking in with the main themes of political ecology as well as empirical information and case material Global Political Ecology serves as a valuable reference for students interested in political ecology environmental justice and geography

Global Fluids Charlotte Kroløkke, 2018-07-27 In the fertility and cosmetics industries women s body products such as urine eggs and placentas have moved from being seen as waste to becoming valuable ingredients Taking a sociological and anthropological perspective the author focuses in particular on the role that countries like Denmark Spain the Netherlands and Japan play in the reproductive products industry and discusses the moral limits of the cultural and rhetorical trajectories that turn women s body products into internationally mobile substances

Placing Critical Geography Lawrence D. Berg, Ulrich Best, Mary Gilmartin, Henrik Gutzon Larsen, 2021-11-29 This book explores the multiple histories of critical geography as it developed in 14 different locations around the globe whilst bringing together a range of approaches in critical geography It is the first attempt to provide a comprehensive account of a wide variety of historical geographies of critical geography from around the world Accordingly the chapters provide accounts of the development of critical approaches in geography from beyond the hegemonic Anglo American metropolises Bringing together geographers from a wide range of regional and intellectual milieus this volume provides a critical overview that is international and illustrates the interactions or lack thereof between different critical geographers working across a range of spaces The chapters provide a more nuanced history of critical geography suggesting that while there were sometimes strong connections with Anglo American critical geography there were also deeply independent developments that were part of the construction of very different kinds of critical geography in different parts of the world Placing Critical Geographies provides an excellent companion to existing histories of critical geography and will be important reading for researchers as well as undergraduate and graduate students of the history and philosophy of geography

Nature Swapped and Nature Lost Elia Apostolopoulou, 2020-06-23 This book unravels the profound implications of biodiversity offsetting for nature society relationships and its links to environmental and social inequality Drawing on people s resistance against its implementation in several urban and rural places across England it explores how the production of equivalent natures the core promise of offsetting reframes socionatures both discursively and materially transforming places and livelihoods The book draws on theories and concepts from human geography political ecology and Marxist political economy and aims to shift the trajectory of the current literature on the interplay between offsetting urbanization and the neoliberal reconstruction of conservation and planning policies in the era following the 2008 financial crash By shedding light on offsetting s contested geographies it offers a fundamental retheorization of offsetting capable of demonstrating how offsetting and more broadly revanchist neoliberal policies are increasingly used to support capitalist urban growth producing socially environmentally and geographically uneven outcomes Nature Swapped and Nature Lost brings forward an understanding of environmental politics as class politics and sees environmental justice as inextricably linked to social justice It effectively challenges the dystopia of offsetting's ahistorical and asocial non places and proposes a radically different pathway for gaining social control over the production of nature by linking struggles for the right to the city with struggles for the right to nature for all

Transforming the Frontier Bram Büscher, 2013-04-29 An argument that peace parks transnational conservation areas established and managed by two or more countries are driven by neoliberal approaches to conservation that are often deleterious to local inhabitants and the surrounding environment Reimagining Social Medicine from the South Abigail H. Neely, 2021-07-12 In Reimagining Social Medicine from the South Abigail H Neely explores social medicine's possibilities and limitations at one of its most important origin sites the Pholela Community Health Centre PCHC in South Africa The PCHC's focus on medical and social factors of health yielded remarkable success And yet South Africa's systemic racial inequality hindered health center work and witchcraft illnesses challenged a program rooted in the sciences To understand Pholela's successes and failures Neely interrogates the social in social medicine She makes clear that the social sciences the PCHC used failed to account for the roles that Pholela's residents and their environment played in the development and success of its program At the same time the PCHC's reliance on biomedicine prevented it from recognizing the impact on health of witchcraft illnesses and the social relationships from which they emerged By rewriting the story of social medicine from Pholela Neely challenges global health practitioners to recognize the multiple worlds and actors that shape health and healing in Africa and beyond Environments in a Changing World John Huckle, Adrian Martin, 2014-09-19 While there is no shortage of books on the environment there are few introductory texts that outline the social theory that informs human geographical approaches to the interactions between ecology and society Students arriving at university often lack the understanding of history economics politics sociology and philosophy that contemporary human geography requires Environments in a Changing World addresses this deficit providing foundation knowledge in a form that is accessible to first year students and applied to the understanding of both contemporary environmental issues and the challenge of sustainability Students are challenged to develop and defend their own ethical and political positions on sustainability and respond to the need for new forms of ecological citizenship Land Air Sea Jennifer Ferng, Lauren Jacobi, 2023-12-14 Land Air Sea Architecture and Environment in the Early Modern Era positions the long Renaissance and eighteenth century as being vital for understanding how many of the concerns present in contemporary debates on climate change and sustainability originated in earlier centuries Traversing three physical and intellectual domains Land Air Sea consists of case studies examining how questions of environmentalism were formulated in early modern architecture and the built extraction of Brazil nuts and babacu kernels in an increasingly globalised market In Vietnam the process of de collectivising rights to land is examined with a view to understand how gender and other social differences are reworked in a market economy The book addresses a gap in the literature on land tenure and gender in developing countries It raises new questions about the process of globalisation particularly about who the actors are local people the state NGOs multinational companies and the shifting relations amongst them The book also challenges the very concepts of gender land and globalization
