The French Renaissance Court, 1483-1589 Robert Jean Knecht, 2008 The court of France in the 16th century has often been seen merely as a focus of political intrigue and conflict but it was also a cultural centre in which the visual arts music literature and sport flourished This book traces the court's evolution from a nomadic institution to a more sedentary and inspiring one

A Renaissance Court Gregory Lubkin, 2023-09-01 Ambitious extravagant progressive and sexually notorious Galeazzo Maria Sforza inherited the ducal throne of Milan in 1466 at the age of twenty two Although his reign ended tragically only ten years later the young prince's court was a dynamic community where arts policy making and the panoply of state were integrated with the rhythms and preoccupations of daily life Gregory Lubkin explores this vital but overlooked center of power allowing the members of the Milanese court to speak for themselves and showing how dramatically Milan and its ruler exemplified the political cultural religious and economic aspirations of Renaissance Italy Ambitious extravagant progressive and sexually notorious Galeazzo Maria Sforza inherited the ducal throne of Milan in 1466 at the age of twenty two Although his reign ended tragically only ten years later the young prince's court was a dynamic comm

Gender, Space and Experience at the Renaissance Court Maria Maurer, 2025-10-01 Gender Space and Experience at the Renaissance Court investigates the dynamic relationships between gender and architectural space in Renaissance Italy It examines the ceremonial use and artistic reception of the Palazzo Te from the arrival of the Holy Roman Emperor Charles V in 1530 to the Sack of Mantua in 1630 This book further proposes that we conceptualise the built environment as a performative space a space formed by the gendered relationships and actors of its time The Palazzo Te was constituted by the gendered behaviors of sixteenth century courtiers but it was not simply a passive receptor of gender performance Through its multivalent form and ceremonial function Maria F Maurer argues that the palace was an active participant in the construction and perception of femininity and masculinity in the early modern court

Italian Renaissance Courts Alison Cole, 2016 This fascinating study of Renaissance courtly art and culture in fifteenth and early sixteenth century Italy encompasses the most recent scholarship on the courts court art and noble values Alison Cole not only considers the role of artists but explores the distinctive uses to which art was put at the courts from the smaller duchies and princely courts of Ferrara Mantua and Urbino to the larger courts of Naples and Milan The social intellectual and artistic milieu of each court is brought vividly to life along with the complex personalities of the rulers their relationships with the civic and ecclesiastical authorities and the role of court women as patrons of the arts Drawing on a wide range of contemporary texts and visual material Cole paints a rich picture of these extraordinary courts in the moment of their greatest brilliance

Virtue and Magnificence Alison Cole, 1995

Between the two splendid poles of Naples and Milan the two great rival powers of Italy were a cluster of duchies and princely courts each with its own desire for fame Like small jewels these isolated towns and palaces glittered with artworks of the greatest virtuosity and remarkably innovative literature music and the sciences In the service of their own magnificence these great cities and tiny duchies gathered to themselves a remarkable collection of brilliant artists poets and scholars The courts were the personal possessions of princes including at least one woman their task in the game of Italian politics was to maintain their status wealth and independence through skillful marriages force of arms strength of personality and cultural power Their aim as patrons of the arts and sciences was to enhance their prestige their honor and their glory Alison Cole explores these extraordinary courts large and small in the moment of their greatest brilliance seeing them as the inheritors of a medieval courtly tradition in contrast to Florence and Venice whose model was ancient Rome Four Courts in the Crystal Palace Crystal Palace Company (Sydenham, London, England), Sir Matthew Digby Wyatt, John Burley Waring, 1854

Art of the Italian Renaissance Courts Alison Cole, 2005-03-17 Alison Cole reveals to us another side of the Renaissance that of the individual patrons and their world This unique book is both a scholarly discussion in the tradition of Jakob Burckhardt and a tour through Renaissance Italy described with charm and filled with detail BOOK JACKET

Court in the Crystal Palace Sir Matthew Digby Wyatt, 1854 The Fine Arts' Courts in the Crystal Palace Crystal Palace Company (Sydenham, London, England), 1854 The Age of Reformation Alec Ryrie, 2013-12-16 The sixteenth century was an age of Reformation There was religious reformation as Protestantism came to England Scotland and even Ireland bringing liberation chaos and bloodshed in its wake And there was political reformation as the Tudor and Stewart later Stuart monarchs made their authority felt within and beyond their kingdoms more than any of their predecessors Together these two reformations produced not only a new religion but a new politics absolutist yet pluralist populist yet law bound and a new society controlled fractured yet more widely engaged and empowered than ever before In this book Alec Ryrie provides an authoritative overview of these momentous events showing how religion politics and social change were always intimately interlinked from the murderous politics of the Tudor court to the building and fragmentation of new religious and social identities in the parishes Drawing on the most recent research he explains why events took the course they did and why that course was so often an unexpected and an unlikely one The Ten Chief Courts of the Sydenham Palace Crystal Palace,1854 Women Artists in the Early Modern Courts of Europe Tanja L. Jones,2025-10-01 Women Artists in the Early Modern Courts of Europe c 1450 1700 presents the first collection of essays dedicated to women as producers of visual and material culture in the Early Modern European courts offering fresh insights into the careers of among others Caterina van Hemessen Sofonisba Anguissola Luisa Rold n and Diana Mantuana Also considered are groups of female makers such as ladies in waiting at the seventeenth century Medici court Chapters address works by women who occupied a range of social and economic positions within and around the courts and across media including paintings sculpture prints and textiles Both individually and collectively the texts deepen understanding of the individual artists and courts highlighted and more broadly consider the variety of experiences of female makers across traditional geographic and chronological distinctions The book is also accompanied by the Global Makers Women Artists in the Early Modern Courts digital humanities project www.globalmakers.ua.edu extending and expanding the work begun here The Early Modern Child in Art and History Matthew Knox Averett,2015-10-06 Childhood is not only a biological age it is also a social construct The essays in this collection range chronologically from the fifteenth to the eighteenth century and geographically across England France Germany Italy and Spain They chart the depictions of children in various media including painting sculpture and the graphic arts Art and Identity in Early Modern Rome Jill Burke,2017-07-05 From the late fifteenth to the late seventeenth century Rome was one of the most vibrant and productive centres for the visual arts in the West Artists from all over Europe came to the city to see its classical remains and its celebrated contemporary art works as well as for the opportunity to work for its many wealthy patrons They contributed to the eclecticism of the Roman artistic scene and to the diffusion of Roman artistic styles in Europe and beyond Art and Identity in Early Modern Rome is the first book length study to consider identity creation and artistic development in Rome during this period Drawing together an international cast of key scholars in the field of Renaissance studies the book adroitly demonstrates how the exceptional quality of Roman court and urban culture with its elected monarchy its large foreign population and unique sense of civic identity interacted with developments in the visual arts With its distinctive chronological span and uniquely interdisciplinary approach Art and Identity in Early Modern Rome puts forward an alternative history of the visual arts in early modern Rome one that questions traditional periodisation and stylistic categorisation Nature in the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Times Albrecht Classen,2024-07-01 The study of pre modern anthropology requires the close examination of the relationship between nature and human society which has been both precarious and threatening as well as productive soothing inviting and pleasurable Much depends on the specific circumstances as the works by philosophers theologians poets artists and medical practitioners have regularly demonstrated It would not be good enough as previous scholarship has commonly done to examine simply what the various writers or artists had to say about nature While modern scientists consider just the hard core data of the objective world cultural historians and literary scholars endeavor to comprehend the deeper meaning of the concept of nature presented by countless writers and artists Only when we have a good grasp of the interactions between people and their natural environment are we in a position to identify and interpret mental structures social and economic relationships medical and scientific concepts of human health and the messages about all existence as depicted in major art works In light of the current conditions threatening to bring upon us a global crisis it matters centrally to take into consideration pre modern discourses on nature and its enormous powers to understand the topoi and tropes determining the concepts through which we perceive nature Nature thus proves to be a force far beyond all human comprehensibility being both material and spiritual depending on our critical approaches
