North Carolina has a rich and diverse history In 1901 the American Missionary Association hired a young woman Charlotte Hawkins Brown to teach at a small school in eastern Guilford County The school closed in 1902 and at the request of the local residents Brown remained and opened the Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial Institute which in later years became a world renowned African American preparatory school that educated children from the wealthiest families in the United States and six foreign nations Sedalia and the Palmer Memorial Institute traces the growth and development of a rural Southern community that made an impact on the nation Charlotte Hawkins Brown & Palmer Memorial Institute

Charles Weldon Wadlington,Richard F. Knapp,1999 She stayed for over half a century When the failing school was closed at the end of her first year Brown remained to carry on With virtually no resources save her own energy and determination she founded Palmer Memorial Institute a private secondary school for African Americans In the fifty years during which she led the school Brown built Palmer up to become one of the premier academies for African American children in the nation Of the hundreds of African American schools operating in North Carolina around 1900 only Palmer gained national renown outlasting virtually every other such school BOOK JACKET Scenes from the Palmer Memorial Institute

 Carney Smith,2014-10-16 The Harlem Renaissance is considered one of the most significant periods of creative and intellectual expression for African Americans Beginning as early as 1914 and lasting into the 1940s this era saw individuals reject the stereotypes of African Americans and confront the racist social political and economic ideas that denied them citizenship and access to the American Dream While the majority of recognized literary and artistic contributors to this period were black males African American women were also key contributors Black Women of the Harlem Renaissance Era profiles the most important figures of this cultural and intellectual movement Highlighting the accomplishments of black women who sought to create positive change after the end of WWI this reference work includes representatives not only from the literary scene but also ActivistsActressesArtistsEducatorsEntrepreneursMusiciansPolitical leaders Scholars By acknowledging the women who played vital if not always recognized roles in this movement this book shows how their participation helped set the stage for the continued transformation of the black community well into the 1960s To fully realize the breadth of these contributions editors Lean tin L Bracks and Jessie Carney Smith have assembled profiles written by a number of accomplished academics and historians from across the country As such Black Women of the Harlem
