Remarks On Colour Works From South Africa 1985-1995:

Zoë Wicomb & the Translocal Kai Easton, Derek Attridge, 2017-09-25 This is the first book on the fiction of Zo Wicomb a writer long at the forefront of the South African canon and whose international stature was firmly secured with the award of an inaugural Windham Campbell prize at Yale in 2013 It brings together interdisciplinary essays from the UK USA South Africa and Australia demonstrating Wicomb's importance as a novelist short story writer and critic The central focus of the volume is the translocal a term that navigates the complex and shifting relations between disparate localities respecting the situatedness of each locality within its immediate geopolitical context while investigating the connections and contrasts that operate between them In Wicomb's case her work stems from a dual allegiance to two localities both in her fiction as in her life South Africa's Western Cape and the west of Scotland In tracking the relations contemporary and historical between these sites her fiction reveals a consistent interest in and interrogation of home and belonging space and place it also offers telling insights into questions of race and gender The historical processes of colonization and migration that have produced translocal connections of this kind are central to postcolonial studies to which this book makes a significant contribution Exploring the visual and cartographical and extending debates on the transnational and cosmopolitan that are currently taking place across disciplines including literary studies geography history politics and anthropology the collection covers the range of Wicomb's work It also features an unanthologised essay by Wicomb herself an interview and a suite of photographs by Sophia Klaase whose images of Namaqualand inspired Wicomb's most recent novel October History of Photography Laurent Roosen, Luc Salu, 1989-01-01 The fourth volume in a history of photography this is a bibliography of books on the subject Apartheid and Racism in South African Children's Literature 1985-1995 Donnarae MacCann, Yulisa Amadu Maddy, 2013-09-13 While white racism has global dimensions it has an unshakeable lease on life in South African political organizations and its educational system Donnarae MacCann and Yulisa Maddy here provide a thorough and provocative analysis of South African children's literature during the key decade around Nelson Mandela's release from prison Their research demonstrates that the literature of this period was derived from the same milieu intellectual educational religious political and economic that brought white supremacy to South Africa during colonial times This volume is a signal contribution to the study of children's literature and its relation to racism and social conditions Artbibliographies Modern, 1998 Starring Mandela and Cosby Ron Krabill, 2010-09-15 During the worst years of apartheid the most popular show on television in South Africa among both Black and White South Africans was The Cosby Show Why did people living under a system built on the idea that Black people were inferior and threatening flock to a show that portrayed African Americans as comfortably mainstream Starring Mandela and Cosby takes up this paradox revealing the surprising impact of television on racial politics The South African government maintained a ban on television until 1976 and according to Ron Krabill they were right to be wary of its potential power The medium he contends created a shared space for communication in a deeply divided nation that seemed destined for civil war along racial lines At a time when it was illegal to publish images of Nelson Mandela Bill Cosby became the most recognizable Black man in the country and Krabill argues his presence in the living rooms of white South Africans helped lay the groundwork for Mandela's release and ascension to power Weaving together South Africa's political history and a social history of television Krabill challenges conventional understandings of globalization offering up new insights into the relationship between politics and the media

Making Place, Making Self Inger Birkeland, 2017-03-02 Making Place Making Self explores new understandings of place and place making in late modernity covering key themes of place and space tourism and mobility sexual difference and subjectivity Using a series of individual life stories it develops a fascinating polyvocal account of leisure and life journeys These stories focus on journeys made to the North Cape in Norway the most northern point of mainland Europe which is both a tourist destination and an evocation of a reliable and secure point of reference an idea that gives meaning to an individual s life The theoretical core of the book draws on an inter weaving of post Lacanian versions of feminist psycho analytical thinking with phenomenological and existential thinking where place making is linked with self making and homecoming By combining such ground breaking theory with her innovative use of case studies Inger Birkeland here provides a major contribution to the fields of cultural geography tourism and feminist studies Cumulated Index Medicus ,2000 An Earth-colored Sea Miguel Vale de Almeida,2004-03-01 Although the post colonial situation has attracted considerable interest over recent years one important colonial power Portugal has not been given any attention This book is the first to explore notions of ethnicity race culture and nation in the context of the debate on colonialism and postcolonialism The structure of the book reflects a trajectory of research starting with a case study in Trinidad followed by another one in Brazil and ending with yet another one in Portugal The three case studies written in the ethnographic genre are intertwined with essays of a more theoretical nature The non monographic composite or hybrid nature of this work may be in itself an indication of the need for transnational and historically grounded research when dealing with issues of representations of identity that were constructed during colonial times and that are today reconfigured in the ideological struggles over cultural meanings Dissertation Abstracts International ,2002 South African Botanical Art Marion I.
