Bodies of Thought Ann Thomson,2008-07-03 Examining the development of a secular purely material conception of human beings in the early Enlightenment Bodies of Thought provides a fresh perspective on the intellectual culture of this period and challenges certain influential interpretations of irreligious thought and the Radical Enlightenment Beginning with the debate on the soul in England in which political and religious concerns were intertwined and ending with the eruption of materialism onto the public stage in mid eighteenth century France Ann Thomson looks at attempts to explain how the material brain thinks without the need for an immaterial and immortal soul She shows how this current of thinking fed into the later eighteenth century Natural History of Man the earlier roots of which have been overlooked by many scholars Although much attention has been paid to the atheistic French materialists their link to the preceding period has been studied only partially and the current interest in what is called the Radical Enlightenment has served to obscure rather than enlighten this history By bringing out the importance of both Protestant theological debates and medical thinking in England and by following the different debates on the soul in Holland and France this book shows that attempts to find a single coherent strand of radical irreligious thought running through the early Enlightenment coming to fruition in the second half of the eighteenth century ignore the multiple channels which composed Enlightenment thinking The Admissible Contents of Experience Katherine Hawley, Fiona Macpherson, 2011-09-07 Which objects and properties are represented in perceptual experience and how are we able to determine this The papers in this collection address these questions together with other fundamental questions about the nature of perceptual content The book draws together papers by leading international philosophers of mind including Alex Byrne MIT Alva No University of California Berkeley Tim Bayne St Catherine s College Oxford Michael Tye University of Texas Austin Richard Price All Souls College Oxford and Susanna Siegel Harvard University Essays address the central questions surrounding the content of perceptual experience Investigates how are we able to determine the admissible contents of experience Published in association with the journal Philosophical Quarterly The Oxford Handbook of Charles Dickens Robert L.
