Canada-UK Colloquium (1998 : Halifax, N.S.),1998 Defence Industries in the 21st Century Çağlar Kurç, Richard A. Bitzinger, Stephanie G. Neuman, 2021-05-13 Defence Industries in the 21st Century explores the transformation in the global defence industrial production through examining the interaction between international and domestic factors With the global defence industry and arms market likely continue to expand and mature the ways in which this progression could influence international politics remain obscure In practice as the contents of this book show the defence industrial bases and arms export policies of emerging states display significant variance This variance is the result of a unique balance between domestic and international factors that has shaped the defence industrialisation behaviour and policies of the less industrialised states One of the most important conclusions of the book is that the interplay between domestic and international factors clearly influences the variation in the emerging states defence industrialisation policies as well as their success or failure While international factors create opportunities they also limit the options available to emerging economies Domestic factors also play an important role by shaping the policy choices of the states decision makers Exploring the balance between international and domestic factors and the ways in which they influence defence industrialisation in emerging states Defence Industries in the 21st Century will be of great interest to scholars of Defence Industries Arms Manufacturing and Defence Strategic and Security Studies more generally The chapters were originally published in Defence Studies Comparative Strategy and All Azimuth

War as Business Armin Krishnan, 2016-03-03 The privatization of defence assets and the outsourcing of military services from the armed forces to the private sector is an increasing trend This book approaches the issue of military privatization by linking it to the transformation of the defence industries since the early 1990s and shows the extent to which many military functions and activities ranging from military research to military consulting training to operational support services have already been outsourced in the US and in Europe This detailed study provides new and updated information on the ongoing privatization of the defence sector and offers an original theoretical explanation as to why the most modern armed forces throughout the world have come increasingly to rely on private companies for nearly everything they do Contributing to a better understanding of military privatization and its close connection to technological change the book explains the complexity of the whole phenomenon and discusses its implications for national and international security The Economics of the Global Defence Industry Keith Hartley, Jean Belin, 2019-11-08

This book makes an original contribution to our knowledge of the world's major defence industries. Experts from a wide range of different countries from the major economies of North America and Western Europe to developing economies and some unique cases such as China, India, Singapore, South Africa and North Korea describe and analyse the structure, conduct and performance of the defence industry in that country. Each chapter opens with statistics on a key nation's defence spending, its spending on defence R D and on procurement over the period 1980 to 2017, allowing for an analysis of industry changes following the end of the Cold War. After the facts of each industry, the authors describe and analyse the structure, conduct and performance of the industry. The analysis of structure includes discussions of entry conditions, domestic monopoly, oligopoly structures and opportunities for competition. The section on conduct analyses price, non-price competition, including private and state-funded R D and performance, incorporates profitability, imports and exports together with spin-offs and technical progress. The conclusion explores the future prospects for each nation's defence industry: Do defence industries have a future? What might the future defence firm and industry look like in 50 years' time? This volume is a vital resource and reference for anyone interested in defence economics, industrial economics, international relations, strategic studies and public procurement.

Dangerous Trade Jennifer Erickson, 2015-05-19

The United Nations's groundbreaking Arms Trade Treaty (ATT) which went into effect in 2014 sets legally binding standards to regulate global arms exports and reflects the growing concerns toward the significant role that small and major conventional arms play in perpetuating human rights violations, conflict and societal instability worldwide. Many countries that once staunchly opposed shared export controls and their perceived threat to political and economic autonomy are now beginning to embrace numerous agreements such as the ATT and the EU Code of Conduct. Jennifer L. Erickson explores the reasons top arms-exporting democracies have put aside past sovereignty, security and economic worries in favor of humanitarian arms transfer controls and she follows the early effects of this about-face on export practice. She begins with a brief history of failed arms export control initiatives and then tracks arms transfer trends over time. Pinpointing the normative shifts in the 1990s that put humanitarian arms control on the table, she reveals that these states committed to these policies out of concern for their international reputations. She also highlights how arms trade scandals threaten domestic reputations and thus help improve compliance. Using statistical data and interviews conducted in France, Germany, Belgium, the United Kingdom and the United States, Erickson challenges existing IR theories of state behavior while providing insight into the role of reputation as a social mechanism and the importance of government transparency and accountability in generating compliance with new norms and rules Defence Diplomacy and National Security Strategy Ian Liebenberg, Dirk Kruijt, Shrikant Paranjpe, 2020-04-20 The post cold war era presented security challenges that at one level are a continuation of the cold war era at another level these phenomena manifested in new forms Whether the issues of economics and trade transfer of technologies challenges of intervention or humanitarian crisis the countries of the South previously pejoratively labelled Third World or developing countries have continued to address these challenges within the framework of their capabilities and concerns The volume explores defence diplomacies national security challenges and strategies dynamics of diplomatic manoeuvres and strategic resource management of Latin American southern African and Asian countries Forces for Good Graeme Cheeseman, 2004 Forces for good develops and explores the concept of cosmopolitan militaries It examines how governments militaries and institutions have responded politically doctrinally and operationally to claims that militaries have a new role in cosmopolitan law enforcement that allows and perhaps even requires the use of force to protect and defend those who are the victims of gross abuse of human rights The contributors include academics defence practitioners and serving military officers BOOK JACKET Producing Security Stephen G. Brooks, 2011-10-16 Scholars and statesmen have debated the influence of international commerce on war and peace for thousands of years Over the centuries analysts have generally treated the questions Does international commerce influence security and Do trade flows influence security as synonymous In Producing Security Stephen Brooks maintains that such an overarching focus on the security implications of trade once made sense but no longer does Trade is no longer the primary means of organizing international economic transactions rather where and how multinational corporations MNCs organize their international production activities is now the key integrating force of global commerce MNC strategies have changed in a variety of fundamental ways over the past three decades Brooks argues resulting in an increased geographic dispersion of production across borders The author shows that the globalization of production has led to a series of shifts in the global security environment It has a differential effect on security relations in part because it does not encompass all countries and industries to the same extent The book's findings indicate that the geographic dispersion of MNC production acts as a significant force for peace among the great powers The author concludes that there is no basis for optimism that the globalization of production will promote peace elsewhere in the world Indeed he finds that it has a net negative influence on security relations among developing countries The Global Arms Trade Andrew T. H. Tan, 2014-05-22 The Global Arms Trade is a timely comprehensive and in depth study of this topic a phenomenon which has continued to flourish despite the end of the Cold War and the preoccupation with global terrorism after 11 September 2001 It provides a clear description and analysis of the demand for and supply of modern weapons systems and assess key issues of concern This book will be especially useful to scholars policy analysts those in the arms industry defence professionals students of international relations and security studies media professionals government officials and those generally interested in the arms trade

Japan's Evolving Security Policy Kyoko Hatakeyama, 2021-03-23 Japan has been expanding its military roles in the post-Cold War period. This book analyses the shift in Japan's security policy by examining the collective ideas of political parties and the effect of an international norm. Starting with the analysis of the collective ideas held by political parties, this book delves into factors overlooked in existing literature, including the effects of domestic and international norms, as well as how an international norm is localised when a conflicting domestic norm already exists. The argument held throughout is that these factors play a primary role in framing Japan's security policy. Overall, three security areas are studied: Japan's arms trade ban policy, Japan's participation in United Nations Peacekeeping Operations, and Japan's enlarged military roles in international security. Close examination demonstrates that the weakening presence of the left since the mid-1990s and the localisation of an international norm encouraged Japan to broaden its military role.

Providing a comprehensive picture of Japan's evolving security policy this book asserts that shifts have occurred in ways that do not violate the pacifist domestic norm Japan's Evolving Security Policy will appeal to students and scholars of International Relations Asian Politics Asian Security Studies and Japanese Studies
