Malcolm,Michael Roe,2003-06-30 The Cambridge International Workshop on Security Protocols has now run for eight years Each year we set a theme focusing upon a speci c aspect of security protocols and invite position papers Anybody is welcome to send us a position paper yes you are invited and we don t insist they relate to the current theme in an obvious way In our experience the emergence of the theme as a unifying threadtakesplaceduringthediscussionsattheworkshopitself Theonlyground rule is that position papers should formulate an approach to some unresolved issues rather than being a description of a nished piece of work Whentheparticipantsmeet wetrytofocusthediscussionsupontheconc tual issues which emerge Security protocols link naturally to many other areas of Computer Science and deep water can be reached very quickly Afterwards we invite participants to re draft their position papers in a way which exposes the emergent issues but leaves open the way to their further development We also prepare written transcripts of the recorded discussions These are edited in some cases very heavily to illustrate the way in which the di erent arguments and perspectives have interacted We publish these proceedings as an invitation to the research community Although many interesting results rst see the light of day in a volume of our proceedings laying claim to these is not our primary purpose of publication Rather we bring our discussions and insights to a wider audience in order to suggest new lines of investigation which the community may fruitfully pursue Security Protocols XX Bruce Christianson,James Malcolm, Frank Stajano,Jonathan Anderson,2012-11-28 This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed post workshop proceedings of the 20th International Workshop on Security Protocols held in Cambridge UK in April 2012 Following the tradition of this workshop series each paper war revised by the authors to incorporate ideas from the workshop and is followed in these proceedings by an edited transcription of the presentation and ensuing discussion The volume contains 14 papers with their transcripts as well as an introduction i e 29 contributions in total The theme of the workshop was Bringing protocols to life Security Protocols Bruce Christianson,Bruno Crispo,William S. Security Protocols Bruce Christianson, Bruno Crispo, James A. Malcolm, Michael Roe, 2003-12-19 Once again we bring you the proceedings of the International Workshop on Security Protocols It seems hard to believe that we have reached the tenth event in this annual series This year our theme was Discerning the Protocol Participants Security protocols are usually described in terms of the active participants Alice computes foo and sends it to Bob However most security protocols also include online participants which are not synchronously involved in the exchange of messages a bank may participate on behalf of a customer and an arbiter may subsequently be asked to interpret the meaning of a run These silent partners to the protocol have their own security policies and assumptions about identity authorization and capability need to be examined when the agenda of a hidden participant may change We hope that the position papers published here which have been rewritten and rethought in the light of the discussions at the workshop will be of interest not just for the specific contributions they make but also for the deeper issues which they expose In order to identify these issues more clearly we include transcripts for some of the discussions which took place in Cambridge during the workshop What would you have liked to add Do let us know

Security Protocols XVI Bruce Christianson, James Malcolm, Vashek Matyas, Michael Roe, 2011-07-01

This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed post proceedings of the 16th International Workshop on Security Protocols SP 2008 held in Cambridge UK in April 2008 The 17 revised full papers presented together with edited transcriptions of some of the discussions following the presentations have gone through multiple rounds of reviewing revision and selection The theme of this workshop was Remodelling the Attacker with the intention to tell the students at the start of a security course that it is very important to model the attacker but like most advice to the young this is an oversimplification Shouldn't the attacker's capability be an output of the design process as well as an input The papers and discussions in this volume examine the theme from the standpoint of various different applications and adversaries

Security Protocols Bruce Christianson, Bruno Crispo, James A. Malcolm, Michael Roe, 2003-06-30 Hello and welcome These are the proceedings of the 9th International

Workshop on Security Protocols the first to be held in the new millennium This year our theme was mobile computing versus immobile security As usual the insights and challenges which emerged during the workshop are reflected in the position papers which appear here in rewritten form Transcripts are also included of the discussions which took place in Cambridge as the initial versions were presented These transcripts are intended to provide a perspective on lines of argument which are worth pursuing further Our desire is that you will join with us in this activity and that as a result you will like many of our participants feel moved to propound something quite different from what you originally planned Our thanks as always to Prof Roger Needham FRS and to Microsoft Research Ltd Cambridge for the use of the meeting room and coffee machine Thanks also to Lori Klimaszczyńska of the University of Cambridge Computing Service for transcribing the audio tapes and for revealing in Audrey James a previously unsuspected double life of a well known double agent and to Dr Mary Buchanan for her assistance in editing the transcripts into a Thucydidean mould Actually we are often asked how we go about producing the transcripts especially upon those occasions when for various reasons no audio recording was made This year we bow to pressure and reveal the details of our methodology in the Afterword
