Aging and Quality of Life Helen Gift, PhD, Marcia G. Ory, PhD, MPH, Ronald P. Abeles, PhD, 1994-07-12 In this timely and important work expert gerontologists review what has been learned about the aged and the process of aging and link this knowledge to interventions for improving the quality of life This volume highlights the development of preventive therapeutic and rehabilitative interventions designed to assist older people maintain their independence and quality of life In addition to the editors chapter authors include Robert N Butler Matilda White Riley Carroll Estes and a foreword by James O Mason

Pharmacokinetics and Drug Interactions in the Elderly and Special Issues in Elderly African-American Populations Committee on Pharmacokinetics and Drug Interaction in the Elderly, Institute of Medicine, 1997-09-08 Reports in the popular press about the increasing longevity of Americans and the aging of the baby boom generation are constant reminders that the American population is becoming older Consequently an issue of growing medical health policy and social concern is the appropriate and rational use of medications by the elderly Although becoming older does not necessarily correlate with increasing illness aging is associated with anatomical and physiological changes that affect how medications are metabolized by the body Furthermore aging is often related to an increased frequency of chronic illness often combined with multiple health problems and an increased use of medications Thus a better understanding of the absorption distribution metabolism and excretion of drugs of the physiologic responses to those medications as well as of the interactions among multiple medications is crucial for improving the health of older people
